Palestinian Centre for Human Rights

The Centre is an independent Palestinian human rights organization based in Gaza City. The Centre enjoys Consultative Status with the ECOSOC of the United Nation. It is an affiliate of the International Commission of Jurists-Geneva; the International Federation for Human Rights (FIDH) - Pairs; member of the Euro-Mediterranean Human Rights Network - Copenhagen; member of the International Legal Assistance Consortium (ILAC) - Stockholm; member of the Arab Organization for Human Rights - Cairo; and member of the World Coalition against the Death Penalty - Rome. It is a recipient of the 1996 French Republic Award on Human Rights, the 2002 Bruno Kreisky Award for Outstanding Achievements in the Area of Human Rights and the 2003 International Service Human Rights Award (UNAIS). The Centre was established in 1995 by a group of Palestinian lawyers and human rights activists in order to:

* Protect human rights and promote the rule of law in accordance with international standards.
* Create and develop democratic institutions and an active civil society, while promoting democratic culture within Palestinian society.
* Support all the efforts aimed at enabling the Palestinian people to exercise its inalienable rights in regard to self-determination and independence in accordance with international Law and UN resolutions.

The work of the Centre is conducted through documentation and investigation of human rights violations, provision of legal aid and counseling for both individuals and groups, and preparation of research articles relevant to such issues as the human rights situation and the rule of law. The Centre also provides comments on Palestinian Draft Laws and urges the adoption of legislation that incorporates international human rights standards and basic democratic principles. To achieve its goals, the Centre has recruited a committed staff of well-known human rights lawyers and activists.
The Centre determined after a thorough legal assessment of the peace accords signed by the PLO and the Israeli government that the occupation would continue both physically and legally. According to these agreements Israel has redeployed its forces inside the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, while Israeli settlements and military installations maintain their presence in Palestinian territory. The major legal aspects of the Israeli occupation remain in place. Israeli military orders that safeguard Israeli control over the Palestinian people and their land remain valid in accordance with the peace agreement. The Israeli military court is still functioning and to this day thousands of Palestinians languish in Israeli prisons. The essential elements of the Palestinian issue remain unresolved - the right to self-determination, the right to an independent Palestinian state with its capital in Jerusalem, the right of return for Palestinian refugees, and the right to remove illegal Israeli settlements from the Occupied Territories. All of these constitute basic unfulfilled rights of the Palestinian people. In light of this wide-ranging disregard for Palestinian rights, the Centre concludes it must continue its work to protect Palestinian human rights from ongoing violations by the Israeli government and courts.

The peace accords and the major political changes resulting from the agreement, including the establishment of the Palestinian National Authority in part of the Occupied Territories, has led to a vital and active role for the Centre in protecting civil and political rights and in promoting the development of democratic institutions, an active civil society, and a democratic legal system in Palestine.
Work Units of the Centre

The Centre is composed of specialised working units which carry out their activities in an autonomous but integrated manner.

Field Work Unit
The field work is considered the basic activity of the Centre. Well-trained field workers located in different areas of the Gaza Strip obtain accurate and documented legal information on human rights violations in the Gaza Strip. They gather information in the field from victims and witnesses of human rights violations. The information is received by the co-ordinator of the unit and other researchers to verify accuracy. Through the field workers’ presence in the field the Centre has been able to maintain close contacts with the community. In this way, the community is able to influence the work of the Centre and the Centre is able to meet the community’s interests and demands.

Legal Unit
This unit is composed primarily of a team of lawyers who give free legal aid and counselling to individuals and groups. The unit also carries out legal intervention with concerned bodies and makes legal representations before courts in cases that involve broad principles of human rights that affect not just the individual before the court but the community as a whole. Furthermore, the unit attempts to support the independence of the judiciary and the rule of law.

Democratic Development Unit
This unit specialises in the promotion of democracy and the promotion of civil society and the rule of law. The unit’s team carries out research and organises workshops and seminars to discuss issues on human rights and democracy. The unit’s team also prepares comments on draft laws prepared by the Palestinian Authority in an effort to influence the decision-making process and the adoption of democratic laws. The unit has been also involved in providing training on human rights and democracy for youth groups.

Economic and Social Rights Unit
This unit seeks to ensure the importance of economic and social rights through research and study. Such work is particularly important because it tends to be neglected, to some extent, by other human rights organisations. To achieve its goals the unit conducts studies, workshops, and seminars that focus attention on economic and social rights in the West Bank and Gaza Strip. The unit seeks to develop recommendations and standards for each of these rights to be fulfilled in the Palestinian situation. Moreover, the unit reviews and assesses the legislation and draft laws pertaining to these rights adopted by the Palestinian Authority in an effort to secure legislation that is in harmony with international standards. The unit further seeks to provide an informative training base for governmental and non-governmental personnel who are empowered to set plans and implement programs and policies relevant to these rights. The goal of such training is to help bring economic and social rights into alignment with the standards accepted internationally and to ensure the maximum degree of implementation of these rights.

Woman Rights Unit
This Unit was established as a pilot project in May of 1997 for one year, renewable upon assessment of its accomplishments. The initial project was established after a thorough and comprehensive study of the conditions of Palestinian women and the work of women’s institutions in the Gaza Strip. The Unit aims to provide legal aid for women and women’s organisations. Intervention on behalf of women in Shari’a courts is included in its mandate. The Unit further aims to raise awareness of women’s rights established by international human rights conventions and to raise the awareness of Palestinian women in regard to their rights under local law. Finally, the Unit is carrying out studies on Palestinian women and the law, while supporting the amendment of local laws inconsistent with women’s rights.

The Training Unit
The Training Unit is a main instrument in PCHR’s work in disseminating and developing a human rights culture, and promoting democratic concepts in the local community with all its various segments. The Unit organizes and holds training courses and workshops in order to develop theoretical knowledge and provide professional skills that can contribute to a real change in the behavior of the society, which in turn can promote respect for, and protection of human rights and participation in community building. The target groups of the training courses and workshops are particularly the youth, including university students, activists of political parties, lawyers, media, union members, and other civil society groups.

The Library
The Centre has established a specialised legal library in subjects related to local and international law, human rights, and democracy. The library includes books and periodicals in both Arabic and English and includes all Palestinian laws and Israeli military orders. Documents pertaining to laws of neighbouring Arab countries are also available. Furthermore, the library includes a variety of books and periodicals detailing the Palestinian question and the Arab-Israeli conflict. The library is open for the free use of researchers, academics, and students.
Funding of the Centre

The Centre is funded by the generous contributions of a number of international non-governmental organizations in the fields of human rights, democracy, and social justice and a number of Governments which has friendly relationships with the Palestinian people. PCHR highly appreciates the contributions of funding organizations, especially:

The Palestinian Centre for Human Rights is an independent legal body dedicated to the protection of human rights, the promotion of the rule of law, and the upholding of democratic principles in the Occupied Territories. Most of the Centre’s activities and interests concentrate on the Gaza Strip due to the restriction on movement between the West Bank and Gaza Strip imposed by the Israeli government and its military apparatus.

This report is the outcome of PCHR’s activities in 2008. PCHR has published annual reports since 1997.

PCHR’s 2008 Annual Report is divided into two sections:

- Part One provides a comprehensive picture of the human rights situation in the Occupied Palestinian Territory (OPT) from 1 January to 31 December 2008. It is divided into two sub-sections:
  1) Violations of international human rights and humanitarian law perpetrated by the Israeli Occupation Forces (IOF) in the OPT; and
  2) Human rights violations perpetrated by the Palestinian National Authority (PNA) and obstacles to democratic reform.

- Part Two documents all PCHR’s activities from 1 January to 31 December 2008. It covers activities by PCHR and its units at the local and international levels over the year.

PCHR’s 2008 financial report, which is prepared by an independent professional auditing institution, will be published as a separate document.

PCHR hopes that this report will contribute to the struggle for human rights by providing a comprehensive picture of the human rights situation in the OPT. It also hopes that relevant parties will follow the recommendations mentioned in this report, especially those recommendations which are directed to the international community and the PNA. This report serves as a guide for PCHR’s future work and also reflects PCHR’s strong belief in the importance of transparency for a non-profit, non-governmental organization that provides services to the community. It should also serve as a call for victims of human rights violations to approach PCHR for advice and assistance.
PART ONE

HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN THE OPT
Summary

While fireworks were flashing over the earth in celebration of the new year (2009), the Gaza Strip was spending a very hard night. IOF warplanes were drooping bombs whose weight amounted to 2,000 pounds each on towns, villages and refugee camps, gunboats at the coast in the west and artillery stationed to the north and east were firing shells at Palestinian civilians and their property. At that very night, IOF warplanes bombarded and destroyed the buildings of the Palestinian Legislative Council and the Ministry of Justice, in the context of the wide scale military offensive on the Gaza Strip, which started on 27 December 2008.

Over the last 5 days of 2008, the human rights situation in the Gaza Strip deteriorated in an unprecedented manner since Israeli occupied Palestinian territories in 1967. IOF launched a wide scale offensive on the Gaza Strip, which it named “Operation Cast Lead. It had been the most brutal offensive on the Gaza Strip since the beginning of the Israeli military occupation and even over the history of the Gaza Strip. On Saturday noon, 27 December 2008, while Palestinian civilians were actively practicing their daily life, IOF warplanes launched a series of air strikes simultaneously against police headquarters and stations throughout the Gaza Strip. Dozens of Palestinian police officers, as well as civilian bystanders, were killed or wounded. Such attacks soon expanded as IOF employed fighter jets, helicopter gunships, drones, gunboats and artillery to bombard public and civilian facilities, including ministries, municipalities, roads, bridges, fishing harbors, mosques, houses, workshops and factories. Over the last 5 days of 2008, IOF launched at least 300 air strikes against targets in the Gaza Strip.

By the end of 2008, the IOF military offensive on the Gaza Strip has been in its early stage. They first 18 days of 2009 witnessed more escalation in attacks by IOF, and the military offensive entered a new stage, when IOF launched a ground operation into Palestinian communities throughout the Gaza Strip, specially in Gaza City and the northern Gaza Strip, which had been cut off from other parts of the Gaza Strip. IOF killed civilians massively and extensively destroyed civilian property to the extent that completely changed the overall scene of some areas, such as al-Zaytoun, al-Shoja’eya, al-Tuffah and Tal al-Hawa neighborhoods in Gaza City, ‘Izbat ’Abed Rabbu area in the Jabalya town and al-’Atatra and al-Twam areas in Beit Lahia town.

IOF launched this wide scale military offensive on the Gaza Strip under suspicious international official silence that could be understood as a green line for IOF to commit crimes in the Gaza Strip. PCHR reiterates its condemnation for the international community’s position towards systematic crimes committed by IOF against Palestinian civilians in the Gaza Strip. PCHR stresses that IOF would not have gone that far with violations of international humanitarian law, which amounted to war crimes, without the agreement and silence of the international community. Contrary to Israeli claims that IOF did not target civilians, field investigations conducted by PCHR strongly indicate that what happened was a comprehensive military offensive against civilians who are protected under international humanitarian law.
During the 23-day military offensive on Gaza, IOF killed 1,417 Palestinians, including 1,181 ones who were not involved in hostilities, and accordingly considered protected under international humanitarian law (83.3% of the total number of victims). Of these, 926 were unarmed civilians (65.3% of the total number of victims) and 255 police officers, including 240 ones who were killed on the first day of the offensive while they were in police stations. The civilian victims included 313 children (26.5%) and 116 women (9.8%). The total number of the wounded was 4,336, including 1,133 (26.1%) and 735 women (17%).

In the last 5 days of 2008 – the period which is covered by this report – IOF killed 411 Palestinians and wounded 996 others, dozens of whom sustained serious wounds. Contrary to Israeli claims, the majority of victims were unarmed civilians; 143 civilian bystanders (34.8% of the total number of victims), and 247 police officers (60.1% of the total number of victims), who were not engaged in any hostilities, were killed as a result of these attacks. The civilian victims included 38 children and 13 women; most of them were killed while at or around homes. IOF also destroyed 25 public buildings; the headquarters of the Palestinian Legislative Council; 37 houses; 7 mosques; 3 fishing harbors; at least 20 workshops; and 4 shops of money exchange.

According to investigations conducted by PCHR, based on eyewitnesses’ testimonies and material evidence, IOF undoubtedly used excessive and disproportionate force against Palestinian civilians, who are protected under international humanitarian law. They disregarded the principles of distinction between civil and military targets, and proportionality of response to the opposite military power. These facts can explain the high number of deaths among Palestinian civilians, including children and women, as a result of human rights violations perpetrated by IOF over the year.

The deterioration in human rights situation in the OPT has never peaked as it was in 2008, the 60th anniversary of the Palestinian Nakba (the uprooting of the Palestinian people from their land in 1948), which took place a few months before the Universal Declaration of Human Rights.

The human rights situation in that past three years can never be separated from the three main factors that have contributed to further deterioration to the human rights situation. The first factor was escalating violations of human rights and international humanitarian law by IOF in the OPT, especially in the Gaza Strip, including willful killings and violations of the right to life; the tightened siege and restrictions on the freedom of movement; torture and cruel and inhuman treatment of Palestinian detainees; settlement activities and attacks by settlers; and continued construction of the Annexation Wall inside the West Bank territory.

The second factor was the international community’s position, which not only failed to fulfill legal obligations towards the Palestinian civilian population under international humanitarian law, but also effectively contributed to the financial sanctions imposed on the government that was formed following the second Palestinian legislative elections, which were held in January 2006. Such sanctions were uncommon in the history of international relations, as it was the first time for sanctions to be imposed on a people under occupation instead of taking effective measures against the occupying power that continues to commit crimes against civilians. and their property. The third factor was the continued internal conflict between Hamas and Fatah movements, the two major political players in the Palestinian arena, and the continued separation between the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. Not only has this conflict negatively impacted the performance of public institutions, but also contributed to deterioration in the human rights situation in the PNA controlled areas in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. Most violations of human rights at the internal level are attributed to the conflict between Hamas and Fatah movements and measures taken by the two governments and their security services in Gaza and Ramallah against supporters of the two movements.

Since the beginning of 2008, IOF had escalated crimes of willful killing and violations of the right to life, especially in the first half of the year. In the first half of 2008, IOF killed 409 Palestinians, including 225 civilians. The civilian victims included 58 children and 16 women. Additionally, IOF wounded 741 Palestinians. On 19 June 2008, a 6-month Egyptian-brokered Tahděy’a (lull) was declared between Palestinians and IOF. In the four months that followed the declaration of the Tahděy’a, only one Palestinian was killed by IOF. However, the Tahděy’a started to stagger in the last two months of 2008, which witnessed an Israeli military escalation, reflected in incursion into Palestinian area followed by extra-judicial execution of Palestinian activists, which left 10 Palestinians dead. On the other side, Palestinian resistance groups fired a number of homemade rockets into Israeli towns. Following the declaration of an end for the Tahděy’a on 19 December 2008, IOF launched a wide scale military offensive on the Gaza Strip, which continued for 23 days.

In the West Bank, IOF focused on extra-judicial executions of Palestinian activists from various factions. Such crimes did not stop all over the year, even during the period of the Tahděy’a. Most of those crimes were committed by IOF undercover units. In total, IOF killed 42 Palestinian civilians, including 9 children.

According to PCHR’s documentation, in 2008, 868 Palestinians died as a result of actions by IOF and settlers; this figure includes 820 Palestinians, including 371 civilians, in the Gaza Strip (94.5%).
commodities. IOF continued to impose severe restrictions on the movement of Palestinian civilians and goods. The total siege imposed by IOF on the Gaza Strip has left disastrous impacts on the humanitarian situation and has violated the economic and social rights of the Palestinian civilian population. It has also paralyzed most economic sectors. Poverty and unemployment in the Gaza Strip have sharply amounted to 80% and 55% respectively.

In the West Bank, including Jerusalem, IOF have continued to impose severe restrictions on the movement of Palestinian civilians through at least 630 checkpoints established throughout the West Bank. IOF have also continued to construct the Annexation Wall, which has added more restrictions on the movement of Palestinian civilians and has further cut off Jerusalem from the rest of the West Bank.

In 2008, IOF continued to arrest Palestinians during house raids, especially in the West Bank, and Israeli incursions into Palestinian towns, villages and refugee camps throughout the West Bank and Gaza Strip. Hundreds of Palestinians were also arrested at Israeli military checkpoints and roadblocks erected on roads and at entrances to Palestinian communities and at border crossings, especially in the West Bank. In 2008, IOF arrested at least 2,500 Palestinians (2,433 in the West Bank and 68 in the Gaza Strip).

By the end of 2008, at least 9,000 Palestinians, including 248 children and 69 women, were still in Israeli custody in detention facilities mostly inside Israel, in violation of article 76 of the Fourth Geneva Convention which obligates the occupying power to detain persons from occupied territory in that territory. At least 337 of these prisoners were arrested by IOF before the signing of the Oslo Accords in 1994, while the majority of prisoners have been detained by IOF since the beginning of the al-Aqsa Intifada in September 2000. The number of prisoners detained by IOF from West Bank is approximately 7,500, and the number of those from the Gaza Strip is at least 1,100. Additionally, IOF have continued to detain hundreds of Palestinians from Jerusalem and those who live inside Israel.

By the end of 2008, two Palestinian detainees died in Israeli jails. PCHR is concerned that those detainees might have died due to medical negligence. PCHR warns of further deterioration to the health conditions of dozens of detainees who suffer from chronic diseases and need medical treatment urgently.

In addition, arrest campaigns continued to target political leaders and representatives of the Palestinian people. By the end of 2008, IOF continued to detain at least 40 members of the Palestinian Legislative Council (PLC), the majority of whom are of the Change and Reform parliamentary bloc of Hamas, including Dr. ‘Aziz al-Dweik, Speaker of the PLC, and Dr. Mahmoud al-Ramahi, Secretary of the PLC. On 16 December, an Israeli court sentenced Dr. ‘Aziz al-Dweik, Speaker of the PLC, to 3 years of imprisonment. On 25 December, an Israeli court sentenced Ahmed Sa’adat, PLC member and Secretary General of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, to 30 years of imprisonment, charging him of planning for the assassination of the later Israeli Minister of Tourism, Rehavam Ze’vi, in 2001.

1 According to the Palestinian Ministry of Prisoners’ Affairs, 91 prisoners have served periods of imprisonment exceeding 20 years in Israeli jails, the oldest of them was Sa’id al-‘Ataba, from Nablus, who served 30 years of imprisonment and was released on the second half of 2008. By the end of 2008, two prisoners had completed 30 years of imprisonment in Israeli jails.
Palestinian prisoners in Israeli jails are subjected to various forms of torture and inhuman and degrading treatment. The long journey of their suffering starts with violent beating and insulting and extends to various method of torture practiced against them during interrogation. The suffering of Palestinian detainees does not stop with the end of the interrogation period, rather it continues throughout the period of detention. Palestinian detainees are subjected to cruel measures by the administrations of Israeli jails and detention centers, including: torture and degrading treatment; deprivation of sleeping; denial of access to appropriate medical care; denial of family visitation; and obstruction of access to legal counsel.

The Israeli General Security Service interrogators who practice torture against Palestinian detainees are granted impunity by the Israeli judiciary, including the Israeli High Court. Most of the complaints submitted with regard to torture practiced against Palestinian detainees are not considered, and even when some are considered, the perpetrators cynically receive light punishment.

The Israeli government, its occupations forced and settlers living in the OPT in violation of international law have continued activities or settlement expansion in the West Bank. Armed Israeli settlers, protected by IOF, have also continued to commit crimes against Palestinian civilians and property.

In 2008, IOF and their civil wings, such as the Municipality of Jerusalem, Ministry of Housing, Ministry of Interior and the Higher Council of Organization invited bids for the construction of 2,400 housing units in the OPT. This number includes 100 units in “Alakanah” and “Ariel” settlements near Salfit town in the northern West Bank. The remaining units were planned to be constructed in settlements established in East Jerusalem and its suburbs, such as “Pisgat Ze’ev”, “Har Homa” and “Beitar Elite” settlements. Israeli authorities also approved and/or endorsed the construction of 6,570 housing units in settlements established in East Jerusalem and its suburbs, including the settlements of “Neve Yacoub”, “Ramat Shlomo”, “Har Homa”, “Givat Ze’ev” and “Givat Hamatos.” Thus, the number of housing units, whose construction was started or approved in 2008 was 8,970, most of which are inside the boundaries of Jerusalem, which were unilaterally decided by IOF.

In the context of ethnic cleansing practiced against Palestinian civilians living in Area C as categorized the Oslo Accords of 1993, the Israeli High Court rejected a petition submitted by the Committee against House Demolition, which demanded the cancellation of orders to demolish many houses in al-‘Aqaba village in the northern Jordan Valley. If these orders were implemented, at least 60% of the total number of houses in the village would be demolished and the area of the village would be reduced from 3,000 to 100 donums. This court ruling further supports PCHR’s view that the Israeli judiciary has turned into a tool to legalize illegal Israeli measures and settlement activities in the OPT.

The court ruling also came in the context of an Israeli policy that aims at sealing off the Jordan Valley along the eastern border of the West Bank. In the context of this policy, IOF confiscated at least 416 donums of agricultural land in Kherbat Samra area, east of Tubas town, and Bardala village in the northern Jordan Valley, for the purpose of settlement expansion.

The Israeli government and its occupation forces have continued settlement activities in East Jerusalem and suburbs in the context of efforts to Judaize the city. They have cut off the city from its Palestinian extension in the West Bank, have constructed new sections of the Annexation Wall, have continued activities of settlement expansion inside and around the city. The Israeli Ministry of Interior has continued to confiscate identity cards of Palestinian civilians, while the Municipality of Jerusalem has continued to demolish their houses under allegations of unlicensed construction.

In 2008, IOF, through the Municipality of Jerusalem, continued to demolish Palestinian houses throughout the city and its suburbs under claims of unlicensed construction. The municipality has continued to impose prolonged and complicated procedures for issuing construction licensed for Palestinian civilians, who are under the pressure of strong needs of natural growth to build new houses or expand existing ones without obtaining licenses.

IOF have continued preparations to establish a railway network in Jerusalem. The IOF Municipality of Jerusalem started this project in 2006. This network aims at linking Israeli settlements located to the northeast of Jerusalem with West Jerusalem. The project has long-term goals of undermining any possible Palestinian sovereignty over the city in any future political solutions.

Additionally, IOF have continued to impose severe restrictions on activities of Palestinian NGOs in Jerusalem claiming that they are linked with Palestinian Liberation Organizations (PLO) and/or the Palestinian National Authority (PNA), even though the identity and activities of those NGOs are clear. Measures by IOF included storming offices of NGOs banning official and public meetings even if they were social ones, claiming that such activities are linked with the PLO or the PNA.

In 2008, attacks by Israeli settlers against Palestinian civilians and property continued. PCHR documented 170 attacks by Israeli settlers, in comparison with 100 attacks in 2007. Most of these attacks (90) took place in Hebron. In 2008, 5 Palestinian civilians were killed by Israeli settlers in the OPT; four civilians were shot dead whereas the fifth one was run down. This brings the number of Palestinian civilians killed by Israeli settlers to 45 since the beginning of the current Intifada in September 2000. Attacks by Israeli settlers often take place before the eyes of IOF, which even protect them. IOF also neglect complaints submitted by Palestinian civilians concerning attacks launched by settlers, thus encouraging them to launch more attacks.

In the last month of 2008, attacks by Israeli settlers against Palestinian civilians and their property became more systematic. After the Israeli High Court ordered the evacuation of al-Rajabi building, which had been seized by Israeli settlers in Hebron since 19 March 2007, Israeli settlers launched a series of attacks throughout the West Bank, using firearms. IOF did not intervene to stop such attacks, and even provided protection to settlers.
In 2008, IOF continued to destroy Palestinian houses and other civilian property in the OPT, especially in East Jerusalem. Destruction of houses and civilian property constitute grave breaches of international humanitarian law that amount to war crimes. Article 53 of the Fourth Geneva Convention of 1949 provides that “any destruction by the Occupying Power of real or personal property belonging individually or collectively to private persons, or to the State, or to other public authorities, or to social or cooperative organizations, is prohibited, except where such destruction is rendered absolutely necessary by military operations.” Article 147 of the Convention prohibits “extensive destruction and appropriation of property, not justified by military necessity and carried out unlawfully and wantonly.” Such attacks are a form of collective punishment and reprisals against the Palestinian civilian population in violation of article 33 of the Fourth Geneva Convention, which states that “no protected person may be punished for an offence he or she has not personally committed. Collective penalties and likewise all measures of intimidation or of terrorism are prohibited. Pillage is prohibited. Reprisals against protected persons and their property are prohibited.”

Over the year, IOF indiscriminately attacked all civilian property, including houses, schools, industrial and commercial facilities, agricultural land and public buildings. They used various means to carry out the destruction of civilian property; they employed the law to demolish houses under the pretext of the lack of licenses, as it was the case in Jerusalem, they destroyed civilian property through air strikes; and they destroyed civilian property during military incursions into Palestinian communities.

According to PCHR’s documentation, in 2008, IOF destroyed 216 houses in the OPT (107 in the West Bank and 109 in the Gaza Strip. They also heavily damaged 680 houses in the Gaza Strip.

IOF have continued to construct the Annexation Wall, in violation of international humanitarian law.

The end of 2008 was characterized by wanton destruction of civilian property in the context of the IOF offensive on the Gaza Strip, which started on 27 December 2008. In the first strike, IOF attacked at least 100 targets throughout the Gaza Strip, destroying hundreds of buildings, facilities and houses. That strike and subsequent ones destroyed security sites; public and governmental buildings, including the headquarters of the Palestinian Legislative Council; hospitals; clinics; universities; schools; kindergartens; industrial and commercial facilities; NGOs; and agricultural land.

IOF have continued to construct the Annexation Wall, in spite of the Advisory Opinion issued by the International Court of Justice on 4 July 2004. In the past 7 years, IOF completed the construction of many sections of the Wall, which is being constructed inside the West Bank territory rather than along the Green Line separating the West Bank from Israel. Israel, which sticks to security claims to create unilateral new facts on the ground, has used the Wall as a birder in its negotiations with Palestinians, who aspire to establish their state within the 4 June 1967 boundaries. The Wall has created new facts on the ground that makes it difficult to talk about the establishment of a viable, contiguous Palestinian state.
The construction in 2008 was mainly focused around Jerusalem. IOF have completed the construction of the majority of the section of the Wall around the city according to the plans of the Israeli Municipality of Jerusalem. In the end of 2008, the Israeli Prime Minister, Ehud Olmert, instructed IOF to complete the construction of the Wall by 2009.

The construction of the Wall in the south, north and east of Jerusalem comes in the context of a settlement project known as “Jerusalem envelope,” whose length is approximately 50 kilometers. The northern section of the Wall starts from Bitounia town, northwest of Jerusalem, passing through Qalandya area, and ends near al-Ram town, north of Jerusalem. The construction of this section, whose length is 8 kilometers, has been completed and Qalandya checkpoint between Ramallah and Jerusalem has been transformed into an international crossing point. Another section of the Wall has been constructed on Ramallah – Jerusalem road between Qalandya and Dahiat al-Barid checkpoints, placing Palestinian areas in the west within the boundaries of Jerusalem according to Israeli annexation plans. Palestinian areas in the east, which are densely populated areas, have been kept within the boundaries of the West Bank. IOF have also placed cement blocks in Wadi ‘Ayad area between Dahiat al-Barid and al-Aqbat areas near “Neve Ya’coub” settlement, north of East Jerusalem.

IOF started to construct a 17-kilometer-long part of the eastern section, extending form al-Khas and al-No’man villages, east of Bethlehem, to Abu Dis and al-Eizariya villages in the south. The other part covers a distance of fourteen kilometers, from the southern edge of ‘Anata to the Qalandya checkpoint on the north. It surrounds al-Ram, ‘Anata and Kufor ‘Aqab villages, Shu’fat refugee camp, and Sameeramis suburb.

The southern section of the Wall around Jerusalem extends from al-Khas and al-No’man villages, east of Bethlehem, passing through Beit Sahour, Bethlehem and Beit Jala towns, to the Tunnels roads, southwest of Bethlehem. IOF have completed the construction of large parts of this section. They have also established a new crossing to the north of Bethlehem. This section separates between Jerusalem and Bethlehem, and deprives hundreds of Palestinian civilians of access to their land located to the north of the Wall (approximately 8,000 donums).

IOF have imposed severe restrictions on the movement of Palestinians on both sides of the Wall. In 2008, IOF imposed additional restrictions on the movement of Palestinians. IOF decreased hours of opening gates established along the Wall, restricting access of Palestinian farmers to their agricultural lands which are isolated behind the Wall. During the season of olive cultivation, IOF impose a strict system of restrictions on the movement of Palestinian farmers. Thousands of Palestinians have difficulty going to their fields and marketing their produce in other areas of the West Bank. Farming is a primary source of income in the Palestinian communities situated along the Wall’s route. The harm to the farming sector is liable to have drastic economic effects on the residents – whose economic situation is already very difficult – and drive many families into poverty.

The impacts of restrictions on the movement of Palestinians have not been limited to the agricultural sector, rather they have included other aspects
In light of the failure of the Israeli judiciary to ensure justice for Palestinian civilians in the OPT, PCHR, in cooperation with a number of international legal and human rights organizations, has resorted to international legal means to prosecute Israeli war criminals. PCHR continued such efforts in 2008. In this context, on 24 June 2008, PCHR filed a lawsuit at the National Court of Spain, the highest Spanish judicial council, against seven former senior Israeli military officials. These include former Defense Minister Benjamin Ben-Eliezer, his former military advisor, Michael Herzog, former Israeli Army Chief of Staff Moshe Ya’alon and Dan Halutz, former Commander of the Israeli Air Force, who are all suspected of committing a war crime in the Gaza Strip in July 2002. On 29 January 2009, the Spanish National Court instructed the seven suspects to present themselves to the court in Spain within 30 days. If the suspects failed to do so, the court would issue international warrants for their arrests. In addition to this ground-breaking decision, the Spanish National Court announced that, if intent to exterminate the Palestinian population can be proven, the charge may be increased to genocide. PCHR welcomed this decision as the first step towards justice for the survivors of a massive extra-judicial execution operation perpetrated by IOF in the Gaza Strip in July 2002.

By the end of 2008, political fragmentation and conflict in the Palestinian National Authority (PNA) had further escalated in an extension of the internal fighting of June 2007 that ended with Hamas’ takeover of the Gaza Strip. The conflict has caused a deep division in the Palestinian political systems, which has been reflected in the continued operation of two governments and separate police and security forces in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. The vision has also continued in the legislature, as the Change and Reform Bloc affiliated to Hamas has continued to hold sessions in Gaza and enacting legislations, although other parliamentary blocs have boycotted such sessions. On the other hand, the Palestinian President and the government in Ramallah have continued to trespass the legislature by issuing decrees that have the power of law, but applicable only in the West Bank. Additionally, the judiciary has continued to be seriously impacted since Hamas’ illegal takeover of the judiciary in the Gaza Strip, and accordingly two separate have been working in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank.

Not only has the political conflict impacted the performance of the governance establishment, but it also has led to further deterioration to the human rights situation in the PNA controlled areas. Most violations of human rights are attributed to the conflict between Hamas and Fatah movements, and measures taken by the two governments in Gaza and Ramallah against Fatah members and Hamas members respectively.

As the conflict and political fragmentation in the PNA have escalated, as well as due to the external factors that have undermined the democratic process following the Palestinian legislative elections of January 2006, Palestinians have moved farther away from the track of the democratic process. There were hopes that efforts to ensure national reconciliation and dialogue would prove fruitful, but all such efforts failed and the internal situation further deteriorated and Palestinians were disappointed.

The second half of 2008 witnessed widespread national controversy regarding the end of Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas’ term in office on 9 January 2009. Hamas and the government in Gaza claimed the current Presidential term would end on 8 January 2009, in accordance with the end of the four-year period since the last Presidential Election was held on 9 January 2005. They stated that, unless new Presidential elections were held at that time, the Presidential post would become vacant. At this point the Speaker of the Palestinian Legislative Council (PLC) would temporarily fill the vacancy for 60 days, during which period new elections would be held in order to elect a new President of the PNA, as stated in the Palestinian Basic Law. However, Fatah movement and the government in Ramallah claimed that Election Law No. 9 (2005), which was passed by the PLC, extended the President’s term in order to allow simultaneous elections for the PLC and the Palestinian Presidency to be held at the end of the PLC term in January 2010.

PCHR conducted extensive legal discussions over this issue. It recruited the assistance of legal experts, including constitutional law experts. It also conducted a thorough analysis of statements and claims issued by both by Fatah and Hamas supporters. Following such discussions, PCHR issued a position paper representing the conclusions it reached, which the PCHR hoped would contribute to clarifying the issues involved, and undermining the manipulation of law in order to serve political interests. PCHR warned of continued fragmentation in the PNA institutions, which would lead to further deterioration of the Palestinian people’s struggle for self-determination, and place additional burdens on Palestinians across the OPT. In its position paper, PCHR argued that there is no provision in the Basic Law stating that the end of the 4-year Presidential term constitutes a vacancy in the Presidential post. If that was the case, the legislators would have explicitly stated so.

Even though PCHR realizes that the end of the Presidential term requires holding Presidential elections prior to 10 January 2009, holding such elections require appropriate conditions and environment to ensure fairness and transparency in all stages of the electoral process to reflect the electorate’s will. In light of the ongoing split between Fatah and Hamas, the conditions and environment in the OPT do not ensure free and transparent elections reflecting the will of the electorate. Current conditions do not indicate that this environment would change in the foreseeable future if both sides do not immediately start serious and constructive dialogue in order to end the split and agree on elections or another solution in order to re-unify the OPT and the political leadership of the PNA. In light of these problems, PCHR concluded that without a comprehensive national dialogue for all Palestinian factions, including Fatah and Hamas movements, putting the interests of the Palestinian people above the narrow, factional interests of the conflicting parties, appropriate conditions to hold legislative and presidential elections would not be achieved.
The internal situation and continued fragmentation in the PNA, as well as the international boycott the Israeli siege imposed on the Gaza Strip negatively impacted efforts to complete elections of local councils in the PNA controlled areas. According to the Palestinian Electoral Law, news elections are supposed to be held for local councils that were elected in the first stage of local elections that were held 23 December 2004 for 26 local councils in the West Bank and on 27 January 2005 for 10 local councils in the Gaza Strip. However, by the end of 2008, such elections had not been held and no dates had been specified for holding such elections. Moreover, by the end of 2008, elections for 59 local councils in the West Bank and the Gaza, including major cities, had not been held. Concerning the local councils of al-Boreij, Beit Lahia and Rafah, for which the Palestinian judiciary decided a return of elections in 2005, they continued to be managed by councils appointed by the government in Gaza.

In 2008, violations of the right of life and attack on personal security in the OPT continued. In 2008, 146 Palestinians, including 25 children and 13 women, were killed and at least 411 others were wounded by Palestinians. The excessive use of force by law enforcement officials was the major form of violations of the rights to life. Two persons were also killed as a result of other forms of violence and misuse of weapons, which are part of the sate of lawlessness and security chaos spreading over the OPT.

In 2008, 26 Palestinians were killed by Palestinian security officers during processes of law enforcement in the Gaza Strip. Additionally, at least 170 others, including 20 children and 7 women, were wounded. Excessive force was used during attempts to arrest suspects or wanted persons, and during armed clashes with Palestinian clans. Regrettably, no investigation was conducted into such incidents and no legal action was taken against shooters.

In 2008, 64 Palestinians, including 19 children and 8 women, were killed and at least 150 others were wounded as a result of the misuse of weapons by known and unknown armed groups, in the context of the state of lawlessness plaguing the OPT. Those incidents endangered the security and safety of Palestinians and continued to cause casualties as legal action to confront them were absent. Incidents of the misuse of weapons included storage of weapons in populated areas; use of weapons by unknown groups; and use of weapons by militias.

Weapons continued to be employed in personal and clan disputes in the context of the state of lawlessness plaguing the OPT. In 2008, 22 Palestinians, including 3 children and two women, were killed, and 49 others were wounded in personal and clan disputed.

In 2008, 3 Palestinian women and one man were killed “to protect family honor.” PCHR has often expressed deep concern over the continuation of murders related to the so called protection of family honors, as murderers are granted impunity with sentences of imprisonment for short periods. PCHR calls for taking deterring measures to deal with such murders, which are a form of willful killing, taking into consideration the law and international human rights instruments.
In the last 5 days of 2008, unidentified gunmen killed 17 and detainees who fled Gaza Central Prison, which lies in the Palestinian security compound (al-Saraya) in central Gaza City, after the IOF had bombarded the compound on 28 December, 2008. The prisoners who fled included persons sentenced to death for collaboration with Israeli Security Services, those convicted of committing other criminal offenses, and persons who had been detained for questioning or were awaiting trial. According to testimonies given to PCHR by the families of those who were killed, as well as by eyewitnesses, unidentified gunmen abducted a number of prisoners whilst they were fleeing Gaza Central Prison, and their dead bodies were found a few days later in different areas of the Gaza Strip. Other prisoners and detainees who had escaped were abducted from their homes, and later found either dead or seriously injured. Some of the most seriously injured subsequently died of their injuries.

PCHR holds IOF responsible for the lives of those persons who were detained inside the prison, as targeting a prison, where dozens of civilians convicted or suspected of serious security and criminal crimes were detained, can never be justified. Nevertheless, PCHR believes that pursuing and killing those persons after fleeing as such constitute a form of security chaos and lawlessness. Accordingly, PCHR calls upon the Attorney-General to investigate these crimes and bring the perpetrators to the judiciary.

In 2008, illegal arrests and crimes of torture increasingly continued in 2008 under the state of political fragmentation in the PNA. Some political and field leaders of Fatah and Hamas movements were arrested in mutual reactions between the two sides, who did not admit that such arrests were political and claimed that they were based on security or criminal offenses.

In many cases, arrests are not carried out in accordance with appropriate legal procedures. Sometimes, arrests are conducted by parties that are not authorized of law enforcement, in violation of the Palestinian law, under which arrests fall under the mandate of judicial officials, including the civil police, who are under the supervision of the Attorney-General. Other time, arrests are conducted by law enforcement officials, but without following necessary legal procedures, including having arrest warrants issued by the Attorney-General. Additionally, detainees are held in illegal detention centers, which lack the minimum standards of appropriate detention conditions, in violation of the Law of Reform and Rehabilitation Centers of 1998.

In the Gaza Strip, hundreds of Palestinians, especially supporters and members of Fatah movement, were arrested by security services of the Gaza government. Mostly, such arrests were based on security or criminal allegations, such as accusations of involvement in explosions against security officials in Gaza or public places, or having contacts with the Ramallah government. The largest arrest campaign waged by security services was that one that followed an explosion at Gaza beach on 26 July 2008, which killed 6 Palestinians, including members of the ‘Izziddin al-Qassam Brigades of Hamas. The arrest campaign targeted hundreds of activists of Fatah movement who were arrested by the Internal Security
In 2008, 3 detainees died in prisons and detention centers in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip; two detainees died in the West Bank and the third one died in the Gaza Strip.

Service and the police. The campaign also targeted 18 persons with leading positions in Fatah movement, including secretary generals of Fatah movement in various districts, the spokesman of Fatah movement in Gaza, Dr. Hazem Abu Shanab, and the governors of Khan Yunis and Gaza, Dr. Ussama al-Farra and Mohammed al-Qidwa.

In the West Bank, Palestinian security services waged arrest campaigns against activists and supporters of Hamas, including senior leaders and PLC members. Such arrests were based on allegations of possession of weapons, forming armed groups, establishing an executive force aiming at disrupting public order, or having contacts with the Gaza government. The largest arrest campaign by security services in the West Bank was the one that came in response in arrest campaigns against activists of Fatah movement and closure of a number of institutions close to Fatah movement in the Gaza Strip following the explosion at Gaza beach on 26 July. The campaign targeted at least 100 Palestinians, including academics, imams of mosques, university students, teachers and mayors affiliated to Hamas.

In a continuation of the aforementioned arrest campaigns, in early August, security services in the West Bank arrested more supporters and members of Hamas in Qalqilya and Nablus. Some of the detainees were released later, while others remained in custody.

In light of persistent demanded by PCHR and other civil society organizations to put and end to political arrests by the two governments in Gaza and Ramallah, the Gaza government released 18 political prisoners from Fatah movement on 30 October 2008 as a good will initiative. Civil society groups welcomed this step and demanded a similar one in the West Bank.

In the majority of cases of detention in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, members of Hamas and Fatah movements respectively were subjected to methods of torture and ill-treatment. Such methods included: insulting; beating using batons, sharp tools, feet and hands; and tying the feet and hands to a chair and beating with batons or wires of feet; and other methods. PCHR received many complaints from Palestinians who had been detained by the two governments in Gaza and Ramallah that they were subjected to various methods of torture and ill-treatment. In many occasions, detainees were taken to hospitals as they had been subjected to extreme torture in detention centers.

In 2008, 3 detainees died in prisons and detention centers in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip; two detainees died in the West Bank and the third one died in the Gaza Strip. In light of practicing detainees to various methods of torture and degrading treatment in prisons and detention centers that lack the minimum standards of appropriate detention conditions, including access to appropriate medical care, PCHR is concerned that these detainees died because of such circumstances.

In 2008, violations of the right to freedom of expression and assaults against press freedoms escalated in an unprecedented manner. The two governments in Gaza and Ramallah and their executive services perpetrated serious violations of this right in their respective controlled areas. Violations of this right by the two governments included detention of journalists; beating and humiliation; banning the distribution of newspapers; preventing journalists for carrying out their job; and storming media institutions and offices.

In 2008, violations of the right to peaceful assembly escalated as the two governments in Gaza and Ramallah imposed severe restrictions on the right to peaceful assembly, which is ensured by the Palestinian Basic Law, the Public Meetings Law and international human rights instruments. In spite of the many differences between the two governments at the political and legal levels, they both uphold the Executive Bill of the Public Meetings Law issued by the Interior Minister in 2000, which PCHR and other human rights organizations strongly criticized since it undermines the right to peaceful assembly and puts it and subjects it to licensing by the Ministry of Interior. PCHR documented more cases of banning the organization of peaceful demonstrations, sit-ins, public meetings and celebrations in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank. Even though the number of such cases in 2008 was less than those documented in 2007, it is not an indication of improved performance of the two governments, rather it an indication of a state of abstention from organizing peaceful assembly fearing of security repercussions. It was clear that many of such violations of the right to peaceful assembly were closely related to the state of fragmentation in the PNA; in the Gaza Strip, Fatah movement was prevented from organizing peaceful assemblies, including the celebration of its anniversary, while Hamas was prevented from organizing similar activities in the West Bank.

In 2008, violations of the right to association continued throughout the OPT. Such violations escalated under the ongoing political fragmentation in the PNA. The two governments in Gaza and Ramallah attacked associations affiliated to each other, including societies, unions, sports clubs and partisan offices. In the Gaza Strip, the government and its security services waged a wide scale campaign against dozens of NGOs, including societies, sports clubs and partisan offices most of which are related to Fatah movement, in the context of measures they took following a crime committed at Gaza Beach on 25 July 2008. Such measures also included the detention of dozens of supporters and leaders of Fatah movement. Following insistent calls by civil society organizations, the Ministry of Interior in Gaza ordered reopening dozens of institutions that had been closed during the campaign, while dozens of others have remained closed under the pretext of being illegal. However, belongings of some of the institutions that were reopened were not returned. In the West Bank, the situation was not less worse as attacks on the right to association continued, especially attacks against institutions and associations related to Hamas. In 2008, Palestinian security services in the West Bank stormed and confiscated property of a number of institutions and associations.

In 2008, the issue of application of the death penalty in the PNA witnessed a negative development, as a number of death sentences were issued making a setback to the positive developments at this level in 2006 and 2007, during which time, Palestinian courts did not issue ant death sentence, nor did any
Over the year, a total of 9 death sentences were issued by Palestinian courts – 4 ones in the Gaza Strip and another 5 in the West Bank. Most of these sentences were issued by military courts. Additionally, 3 sentences to death against 3 men issued in previous years were supported. Thus, the number of death sentences issued by Palestinian courts (military, state security and civil) since the establishment of the PNA in 1994 has mounted to 83, including 13 ones that have been implemented. Even though none of such sentences were implemented by official bodies, following the IOF bombardment of Gaza Central Prison, which led some prisoners to flee, militants pursued and killed those prisoners. PCHR documented a number of statements by Hamas officials, which indicate that Hamas was involved in such killings.

PCHR emphasizes that the death penalty constitutes a flagrant violation of international human rights instruments. It is a form of cruel, inhuman and degrading punishment, and it does not either constitute a deterrent. Accordingly, PCHR calls upon the PNA to make necessary legal amendments to abolish laws that stipulates the application of the death penalty.

The political crisis in the PNA and the authorities conflict between the two Palestinian governments in Gaza and Ramallah have negatively impacted the economic and social conditions of the public service employees in the Gaza Strip; both military and civil ones. Measures taken by the two governments, including the cutting off of salaries of thousands of public services employees, employing new individuals in a manner violating the Civil Service Law, and the dismissal, marginalization and substitution of hundreds of employees in the public service in the Gaza Strip, have left severe impacts the living conditions of employees and undermined their ability to provide means of subsistence for themselves and for their families. In 2008, all public services, especially educational and health ones, were negatively impacted by a general strikes organized by the public service employees in the Gaza Strip. PCHR strongly condemned such strikes considering them politically motivated.

On 14 October 2008, in violation of the Palestinian law, the Palestinian Ministry of Education in the West Bank sent written notices to dozens of teachers affiliated to Hamas, dismissing them from their teaching posts. PCHR strongly condemned this illegal measure, and called upon the Palestinian government in Ramallah to reverse this decision, and refrain from pushing public service employees into the ongoing conflict between the Fatah and Hamas movements. PCHR called for neutralizing the public service sector and not to pushing it into the political conflict, but instead to utilize the Public Service Law as a basis for dealing with all issues related to public service employees. It also called for ensuring respect and support of the right to work, and the right to be employed in public jobs, and promoting equal opportunities based on qualifications and experience, without any discrimination on whatever basis, including discrimination based on political orientation or partisan affiliation.
Recommendations

This section details PCHR’s recommendations to the international community and the PNA. PCHR hopes that the international community will take PCHR’s recommendations into consideration and take effective steps to enforce international law. PCHR also hopes that the PNA, including both governments in Gaza and Ramallah, will work towards realizing these recommendations in the context of its responsibilities.

Recommendations to the International Community

- PCHR calls for investigating Israeli war crimes and grave breaches, especially those perpetrated by IOF against Palestinian civilians and their property during the latest military offensive on the Gaza Strip between 27 December 2008 and 18 January 2009.

- PCHR calls upon the international community, including the High Contracting Parties to the Fourth Geneva Convention, to end the strict siege imposed by IOF on the Gaza Strip since June 2006, which peaked in the second half of 2007 following internal fighting that ended with Hamas’ takeover of the Gaza Strip.

- PCHR calls upon the High Contracting Parties to the Fourth Geneva Convention to fulfill their legal & moral obligations, including to ensure Israel’s respect for the Convention in the OPT in accordance with Article 1. PCHR believes that the international silence towards grave breaches of the Convention perpetrated by IOF in the OPT serves to encourage Israel to act as a state above law & results in the perpetration of more grave breaches.

- PCHR reminds the international community and the High Contracting Parties to the Fourth Geneva Convention that the Israeli occupation of the Gaza Strip remains effective in its physical and legal forms in spite of the implementation of the Disengagement Plan, which is a form of redeployment of IOF rather an end to occupation in the Gaza Strip.

- PCHR calls upon international civil society organizations, including human rights organizations, bar associations and solidarity groups, to lobby for governmental action in respect of bringing Israelis responsible for the violations of international law to justice.

- PCHR calls upon the international community to take effective steps to dismantle the Annexation Wall being constructed inside the West Bank territory. PCHR particularly calls upon the United Nations to take measures that conform to the Advisory Opinion issued by the International Court of Justice, the highest international judicial body, in 2004, which considers the Wall illegal.

- PCHR calls upon the European Union to activate Article 2 of the EU-Israel Association Agreement, which provides that both sides must respect human rights as a precondition
PCHR calls upon Fatah and Hamas movements to initiate dialogue to end the current political crisis and end the division in PNA, which has expanded to impact all components of the Palestinian political system.

For economic cooperation between the EU states and Israel. PCHR also calls upon all states to prohibit import of goods produced in illegal Israeli settlements in the OPT.

As Israel and its occupation forces have continued to impose severe restrictions on access of international solidarity groups to the OPT and Israel, PCHR calls for ensuring the freedom of movement of international delegations visiting the OPT similar to the freedom enjoyed by Israeli citizens abroad.

PCHR reiterates that any political settlement not based on international human rights law and humanitarian law cannot lead to a peaceful and just solution of the Palestinian cause. Rather, such settlement can only lead to further suffering and instability in the region. PCHR calls upon governments and civil society organizations to implement the international law at the Palestinian level.

Recommendations to the PNA

- PCHR calls upon Fatah and Hamas movements to initiate dialogue to end the current political crisis and end the division in PNA, which has expanded to impact all components of the Palestinian political system and maintain the separation between the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

- PCHR calls for retaining the dignity of the judiciary and taking effective measures to ensure its non-politicization in the context of the existing conflict.

- PCHR calls for reactivating the legislature through joint efforts by all parliamentary blocs to stop all maneuvers that have paralyzed the Palestinian Legislative Council.

- Calls for making efforts to ensure appropriate conditions to hold presidential and parliamentary elections, and to conclude elections for local councils in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip in order to renew the legitimacy of the Palestinian people’s representatives.

- PCHR calls for stopping all political arrests that target activists of Fatah and Hamas movements in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank respectively and to ensuring the release of political prisoners, and stopping torture and cruel treatment in detention centers administered by security services in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank.

- PCHR calls for stopping crimes of torture in detention centers managed by security services in the Gaza Strip & the West Bank.

- PCHR calls for taking effective measures to end the state of lawlessness plaguing the OPT, which has taken the lives of hundreds of Palestinian civilians.

- PCHR calls for ensuring the right of the freedom of expression, including stopping all attacks against journalists and media institutions, especially those affiliated to parties of the current internal conflict.

- PCHR calls for ensuring the right of peaceful assembly, including peaceful demonstrations and public meetings provided that the peaceful nature of such activities is maintained.

- PCHR calls for ensuring the right of association, stopping attacks against associations and abstaining for pushing civil society organizations into any conflict.

- PCHR calls for the abolition of the death penalty and abstention from implementing death sentences that have been issued so far.

- PCHR calls upon the PNA to adhere to international human rights standards and make sure that all measures it takes conform to international human rights standards and respect basic rights of citizens.
Section 1

Israeli Violations of Human Rights and International Humanitarian Law
Excessive Use of Force, Killings and Other Violations of the Right to Life

In 2008, IOF continued the use of excessive force, willful killing and violations of the right to life against the Palestinian civilian population in the OPT. Killings committed by IOF escalated in an unprecedented manner in the last 5 days of 2008, when IOF launched a wide scale military offensive on the Gaza Strip, which continued from 27 December 2008 to 18 January 2009. The first day of the offensive was the bloodiest one since 1967, as IOF surprisingly launched dozens of air strikes against dozens of stations, sites and premises of the Palestinian civil police throughout the Gaza Strip, causing dozens of deaths and injuries among police officers and civil bystanders. In the last 5 days of 2008 – the period which is covered by this report – IOF killed 411 Palestinians and wounded 996 others, dozens of whom sustained serious wounds. Contrary to Israeli claims, the majority of victims were unarmed civilians; 143 civilian bystanders (34.8% of the total number of victims), and 247 police officers (60.1% of the total number of victims), who were not engaged in any hostilities, were killed as a result of these attacks. The civilian victims included 38 children and 13 women; most of them were killed while at or around homes.

During the 23-day military offensive on Gaza, IOF killed 1,417 Palestinians, including 1,181 ones who were not involved in hostilities.

During the 23-day military offensive on Gaza, IOF killed 1,417 Palestinians, including 1,181 ones who were not involved in hostilities, and accordingly considered protected under international humanitarian law (83.3% of the total number of victims). Of these, 926 were unarmed civilians (65.3% of the total number of victims) and 255 police officers, including 240 ones who were killed on the first day of the offensive while they were in police stations. The civilian victims included 313 children (26.5%) and 116 women (9.8%). The total number of the wounded was 4,336, including 1,133 (26.1%) and 735 women (17%).

Since the beginning of 2008, IOF had escalated crimes of willful killing and violations of the right to life, especially in the first half of the year. They launched air strikes against civilian targets and conducted wide scale incursions into border areas in the Gaza Strip. Additionally, IOF escalated extra-judicial executions, through air strikes, against persons whom they accuse of involvement in “hostilities against Israel,” including those who launch home-made rockets into Israeli towns near the border. of the Gaza Strip. In the first half of 2008, IOF killed 409 Palestinians, including 225 civilians. The civilian victims included 58 children and 16 women. Additionally, IOF wounded 741 Palestinians.

On 19 June 2008, a 6-month Egyptian-brokered Tahdey’a (lull) was declared between Palestinians and IOF, according to which IOF would stop attacks against Palestinians, including shelling and extra-judicial executions, while Palestinians would stop launching home-made rockets into Israeli towns. Additionally, IOF would gradually reopen border crossing to allow the movement of persons and goods to and from the Gaza Strip. While Palestinian resistance activities were stopped, including firing home-made rockets into Israeli towns, IOF implemented the first part of the deal by stopping killings of Palestinian resistance activists, but did not commit to the other part of the deal; that is, gradually reopening border crossings. According to PCHR’s documentation, in June, July, August and September, only one Palestinian was killed by IOF. In their turn, Palestinian resistance groups were generally committed to the Tahdey’a, excluding little home-made rocket firing.

However, the Tahdey’a started to stagger in the last two months of 2008, which witnessed an Israeli military escalation, reflected in incursion into Palestinian area followed by extra-judicial execution of Palestinian activists, which left 10 Palestinians dead. On the other side, Palestinian resistance groups fired a number of home-made rockets into Israeli towns. Following the declaration of an end for the Tahdey’a on 19 December 2008, IOF launched a wide scale military offensive on the Gaza Strip, which continued for 23 days.

In the West Bank, IOF focused on extra-judicial executions of Palestinian activists from various factions. Such crimes did not stop all over the year, even during the period of the Tahdey’a. Most of those crimes were committed by IOF undercover units. In total, IOF killed 42 Palestinian civilians, including 9 children.

According to PCHR’s documentation, in 2008, 868 Palestinians died as a result of actions by IOF and settlers; this figure includes 820 Palestinians, including 371 civilians, in the Gaza Strip (94.5%), and 48 ones, including 43 civilians, in the West Bank (5.5%). IOF continued to disregard the principles of proportionality and distinction in their actions in the OPT, resulting in the death of 414 unarmed civilians (47.7% of the total number of victims), and 247 police officers, including 240 ones who were killed on the first day of the IOF offensive on the Gaza Strip. Of the civilians killed, 108 were children and 29 were women. In addition, at least 2,260 Palestinians were wounded by IOF (1,736 ones in the Gaza Strip and 524 ones in the West Bank). Thus, the number of Palestinians killed by IOF and settlers since the beginning of the current Intifada in September 2000 has increased to 5,287, including 3,885 civilians. The number of civilians includes 919 children and 174 women. In addition, tens of thousands of Palestinians, including at least 12,000 ones in the Gaza Strip, have been wounded since September 2000. Hundreds of those wounded have sustained permanent disabilities.
According to investigations conducted by PCHR, based on eyewitnesses’ testimonies and material evidence, into most crimes committed by IOF during and before their offensive on the Gaza Strip, IOF undoubtedly used excessive and disproportionate force against Palestinian civilians, who are protected under international humanitarian law. They disregarded the principles of distinction between civil and military targets, and proportionality of response to the opposite military power. These facts can explain the high number of deaths among Palestinian civilians as a result of human rights violations perpetrated by IOF over the year. These civilians were killed when they did not pose any threats to the lives of IOF soldiers. They were killed during bombardments of civilian targets, including houses, facilities and cars; extra-judicial executions of Palestinian activists; incursions into Palestinian communities; or were killed by Israeli settlers.

Bombardment and Destruction

In 2008, IOF escalated bombardment of Palestinian targets using warplanes, tanks and artillery. They attacked civilian targets, including governmental buildings and houses, as well as security sites, including police station, and sites of Palestinian resistance groups. Hundreds of Palestinians, including dozens of civilians, were killed as a result of such attacks.

The most significant of such attacks in 2008 were:

- In the last 5 days of 2008, and in the context of the wide scale Israeli military offensive on the Gaza Strip, IOF employed its air force, tanks and gunboats to bombard towns, villages and refugee camps in the Gaza Strip with thousands of bombs, causing extensive destruction to public and private civilian facilities. During this period, IOF destroyed 25 public buildings, including those of ministries and the Palestinian Legislative Council; 37 houses; 7 mosques; 3 fishing harbors; 20 workshops; and 4 money exchange shops.

- On 7 January 2008, IOF launched a surface-to-surface missile at a number of activists of the Palestinian resistance who were in al-Qerem Street in the east of Jabalya town in the northern Gaza Strip. Two activists were killed and two others were wounded. Later, IOF aircrafts fired 6 missiles at different areas in Jabalya town. As a result, 4 activists of the Palestinian resistance, including two brothers, were killed, and two others were wounded, one of whom died of his wound on 10 February 2008. The seven victims of those attacks were identified as:

1. Ahmed Zakaria Abu Humaid, 25, from al-Tuffah neighborhood in Gaza City;
2. Hammouda Mohammed al-Shurafa, 40, from al-Tuffah neighborhood in Gaza City;
3. Sa’ed ‘Abdullah Nabhan, 20, from Jabalya;
4. Jawdat ‘Abdullah Nabhan, 22, from Jabalya;
5. Saleh ‘Abdullah Nabhan, 22, from Jabalya;
6. Mohammed Yousef al-Mutawaq, 26, from Jabalya; and

- On 18 January 2008, an IOF war dropped a bomb at a 5-story building near the Palestinian Governmental Complex in the densely populated Tal al-Hawa neighborhood in the southwest of Gaza City. The bomb hit and completely destroyed the building. Flying debris and shrapnel from the bombing killed 52-year-old Haniya Hussein ‘Abdul Jawwad, who was on her way to her nephew’s wedding celebration, some 120 meters from the targeted building. In addition, 46 civilians, including 19 children and 3 women, were injured by the blast. A large number of houses and vehicles in the area also sustained damage. The targeted building was empty, and was no longer used by the Government in Gaza as it had previously been bombed twice.

- On 5 February 2008, IOF troops positioned at the border between the Gaza Strip and Israel, east of Khan Yunis, launched a surface-to-surface missile at the Palestinian riot control police workplace, located on the main road in ‘Abassan village, east of Khan Yunis. As a result, 7 police officers were killed:

  1. Ahmed Isma’il Musabbeh, 22.
  4. Wafi Hamad Abu Yousef, 22.
  7. Ra’fat Ahmed Qudaih, 22.

An eighth police officer, 22-year-old Mohammed Zaki al-Edrissi, sustained moderate shrapnel injuries.

- On 7 February 2008, IOF troops positioned at the border between the Gaza Strip and Israel, east of Gaza City, launched a surface-to-surface missile at a number of activists of the Palestinian resistance who were near the Agricultural Secondary School in the north of Beit Hanoun town in the northern Gaza Strip. The missile fell onto the school yard, where at least 70 students and 35 staff members were. As a result, Hani Sha’ban Na’im, 41, a teacher, was killed by shrapnel. Three students were also wounded.

- On 23 February 2008, At approximately 15:40, IOF troops positioned at the border between the Gaza Strip and Israel fired a surface-to-surface missile at 3 Palestinian civilian who were having a picnic in al-Nazzar areas in the east of Beit Hanoun town in the northern Gaza Strip, nearly 1,200 meters away from the border. The three civilians were killed:
1. Mohammed Talal al-Za’anin, 20, from Beit Hanoun;
2. Ibrahim Ahmed Abu Jarad, 20, from Beit Hanoun; and
3. Mohammed Hassan Hassanain, 22, from Jabalya.

An IOF spokesman claimed that IOF targeted Palestinian gunmen accused of launching home-made rockets at Israeli towns. Investigations conducted by PCHR refute this claim and prove that the three victims were unarmed civilians who were in a picnic.

- On 1 March 2008, an IOF aircraft fired 3 missiles at a house belonging to ‘Abdul Rahman Mohammed ‘Ali ‘Atallah, 62, near al-Bokhari Mosque in al-Nafaq Street in the east of Gaza City. The aerial bombardment completely destroyed the house, killing 6 members of the same family, including 3 women. Another 8 members of the family were wounded. Four of the wounded were children, including a 2-day-old infant. Those who were killed are:

2. Su’ad Rajab ‘Atallah, 60, his wife;
3. Ibrahim ‘Abdul Rahman ‘Atallah, 38, son;
5. Rajaa‘ ‘Abdul Rahman ‘Atallah, 30, daughter; and

The house and 2 vehicles belonging to the family were totally destroyed, and a number of neighboring houses were damaged.

Incursions into Palestinian Communities

Incursions into Palestinian communities in the OPT, especially in the Gaza Strip in the first half of the year, were the most prominent form of crimes committed by IOF in 2008. This fact is supported by the high number of Palestinians, especially civilians, killed during Israeli military incursions into Palestinian communities in the Gaza Strip. According to PCHR’s documentation, in 2008, 182 Palestinians were killed during Israeli military incursions into Palestinian communities in the Gaza Strip. IOF frequently claim that that such incursions aim at pursuing Palestinians launching home-made rockets at Israeli towns from the Gaza Strip or arresting wanted Palestinians in the West Bank. During some incursions into the West Bank, IOF undercover unit were employed to extra-judicially execute allegedly wanted Palestinians.

The following are the most significant Israeli military incursions into Palestinian communities in the OPT in 2008:

The Gaza Strip

- In the period 29 February – 2 March 2008, IOF launched a wide scale military operation called “Operation Warm Winter” in Jabalya town and nearby areas. During the operation, IOF employed their full-fledged arsenal and used excessive force without any consideration of the lives of Palestinian civilians. IOF aircrafts pursued activists of the Palestinian resistance using missiles in the middle of densely populated areas. As a result, dozens of Palestinian civilians, including many children, were killed or wounded. Moreover, IOF obstructed the work of medical crews and even fired at them, killing a paramedic and wounding another one seriously. A number of ambulances were also damaged by the gunfire. Additionally, many houses and large areas of agricultural land were destroyed. During this operation, IOF killed 69 Palestinians, many of them were civilians, including 21 children and 2 women, and wounded 175 others, including 44 children and 6 women. Before this land military operation, IOF launched a series of air strikes against targets against Jabalya and its vicinity.

3 Ground incursions during the latest IOF offensive on the Gaza Strip took place in the beginning of 2009, so they are not included in this report.

- At approximately 03:30 on 2 January 2008, IOF moved into the east of al-Shojaeya neighborhood in the east of Gaza City. A number of members of the Palestinian resistance clashed with IOF, whose aircrafts attacked the area. Six members of the Palestinian resistance were killed:
  1. ‘Aahed Mahmoud Shamali, 30, killed by shrapnel.
  2. Yousef Mohammed Shamali, 21, killed by shrapnel.
  3. Mos’ab Waleed Jindiya, 18, killed by shrapnel.
  6. Salem Fu’ad al-Wadiya, 20, killed by a gunshot to the head.

A seventh resistance member and 4 civilian bystanders were also wounded.

- On 3 January 2008, IOF moved into al-Zanna area and al-Qarara village, east of Khan Yunis. During this incursion, IOF killed 7 Palestinians, including a woman, her two sons, her daughter and her nephew. They also wounded 22 Palestinians, destroyed houses and razed large areas of agricultural land.

- On 15 January 2008, IOF killed 17 Palestinians, including 5 civilians, and wounded at least 30 others, 5 of whom are in a serious condition, during an incursion into the al-Shojaeya and al-Zaytoun neighborhoods of east Gaza City. The incursion continued until noon. Investigations conducted by PCHR indicate that most of the victims were killed by tank shells, and that IOF troops used excessive lethal force without regard for the lives of Palestinian civilian living in the affected areas.

- At approximately 10:00, an IOF infantry unit moved nearly 200 meters into the east of al-Qarara village, east of Khan Yunis. IOF troops clashed with 4 members of the Palestinian resistance who were in the area. IOF sent reinforcements into the area and more members of the Palestinian resistance were involved in the clashes. At approximately 11:30, IOF aircrafts fired 3 missiles at the area of clashes. A number of houses were damaged. IOF did not allow ambulances to enter the area until 12:30. Medical crews then found bodies of 4 members of the Palestinian resistance who were killed by gunshots and shrapnel. They were identified as:
1. Mohsen Mousa Hamdan al-Qedra, 23;
2. Mahmoud Na‘im Siam, 26;
3. Rami ‘Omar Khalil Fraina, 35; and

The West Bank

- On 3 January, one day after Israeli Defense Minister Ehud Barak visited a checkpoint in Nablus, IOF invaded the city and neighboring refugee camps. This IOF operation lasted for 3 days, during which time 38 Palestinians civilians, including 19 children, were wounded and 31 others, including a child and a paramedic, were arrested by IOF troops. According to investigations conducted by PCHR, at approximately 01:55 on 3 January, IOF, reinforced by 40 military vehicles and a number of bulldozers, moved into Nablus and neighboring refugee camps, and imposed a curfew. IOF troops moved into the old city, and transformed a number of houses into military sites, from where they fired indiscriminately at anything that moved. At approximately 06:00, IOF imposed a curfew on the old city. They also besieged hospitals and obstructed the activities of medical crews. IOF arrested a paramedic and fired a tear gas canister into an ambulance.

- On 26 June 2008, IOF moved into Beit Ummar village, north of Hebron, covered by intense gunfire. They raided and searched a number of houses and held and interrogated their residents. They also stopped, checked and interrogated passing Palestinian civilians. A number of Palestinian children gathered and threw stones at IOF military vehicles. Immediately, IOF troops fired at the children. As a result, Mohammed Anwar Jameel Abu Sara (al-‘Allami), 16, was seriously wounded by a gunshot to the heart, when he was near his house. He was evacuated to a medical center in the village. IOF troops positioned at the entrances of the village prevented a Palestinian ambulance from entering the village to evacuate the child to a hospital. The child died of his wound at the medical center. According to eyewitnesses, the victim was not involved in clashes with IOF troops, and he was nearly 170 meters away from the area of clashes.

- On 13 September 2008, IOF moved into Beit Ummar village, north of Hebron, covered by intense gunfire. They raided and searched a number of houses and held and interrogated their residents. They also stopped, checked and interrogated passing Palestinian civilians. A number of Palestinian children gathered and threw stones at IOF military vehicles. Immediately, IOF troops fired at the children. As a result, Mohammed Anwar Jameel Abu Sara (al-‘Allami), 16, was seriously wounded by a gunshot to the heart, when he was near his house. He was evacuated to a medical center in the village. IOF troops positioned at the entrances of the village prevented a Palestinian ambulance from entering the village to evacuate the child to a hospital. The child died of his wound at the medical center. According to eyewitnesses, the victim was not involved in clashes with IOF troops, and he was nearly 170 meters away from the area of clashes.
Extra-Judicial Executions (Assassinations)

Extra-judicial executions constitute the most blatant form of willful killing committed by IOF against Palestinian civilians, predetermined and approved by the Israeli political establishment and the judiciary, represented by the High Court. Israel claims that it targets wanted persons, who pose a threat to the security of the State of Israel. In 2008, IOF increasingly committed extra-judicial executions against Palestinians, either by bombarding civilian establishments, houses and cars in the Gaza Strip, or by undercover units in the West Bank. This policy is approved by the Israeli government and the judiciary, represented by the highest judicial body – the High Court.

According to PCHR’s documentation, in 2008, IOF committed several extra-judicial executions, in which 53 Palestinians were killed. Of those killed, 44 were targeted persons (31 in the Gaza Strip and 13 in the West Bank), and 9 (8 in Gaza and one in the West Bank) were non-targeted civilian bystanders, including one child. In addition, dozens of Palestinians, mostly civilian bystanders, were wounded. Since the beginning of the current Palestinian Intifada in September 2000 until the end of 2008, IOF had extra-judicially executed 743, which constitutes 18.8% of the total number of civilians killed by IOF. This figure includes 513 targeted persons (267 in the West Bank and 246 in the Gaza Strip) and 230 civilian bystanders (74 in the West Bank and 156 in the Gaza Strip).

The following are the most significant extra-judicial executions carried out by IOF in 2008:

The West Bank

- On 12 March 2008, IOF extra-judicially executed 4 activists of the Palestinian resistance in Bethlehem. According to investigations conducted by PCHR, the 4 Palestinians were traveling in a car in Jamal ‘Abdul Nasser Street in the center of Bethlehem. Another civilian car with a Palestinian registration plate intercepted them. Members of an IOF undercover unit, who were traveling in the car, jumped out of the car and opened fire at the four Palestinians from a very close range. The four Palestinians were instantly killed by dozens of gunshots to their heads and chests. Soon after, IOF military vehicles moved into the town and opened fire to secure the withdrawal of the undercover unit. The four victims were identified as:

1. Mohammed Shihada ‘Abed al-Ta‘mari, 45, a prominent activist of the al-Quds Brigades (the armed wing of Islamic Jihad), whose house was demolished by IOF last week;
2. Ahmed Khalil Salem al-Balboul, 48, the leader of the al-Aqsa Martyrs Brigades (an armed wing of Fatah movement) in Bethlehem;
3. ‘Emad Hassan Mahmoud al-Kamel “al-‘Asakra”, 35, an officer of the Palestinian National Security Forces; and
4. ‘Eissa Marzouq Zawahra, 36, an activist of Islamic Jihad and an elected member of the municipal council of Bethlehem.
On 24 June 2008, IOF carried out an extra-judicial execution in Nablus, which left dead 2 Palestinians, including a university student. According to investigations conducted by PCHR, at approximately 03:50 an IOF infantry unit moved into Nablus. IOF troops broke into al-Sal'ous apartment building in al-Makhfiya neighborhood in the south of the city, whose door was open at the time. They then planted explosives at the door of a flat on the first floor and blew it up. The door of a neighboring flat was also destroyed. IOF troops opened fire inside the two flats for 45- minutes. As a result, Tariq Jom'a Abu Ghali, 26, from Jenin, was killed by several gunshots throughout the body. Abu Ghali is one of the most prominent activists of the al-Quds Brigades (the armed wing of Islamic Jihad). He had been wanted by IOF for 4 years and he had survived 3 extra-judicial execution attempts by IOF. A university student in the other flat, Eyad Radwan ‘Abdul Rahman Khanfar, 25, from al-Rama village south of Jenin, was also killed.

The Gaza Strip

On 17 January 2008, an IOF aircarft fired two missiles at a civilian vehicle near Sheikh Zayed intersection in Beit Lahia town in the northern Gaza Strip. The vehicle was directly hit, and its two occupants killed immediately. They were identified as 30-year-old Ra‘ad Shihda Abu Fuol, a member of the al-Quds Brigades (the armed wing of Islamic Jihad), and his 35-year-old female civilian neighbor, Fathiya Yusef al-Hassoumi.

On 18 January 2008, IOF fired a missile at the Sheikh Zayed intersection in Beit Lahia town. A vehicle was traveling in the targeted area, as well as a donkey cart with several passengers. The missile exploded 3 meters away from the cart, killing 52-year-old Miriam Mohammad Ahmad al-Rahel, and her 22-year-old son, Mohammed Saleh al-Rahel. Her 17-year-old son, Mansour, was seriously wounded. Another five civilian bystanders were also wounded, including two children:

1. Duha Hassan al-Dahnoun, 2, wounded by shrapnel to the shoulder;
2. Aaya Hasan al-Dahnoun, 3, wounded by shrapnel throughout the body;
3. Hassan Ibrahim al-Dahnoun, 33, wounded by shrapnel to the neck;
4. Hatem Nafez Wirsh Agha, 24, wounded by shrapnel throughout the body; and
5. Saqer ‘Aadel Subeh, 20, wounded by shrapnel throughout the body.

The Israeli media reported that IOF sources claimed the bombing had targeted a group of resistance activists traveling in a vehicle in the targeted area.

On 27 February 2008, an IOF aircraft fired 2 missiles at a white civilian microbus that was traveling on the coastal road near al-Aqsa University in the west of Khan Yunis. Six members of the ‘Izziddin al-Qassam Brigades were traveling in the microbus. Five of them were killed:
1. ‘Omar ‘Atiya Salama Abu ‘Akar, 26, from Khan Yunis;
2. ‘Abdullah Mohammed Yahia ‘Edwan, 22, from Beit Hanoun;
3. Mohammed Majdi Abu al-Hussain, 22, from Jabalya;
4. Hassan Nour al-Din al-Mutawaq, 19, from Jabalya; and
5. ‘Aziz Jawdat Mas’oud, 21, from Beit Lahia.

The sixth occupant was seriously wounded.

Killing of Palestinian Children

Children are granted a range of special protections under international human rights instruments. In 2008, IOF killed 108 Palestinian children (99 in the Gaza Strip and 9 in the West Bank) in comparison with 51 ones in 2007. Children killed by IOF in 2008 constitute 26% of the total number of civilians killed in 2008. Thus, the number of Palestinian children killed by IOF from the beginning of the Intifada in September 2000 up to the end of 2008 mounted to 919 (23.6% of the civilians killed during the same period).

During the last five days of 2008, during which time, IOF were launching a wide scale military offensive on the Gaza Strip, IOF warplanes, artilleries and gunboats killed 332 Palestinians, mostly civilians, including 34 children. The circumstances of the deaths of these children indicate that IOF demonstrated blatant disregard for their lives and safety.

For instance, on 29 December 2008, IOF warplanes bombarded ‘Emad ‘Aqel Mosque in Block 4 in the densely populated Jabalya refugee camp. The mosque and a neighboring house belonging to Anwar Khalil Ba’lousha were destroyed. The house was destroyed over the family, killing 5 of Ba’lousha’s female children: Jawaher, 4; Dunia, 8; Samar, 12; Ikram, 14; and Tahreer, 17. Ba’lousha, his wife and another three of their children were also wounded. Additionally, 17 civilians in neighboring houses, including 5 children, were wounded.

In a similar attack, at approximately 01:00 on 29 December 2008, IOF warplanes fired two missiles at a house belonging to Ra’ed al-‘Attar, a leader of the ‘Izziddin al-Qassam Brigades of Hamas, in Yebna refugee camp in Rafah. One of the missile hit and destroyed the house that had been already evacuated. The other missile hit and destroyed a house belonging to Zaid al-‘Absi, which is located nearly 500 meters away from the targeted house. As a result, three of al-‘Absi’s children were killed: Sidqi, 3; Ahmed, 12; and Mohammed, 14. Al-‘Absi himself, his wife and another three of their children were also wounded. Additionally, 7 civilians in neighboring houses, including two children, were wounded.

In the period 27 February – 1 March 2008, IOF launched a wide scale military operation called “Operation Warm Winter” in Jabalya town and nearby areas. During that operation, IOF killed 69 Palestinians, many of them were civilians, including 21 children, and wounded 175 others, including 44 children. During that operation, IOF fired 2 missiles at a number of Palestinian children who were playing football in an open area near their houses in al-Qerem Street in the east of Jabaliya town. Four children were killed and their bodies were dismembered:

1. Mohammed Na’im Hammouda, 9;
2. ‘Ali Munir Dardouna, 8;
3. Dardouna Deeb Dardouna, 12;
4. ‘Omar Hussein Dardouna, 14.

On 29 February 2008, IOF troops opened fire at a house belonging to Ra’ed ‘Ali Sa’id Abu Saif in ‘Ezbat ‘Abed Rabbu areas. His child, 12-year-old Safaa’, was seriously wounded by a gunshot to the abdomen. Ambulances were not allowed to reach the house. IOF claimed allowing an ambulance to reach the area, but once it got close to the area, IOF troops fired at it. It was damaged. The child died of her wound 3 hours later.

On 2 March 2008, IOF troops fired an artillery shell at a number of Palestinian boys near Zimmu intersection in the east of Jabalya. Three boys were killed: Mahmoud ‘Abdul Khaliq Abu ‘Eita, 18; ‘Abdul Rahman Mohammed Saleh, 17; and Lu’ai Isma’il Ibrahim Taha, 16.

On the same day, an IOF aircraft fired a missile at a vehicle, in which a number of activists of the Palestinian resistance were traveling, in the center of Jabalya. The activists were able to flee from the vehicle before the missile hit it. Soon after, a number of Palestinian children gathered around the vehicle. Immediately, the aircraft fired another missile at them. Seven children were killed:

1. Khaled Munther ‘Abdul Qader Rayan, 17;
2. Ahmed Ziad ‘Abdul Qader Rayan, 17;
3. Isma’il ‘Arafat Mustafa Abu Sultan, 17;
4. ‘Abdul Karim Husni al-Haw, 15;
5. Ahmed Nemer ‘Abdul Latif Zughra, 17;
6. Mahmoud Nayef Hamattu Hnaidiq, 16; and
7. Ahmed Na’im Abu Salama, 16.

Investigations conducted by PCHR into other crimes committed by IOF over the tear indicate that IOF used excessive force against Palestinian civilians, including willful killing of children.

On 27 February 2008, IOF aircrafts fired 3 missiles at a building of the Ministry of Interior in the center of Gaza City, which is a densely populated area. Two floors of the 5-storey building were destroyed and a number of neighboring houses and buildings were heavily damaged. Shrapnel from the missiles killed 7-month-old Mohammed Nasser al-Bora’ei when he was sleeping at his family’s home. He was hit by shrapnel to the head and the chest.

On 16 April 2008, an IOF aircraft that provided air cover for an IOF incursion into Juhor al-Din village, southeast of Gaza City, fired 2 missiles at a number of Palestinian civilians who gathered near al-Ihsan Mosque, nearly 300 meters away from the area in which IOF troops were deployed. As a result, 9 Palestinian civilians, including 6 children and 2 brothers were killed, and 18 others, including 12 children were wounded. The civilians who were killed were identified as:

1. Mahmoud Ahmed Mohammed, 45;
2. Sofian Ahmed Mohammed, 41;
3. ‘Abdullah Maher Abu Khalil, 15;
4. Tariq Fareed Abu Taqiya, 16;
5. Islam Hussam al-‘Eissawi, 16;
7. Bayan Sameer al-Khaldi, 17;
8. Mohammed Mohammed al-‘Assar, 17; and

On 28 April 2008, IOF troops moved approximately 1,200 meters into Beit Hanoun town in the northern Gaza Strip. The raiding forces took positions on the Water Reservoir Hill, apposite to al-Nada housing project and ‘Izbat ‘Abed Rabbu, and in Sultan ‘Abdul Hamid Street in the west of the town. IOF fired heavily as the moved and took up positions. Soon after, an IOF aircraft fired a missile at a number of activists of the Palestinian resistance near ‘Abdullah ‘Azzam Mosque, southwest of ‘Izbat Abed Rabbu, approximately 1,000 meters away from the main area of the incursion. The missile fell 10 meters away from the house of Ahmad ‘Eid Hassan Abu Me’tiq, seriously wounding a resistance activist. Less than a minute later, IOF aircrafts fired another 2 missiles at the same area, which landed at the door of the same house, killing another resistance activist, Ibrahim Salem Suleiman Hajouj, 20. Shrapnel from the missile destroyed the house door and spread inside the house. Meyasar Metliq Abu Me’tiq, 40, and her 6 children were having their breakfast only 2 meters away from the door. The shrapnel killed four of the children immediately. The mother was seriously wounded, and the other two children were moderately injured. The mother died of her wounds later. In addition, 10 bystanders were wounded, some of them sustaining moderate to serious wounds.

The children who were killed are:
1. Mes’id Ahmad ‘Eid Abu Me’tiq, 1;
2. Hana Ahmad ‘Eid Abu Me’tiq, 3;
3. Rudeina Ahmad ‘Eid Abu Me’tiq, 4; and
4. Saleh Ahmad ‘Eid Abu Me’tiq, 5.

Attacks against Medical Crews

In 2008, IOF continued to attacks Palestinian medical crews providing medical services to the wounded and patients. They continued to attack ambulances and medical vehicles even through they area clearly marked. Such attacks amount to war crimes according to the Geneva Convention Relative to the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War of 1949 and the two Protocols Additional to the Geneva Conventions.4

---

4 This section of the report does not cover Israeli denial of medical supplies into the Gaza Strip, as this issue is covered in the section of the Israeli siege below.
In 2008, 3 medical personnel were killed by IOF, raising the number of medical personnel killed by IOF from the beginning of the Intifada in September 2000 up to the end if 2008 to 27. They were all killed while carrying out their humanitarian mission.

According to PCHR’s documentation, on 3 March 2008, medical crews found the body of Mahmoud Suleiman Zaqqout, 23, a paramedic of Palestinian Civil Defense. He had been missing for 2 days. Zaqqout was killed during the “Operation Warm Winter” carried out by IOF in Jabalya town and nearby areas in the period 28 February – 1 March 2008.

On 31 December 2008, during the IOF offensive on the Gaza Strip, an IOF aircraft fired a missile at a number of activists of the Palestinian resistance in the east of Gaza City. An activist was killed and another one was wounded. An hour later, a Palestinian ambulance moved towards the area to evacuate the wounded activist. An IOF aircraft fired a missile at the same area. As a result, Sa‘id Abu Hassira, 21, a paramedic was killed. Eihab ‘Omar al-Madhoun, 35, a physician, and Hishamt ‘Ajjour, 30, the ambulance driver, were seriously wounded.

Attacks against Journalists

IOF have continued to attack journalists despite the protection assigned to them under international humanitarian law. Journalists have been subjected to various kinds of attacks in apparent attempts by IOF to prevent media coverage of human rights violation those forces have perpetrated against Palestinian civilians in the OPT. In this context, in a report published in October 2008, Reporters sans Frontières (Reporters without Borders) placed Israel amongst “the list of countries that extensively violate press freedoms, especially in areas beyond its borders,” in reference to the OPT.

Attacks against journalists include, killing and injuries, denial of access to certain areas, denial of travel, detention, confiscation and destruction of media equipment and beating and harassment.

In 2008, IOF continued their attacks against journalists. One journalist was killed and 28 others were wounded. Thus, the number of journalists killed by IOF from the beginning of the Intifada in September 2000 up to the end of 2008 mounted to 9, including two international ones (Italian and British), and the number of those who had been wounded mounted to at least 170.

According to information obtained by PCHR, and the testimony of Wafa Abu Mezyed, a Reuters soundman, at approximately 17:00 on Wednesday, 16 April 2008, Fadel Subhi Shana’a, 23, a cameraman, and Wafa Younsi Abu Mezyed, 25, a soundman, both working for Reuters, were near al-Ihasn Mosque in Juhor al-Dik village, southeast of Gaza City, photographing crimes committed by IOF in the area. When they finished their work, Shana’a and Abu Mezyed traveled in their sport utility vehicle bearing “TV” and “Press” markings towards Salah al-Din Street to leave the village. Abu Mezyed Sated:

“When we were traveling towards Salah al-Din Street, Israeli military vehicles were nearly 700 meters away from us. We stopped and got out of the vehicle and Shana’a started to photograph the military vehicles. We were wearing bulletproof suits and carrying cameras. When I was driving a number of children away from us, I was surprised by a shell falling near Shana’a who was standing near the vehicle. I saw him falling on the ground and I was wounded by shrapnel to the left hand. Another shell hit the back of the vehicle, and I was wounded by shrapnel to the pelvis and the right foot. I cried and ran towards ambulances to save us.”

Immediately, ambulances evacuated Shana’a and Abu Mezyed to al-Aqsa Martyrs Brigades in Deir al-Balah. According to medical sources, Shana’a was brought the hospital dead.

Reuters stated on its web site that “Shana’a was covering events in the Gaza Strip for Reuters on a day of intense violence.” “He had stepped from his car to film an Israeli tank dug in several hundred meters (yards) away, when an explosion killed him and two youth passing by. Video from Shana’s camera showed the tank opening fire. Two seconds after the shot raises dust around its gun, the tape goes blank – seemingly at the moment Shana was hit,” the statement added.

On 12 August 2008, Reuters news agency received a letter from Brigadier General Avihai Mendelblit, in which he stated that the Israeli troops in Juhor Al-Dik could not see whether Fadel Shana’a was operating a camera or brandishing a weapon. In his letter to Reuters, Mendelblit claimed that “The tank crew was unable to determine the nature of the object mounted on the tripod, and positively identify it as [either] an anti-tank missile, a mortar or a television camera.” Mendelblit also wrote that “In light of the reasonable conclusion reached by the tank crew and its superiors that the characters were hostile, and were carrying an object most likely to be a weapon, the decision to fire at the target... was sound...”

Investigations conducted by PCHR immediately after the 16 April attack in Juhor Al-Dik strongly refute these claims, and proved beyond all reasonable doubt that IOF willfully killed journalist Shana’a and the three other civilians who died alongside him. In addition, another 9 unarmed civilians, including 6 children, were killed in Juhor al-Dik village in an IOF missile attack that was launched earlier the same day. A total of 13 unarmed Palestinian civilians, including 8 children, were killed in the area of Juhor Al-Dik on 16 April. In addition, 32 civilians, including seventeen children, were wounded.

On 27 December 2008, the first day of the IOF offensive on the Gaza Strip, a number of journalists were wounded while reporting on Israeli air strikes against targets in Gaza. One of these journalists, Bassel Ibrahim Faraj, 22, a cameraman of the Algerian Television, was seriously wounded and he died of his wound on 6 January 2009.
Ongoing Policy of Total Closure and Violation of the Right to Freedom of Movement

In 2008, IOF continued to impose a tightened siege on the OPT, especially on the Gaza Strip where Palestinian civilians were denied access to their basic needs of food, medicines, fuels, electricity and other necessary commodities. IOF continued to impose severe restrictions on the movement of Palestinian civilians and goods. The total siege imposed by IOF on the Gaza Strip has left disastrous impacts on the humanitarian situation and has violated the economic and social rights of the Palestinian civilian population. It has also paralyzed most economic sectors. Poverty and unemployment in the Gaza Strip have sharply amounted to 80% and 55% respectively. The international community, especially the High Contracting Parties to the 1949 Geneva Convention Relative of the Protection of Civilian Persons in Time of War, has shamefully failed to take necessary action to ensure Israel’s respect for the Convention in the OPT, including lifting the siege and stopping such policy which violates economic, social, civil and political rights of the Palestinian civilian population.

IOF continued to prevent the Palestinian civilian population from entering Israel, including even patients and people with emergency humanitarian needs. They also continued prevent thousands of Palestinian civilian who study or work abroad from traveling. Over the year, IOF imposed additional restrictions on internal movement in the West Bank, including Jerusalem, through at least 630 military checkpoints and barriers. They turned Palestinian communities into isolated Bantustans. IOF also imposed further restrictions on traveling through al-Karama International Crossing Point. They decreased working hours at the crossing point and practiced inhuman and degrading treatment against Palestinian civilians.

In the Gaza Strip, IOF continued to close Rafah International Crossing Point on the Egyptian – Palestinian border. From 10 June 2007, before Hamas’s takeover of the Gaza Strip, up to the end of 2008, IOF closed the crossing point for 541. In 2008, the crossing point was closed for 345 days completely and for 21 days partially. As a result of the repeated closure of the crossing point, thousands of Palestinian civilians wishing to travel from and to the Gaza Strip were blocked at both sides of the crossing point. When the crossing point was partially opened, it witnessed congestion due to the high number of travelers. Palestinian travelers, especially patients, faced extreme difficulties passing through the crossing point and they had to wait for long periods. The closure of Rafah International Crossing Point left disastrous impacts of hundreds of Palestinians, who had been stuck at the Egyptian side of the crossing after they had received medical treatment in Egypt and others who had been held at Egyptian airports.

As a reaction of the policy of economic and humanitarian stranglehold practiced by IOF against the Gaza Strip, on 23 January 2008, hundreds of thousands of Gazans crossed the border into Egypt when Palestinian resistance activists blew up entire sections of the border fence in Rafah. In addition to residents of Gaza crossing into Egypt en masse, hundreds of Palestinians from the Gaza Strip who had been stranded in Egypt, due to the enforced closure of Rafah International Crossing Point, also returned home to Gaza. The Egyptian authorities responded positively and with restraint, allowing Palestinian civilians to purchase foods, medicines, and other supplies which are not available in Gaza due to the escalating IOF siege and closure of the Gaza Strip. However, opening the border between Egypt and the Gaza Strip did not meet all the basic needs of the civilian population of Gaza. Civilians across the Gaza Strip continued to suffer from severe shortages, or total unavailability, of many essential items, including domestic fuel and industrial fuel for Gaza’s single power plant. In addition, hundreds of students, patients and Gazans living abroad remained in effective limbo; many had been waiting for permission to leave the Gaza Strip legally since June 2007. Approximately 2,000 Gazans gathered in the Egyptian town of al-Arish, and asked the Egyptian authorities to allow them to travel via Cairo to third countries, where they would be able pursue their work, study or medical treatment.

At least 4,000 Palestinians had not been allowed to travel abroad since June 2007. This figure included hundreds of students and at least 500 patients who need advanced medical treatment, which is not available in the Gaza Strip. However, the problem emerged again as at least 1,500 Palestinians had been stuck at the Egyptian side of Rafah International Crossing Point waiting to be allowed to travel back to the Gaza Strip. This figure included dozens of patients who had received medical treatment abroad. Those Palestinians had remained stuck at the Egyptian side of the crossing point for nearly 5 months under severe humanitarian conditions.

Furthermore, IOF have maintained the separation between the West Bank, including Jerusalem, and the Gaza Strip. Palestinian civilians from the Gaza Strip have been denied access to holy sites in Jerusalem, Bethlehem and Hebron. During the Christmas celebration, IOF allowed a limited number of Christians from the Gaza Strip to travel to holy sites in Bethlehem.

Although this policy is a form of collective punishment prohibited under international humanitarian law, and in spite of international calls for stopping this policy, IOF have tightened the siege imposed on the OPT, especially the Gaza Strip, when internal Palestinian fighting escalated in the Gaza Strip, which ended with Hamas’ takeover of the Gaza Strip on 15 June 2007.
The increasing economic and social strangulation of the Gaza Strip has effectively turned the territory into a prison inhabited by more than 1.5 million Palestinians. The civilian population of the Gaza Strip lives under severe movement restrictions, lacking basic humanitarian needs, including access to certain foods, medicine, and other basic needs. In addition, the civilian population of the Gaza Strip is being systematically denied their industrial, agricultural, construction, transportation and fuel needs. The collective punishment of the civilian population of Gaza has caused a chronic deterioration in all aspects of civilian life, and is decimating the livelihoods of the people of Gaza.

In April 2008, IOF further tightened the siege imposed on the Gaza Strip. The total siege imposed by IOF on the Gaza Strip left disastrous impacts on the humanitarian situation and violated the economic and social rights of the nearly 1.5 million Palestinian civilian population, particularly the rights to appropriate living conditions, health and education. It also paralyzed most economic sectors. Furthermore, severe restrictions were imposed on the movement of the Palestinian civilian population. The siege imposed on the Gaza Strip severely impacted the flow of food, medical supplies and other necessities such as fuel, construction materials and raw materials for various economic sectors. Impacts of these restrictions were demonstrated in the following:

- Gaza Strip cities, villages and refugee camps were in a state of near paralysis with streets almost devoid of normal movement and life.
- UNRWA was forced to stop all its humanitarian aid food distribution programs targeting some 650,000 refugees in the Gaza Strip for 4 days.
- Living conditions continued to deteriorate due to the siege and scarcity of foodstuffs and medicines, resulting in serious price increases.
- Hundreds of citizens remained deprived from their right to access treatment in hospitals outside the Gaza Strip.
- The work of educational facilities, including schools, institutes, and universities, were reduced due to the paralysis of the transport sector. In addition, student absences increased due to fuel shortages.
- 85% of public transportation stopped due to fuel shortages.
- The operation of 15 drinking water wells was completely stopped, causing shortages of water for more than 100,000 people across Gaza, and the operation of a further 125 water reservoirs was affected.
- 12 wastewater treatment plants completely ran out of fuel, and daily dumping of 50,000 m3 of untreated water into the sea continued.
- The risks of environmental crisis increased as garbage dumpsters belonging to local municipalities and councils were forced to cease working, and UNRWA was also forced to reduce its cleaning services in the refugee camps.
- 85% of vehicles belonging to the Coastal Municipalities Water Utility (CMWU) were taken off the road. This hindered the delivery of drinking water to citizens, as well as the treatment of wastewater, and maintenance of public networks.

On another hand, the Gaza Strip suffered from acute shortages of most commodities, particularly flour and wheat, due to the continued closure of commercial crossings of the Gaza Strip. In addition, Gaza’s warehouses ran out of wheat; their daily needs of wheat and flour are estimated at 500 tons. The 6 flour mills were shut down. UNRWA was forced to suspend its food aid for approximately 750,000 Palestinian refugees.

As of the end of 2008, IOF continued to impose a siege on the 1.5 million civilians living in the Gaza Strip. The border crossings of the Strip had been closed for more than two years as part of IOF’s collective punishment policy, imposing severe restrictions on the movement of civilians and goods. As a result, the territory was unable to secure its basic needs of food, medicine, and other supplies, pushing the poverty rate above 80%. The continued Israeli ban on fuel supplies required for civilian life in the Gaza Strip led to the paralysis of the educational sector. Healthcare facilities have registered a drop in clients due to the transport crisis, and hundreds of healthcare professionals were unable to reach their work places. The tightened siege led to the collapse of the Gaza Strip economic sectors. Most production facilities have ceased to operate due to the siege and restriction on movement of goods and individuals.

In 2008, hundreds of Gazan patients were denied access to medical treatment at hospitals in Israel and the West Bank, including Jerusalem. According to PCHR’s documentation, in 2008, 29 patients died as they were denied access to advanced medical treatment outside the Gaza Strip, raising the number of patients of had died since tightening the siege imposed on the Gaza Strip since 10 June 2007 mounted to 50 ones, including 17 women and 10 children. In 2008, IOF allowed only 5,839 patients to pass through Beit Hanoun (Erez) crossing to have medical treatments at hospitals in Israel and the West Bank, including Jerusalem (an average of 16 patients daily). Before tightening the siege in June 2007, an average of 50 patients had been allowed to travel through Beit Hanoun (Erez) crossing to receive medical treatment at hospitals in Israel and the West Bank, including Jerusalem.

Due to the continued closure of Rafah International Crossing Point, hundreds of patients were not able to travel to receive medical treatment at hospitals in Arab countries. Additionally, many patients who had received medical treatment abroad had been stuck for long periods at the Egyptian side of the crossing point under severe humanitarian conditions.

IOF have closed al-Mentar (Karni) commercial crossing, through which foodstuffs, medicines and other basic needs are entered into the Gaza Strip. IOF have also denied exportation of products from the Gaza Strip to the West Bank and abroad.

As a result of the Israeli siege, thousands of Palestinian families have lost their incomes, which made at least 80% of those families live below the poverty line. Unemployment mounted also 50% of the labor force in the Gaza Strip. Prices of goods, due to the shortages of supplies, mounted to unprecedented high levels. The Gaza Strip suffered also from shortages of medicines.

IOF allowed a limited number of containers of humanitarian aids into the Gaza Strip through Karm Abu Salem (“Kerem Shalom”) and Sofa crossings.
near Rafah, but those aids did not meet the needs of the Palestinian civilian population as at least 200 containers of goods used to be entered into the Gaza Strip through al-Mentar (Karni) crossing. IOF also limited the goods to be allowed into the Gaza Strip to 9 basic ones only.

IOF have continued to restrict access to occupied East Jerusalem for residents of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. As a result, Palestinians have been denied access to advanced medical care provided by hospitals in East Jerusalem, to family, education, to work and to religious sites in the city. The construction of the Annexation Wall around East Jerusalem would establish a permanent barrier for Palestinians seeking to enter occupied East Jerusalem.

In the West Bank, IOF have continued to impose severe restrictions on the movement of Palestinian civilians through at least 630 checkpoints established throughout the West Bank. IOF have also continued to construct the Annexation Wall, which has added more restrictions on the movement of Palestinian civilians and has further cut off Jerusalem from the rest of the West Bank.

There are approximately permanent 630 roadblocks, manned and unmanned checkpoints across the West Bank. In addition, there are some 6080 ‘flying’ or temporary checkpoints erected across the West Bank by IOF every week. When complete, the illegal Annexation Wall will stretch for 724 kilometers around the West Bank, further isolating the entire population. 350 kilometers of the Wall has already been constructed. Approximately 99% of the Wall has been constructed inside the West Bank itself, further confiscating Palestinian land. At least 65% of the main roads that leads to 18 Palestinian communities in the West Bank are closed or fully controlled by IOF (47 out of 72 roads). Additionally, there are around 500 kilometers of restricted roads across the West Bank. Approximately one third of the West Bank, including occupied East Jerusalem, is inaccessible to Palestinians without a permit issued by the IOF. These permits are extremely difficult to obtain. Palestinian civilians continue to be harassed by IOF in Jerusalem, and across the West Bank, including being regularly stopped and searched in the streets by IOF.

The total siege imposed by IOF on the OPT has left disastrous impacts on the humanitarian situation and has violated the economic and social rights of the Palestinian civilian population, particularly the rights to appropriate living conditions, health and education. It has also paralyzed most economic sectors. As a consequence of the total closure imposed on the OPT, unemployment has mounted to 40% and the level of poverty has increased to 73%; in the Gaza Strip, poverty has mounted to 83%. In the first three years of the current Palestinian Intifada, the per capita individual income decreased by 32%, and by 45% at the end of 2008 in subsequent years.

The policy of closure is a form of collective punishment prohibited by international humanitarian law. Article 33 of the Fourth Geneva Convention specifically prohibits punishment of protected persons for offences they have not personally committed. It also prohibits collective penalties and likewise all measures of intimidation or terrorism. IOF have implemented these restrictions in an entirely disproportionate and excessive manner. The closure policy has been implemented as a means of punishment, intimidation and retaliation against Palestinian civilians. Article 12(1) of International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights prescribes that “everyone lawfully within the territory of a State shall, within that territory, have the right to liberty of movement and freedom to choose his residence.”
By the end of 2008, at least 9,000 Palestinians, including 248 children and 69 women, were still in Israeli custody in detention facilities mostly inside Israel, in violation of article 76 of the Fourth Geneva Convention which obligates the occupying power to detain persons from occupied territory in that territory. At least 337 of these prisoners were arrested by IOF before the signing of the Oslo Accords in 1994, while the majority of prisoners have been detained by IOF since the beginning of the al-Aqsa Intifada in September 2000. The number of prisoners detained by IOF from West Bank is approximately 7,500, and the number of those from the Gaza Strip is at least 1,100. Additionally, IOF have continued to detain hundreds of Palestinians from Jerusalem and those who live inside Israel.

By the end of 2008, IOF continued to arrest Palestinians during house raids, especially in the West Bank, and Israeli incursions into Palestinian towns, villages and refugee camps throughout the West Bank and Gaza Strip. Hundreds of Palestinians were also arrested at Israeli military checkpoints and roadblocks erected on roads and at entrances to Palestinian communities and at border crossings, especially in the West Bank. In 2008, IOF arrested at least 2,500 Palestinians (2,433 in the West Bank and 68 in the Gaza Strip).

In addition, arrest campaigns continued to target political leaders and representatives of the Palestinian people. By the end of 2008, IOF continued to detain at least 40 members of the Palestinian Legislative Council (PLC), the majority of whom are of the Change and Reform parliamentary bloc of Hamas, including Dr. ‘Aziz al-Dweik, Speaker of the PLC, and Dr. Mahmoud al-Ramahi, Secretary of the PLC. In 2008, IOF brought a number of PLC members to trial. They sentences placed a number of PLC members under administrative detention, while sentenced others to imprisonment. On 24 November, an Israeli court sentenced Nayef al-Rajoub, a PLC members and former Minister of Religious Affairs and Endowments, to 40 months of imprisonment. Another court sentenced PLC member Mahmoud al-Khatib to 36 months of imprisonment and a fine of 4,000 NIS. On 16 December, an Israeli court sentenced Dr. ‘Aziz al-Dweik, Speaker of the PLC, to 3 years of imprisonment. On 22 December, an Israeli court sentenced 5 PLC members to 46 months of imprisonment for each: Yasser Mansour; Husni al-Bourini;
Riad Raddad; ‘Imad Noufal; and Nasser ‘Abdul Jawad. The court also sentenced PLC member Fat’hi Qar’awi to 35 months of imprisonment. On 25 December, an Israeli court sentenced Ahmed Sa’adat, PLC member and Secretary General of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, to 30 years of imprisonment, charging him of planning for the assassination of the later Israeli Minister of Tourism, Rehavam Ze’evi, in 2001. Sa’adat and another 4 Palestinians were arrested when IOF stormed PNA Jericho Prison in March 2006, shortly after his British guards had left the prison. It is worth noting that Sa’adat had been detained in Jericho Prison since May 2001, as Israel accused him of being involved in the assassination of Ze’evi. He was arrested by Palestinian security services on 15 January 2002. He and 5 other detainees were transferred to Jericho Prison on 1 May 2002 according to US-brokered agreement.

Torture and Ill-Treatment

Palestinian prisoners in Israeli jails are subjected to various forms of torture and inhuman and degrading treatment. The long journey of their suffering starts with violent beating and insulting and extends to various methods of torture practiced against them during interrogation.

In 2008, PCHR received more reports regarding various methods of interrogation used against Palestinian detainees, including minors, held in Israeli jails and detention centers, which constitute torture and ill treatment.

1. Blindfolding and hitting a detainee, especially on the face and the abdomen;
2. Strangling a detainee in a way the causes extreme difficulties in breathing;
3. Insulting a detainee and swearing on God;
4. Forcibly removing the hair of the beard;
5. Hanging a detainee with his feet up and face down, and hitting him on sensitive parts of the body, such as the testicles;
6. Bridging – a method in which 3 interrogators carry a detainee using chains, with his face down, which led a detainee in one case to urinate blood;
7. Sexually abusing detainees, and raping them in some cases using iron bars.
8. Shabeh for long periods that sometimes amount to 48 hours.
9. Tightened handcuffing; tying the hands and legs with plastic chains that cause severe pains;
10. Sleep deprivation for long hours.

In September 2008, Amnesty International submitted a briefing to the United Nations Committee against Torture in view of its consideration of Israel’s fourth periodic report on its implementation of the Convention against Torture and Other Cruel, Inhuman or Degrading Treatment or Punishment. According to the briefing, there are three particularly painful forms of stress positions in use by the interrogators of the Israeli General Security Service (GSS) against Palestinian detainees; all positions are often with tightened handcuffs or shackles and accompanied by blows. The three positions are:

- The “banana” position, in which the detainee is placed sidewise on a chair with their back unsupported; interrogators press their torso back over the edge of the chair while fixing their feet on the other side causing stretching of the abdominal muscles and hyperextension of the spine and consequently severe pain in the back and stomach; this treatment is often accompanied by heavy pressure applied to the chest;
- The “frog” position, in which the detainee is forced to squat on their heels for up to 45 minutes; and
- A position involving the detainee being made to stand on tiptoes for prolonged periods.

The briefing indicates, according to the Public Committee against Torture in Israel, that those who are about to suffer torture under interrogation are examined by a doctor attached to the GSS who certifies that the individual is healthy enough to withstand methods of interrogation which amount to torture or other ill-treatment.

The GSS interrogators who practice torture against Palestinian detainees are granted impunity by the Israeli judiciary, including the Israeli High Court. Most of the complaints submitted with regard to torture practiced against Palestinian detainees are not considered, and even when some are considered, the perpetrators cynically receive light punishment.

The suffering of Palestinian detainees does not stop with the end of the interrogation period, rather it continues throughout the period of detention. Palestinian detainees are subjected to cruel measures by the administrations of Israeli jails and detention centers, including: torture and degrading treatment; deprivation of sleeping; denial of access to appropriate medical care; denial of family visitation; and obstruction of access to legal counsel.

Administrative Detention

Administrative detention has been used by IOF to arrest and detain Palestinians without charge or trial for long periods. Current administrative detention orders permit for periods of detention of up to 36- months that are indefinitely renewable without reference to charge or trial. These orders are issued by Israeli district military commanders in the West Bank and Gaza Strip. By the end of 2008, at least 900 Palestinians were still in custody under administrative detention orders issued by IOF. Administrative detention violates the Fourth Geneva Convention, whose article 78 prohibits the use of this measure as a form of punishment, rather than an exceptional measure for “imperative reasons of security.”

In 2008, IOF continued to place dozens of Palestinians under administrative detention in the West Bank.
Detention According to “Illegitimate Combatants Law”

Following the IOF redeployment from the Gaza Strip in September 2005, Israel invented the concept of “illegitimate combatant” to describe Palestinian prisoners who are in fact civilian persons protected under the Fourth Geneva Convention, and consequently justify their detention in accordance with a special law called “Illegitimate Combatants” issued in 2002. According to this law, the IOF Chief of Staff has the authority to issue an arrest warrant against a person if there is a basis to assume that such person is “a legitimate combatant.”

Riad Sa’di ’Ayad, 32, and Hassan Mas’oud ’Ayad, 33, both from Gaza, had been held under administrative detention. The IOF Chief of Staff issued decisions ordering their continued detention considering them “illegitimate combatants.” Riad ’Ayad was arrested by IOF on 1 January 2002, and on 17 March 2002, he was placed under a renewable 6-month administrative detention. He has been detained without any charge. With regard to Hassan ’Ayad, he was arrested by IOF on 24 January 2003, and he was placed under a renewable 6-month administrative detention without any charge on 24 February 2003. On 12 September 2005, the same day of the declaration of the end of Israeli military government in the Gaza Strip, the IOF Chief of Staff ordered to continue the detention of Riad and Hassan in accordance with the concept of “illegitimate combatant”, in violation of international human rights instruments, especially the Fourth Geneva Convention.

Death of Palestinian Detainees in Israeli Jails

In 2008, two Palestinian detainees died in Israeli jails. PCHR is concerned that those detainees might have died due to medical negligence. PCHR warns of further deterioration to the health conditions of dozens of detainees who suffer from chronic diseases and need medical treatment urgently.

On 29 February 2008, Fadel ‘Ouda ‘Atiya Shaheen, 47, from in Gaza City, died in Be‘r al-Saba‘ Prison inside Israel. According to information available to PCHR, Shaheen had been detained since 15 October 2004, and was serving a sentence of 8.5 years of imprisonment. Shaheen’s brother told a PCHR lawyer on 16 October 2004, when he authorized PCHR to pursue the case, that Shaheen was suffering from diabetes and was regularly injected by insulin in order for his health condition to be stable. A lawyer delegated by PCHR, who visited Shaheen in the prison, repeatedly indicated that Shaheen was suffering from acute diabetes. Shaheen’s health condition recently deteriorated as he suffered from a blockage of arteries and hypertension in addition to chronic diabetes. These facts raise suspicions about the causes of his death as PCHR repeatedly received information about medical negligence and the failure of Israeli prison authority to provide Palestinian prisoners in Israeli jails with appropriate medical care. On 29 February, Shaheen was so sick. His colleagues asked for a doctor to check him and he did, but claimed that Shaheen was suffering from nothing. As his colleagues insisted on further medical checking on him, the prison’s administration decided to transfer him to the hospital, but he died before being transferred to the hospital.

On 23 December 2008, Jom’a Isma’il Mohammed Mousa, 65, from Shoa’fat refugee camp near Jerusalem, died in Nitsan Prison in al-Ramla town inside Israel. According to information available to PCHR, Mousa had been serving a sentence to life imprisonment since 2 April 1993. He was suffering from various diseases in the heart, intestines and stomach. Israeli Prison Authority was negligent in providing him with appropriate medical treatment, so his health condition deteriorated.
The Israeli government, its occupations forced and settlers living in the OPT in violation of international law have continued activities or settlement expansion in the West Bank. Armed Israeli settlers, protected by IOF, have also continued to commit crimes against Palestinian civilians and property.

Settlement Activities and Attacks by Settlers against Palestinian Civilians and Property

Settlement Expansion

Although the Israeli government undertook, especially in the Annapolis Conference held at the end of November 2007, to stop all settlement activities in the OPT, it intensified settlement activities in 2008.

PCHR emphasizes that Israeli settlement activities in the OPT clearly violate international humanitarian law, particularly the Fourth Geneva Convention. PCHR further reminds that the Israeli government undertook to stop settlement activities both in the Oslo Accords of 1993, and in its acceptance of the Road Map Plan of 2003 for peace in the Middle East.

In 2008, IOF and their civil wings, such as the Municipality of Jerusalem, Ministry of Housing, Ministry of Interior and the Higher Council of Organization invited bids for the construction of 2,400 housing units in the OPT. This number includes 100 units in “Alakanah” and “Ariel” settlements near Salfit town in the northern West Bank. The remaining unit were planned to be constructed in settlements established in Easat Jerusalem and its suburbs, such as “Pisgat Ze’ev”, “Har Homa” and “Beitar Elite” settlements. Israeli authorities also approved and/or endorsed the construction of 6,570 housing units in settlements established in East Jerusalem and its suburbs, including the settlements of “Neve Yacoub”, “Ramat Shlomo”, “Har Homa”, “Givat Ze’ev” and “Givat Hamatos.” Thus, the number of housing units, whose construction was started or approved in 2008 was 8,970, most of which are inside the boundaries of Jerusalem, which were unilaterally decided by IOF. IOF annexed large parts, which are occupied Palestinian lands, within these boundaries in application to a Jewish settlement theory that is based on “wider land and less Arabs.”

Confiscation of Palestinian Civilian Property

In 2008, IOF continued to confiscate Palestinian civilian property for the purpose of settlement expansion, in violation of the international humanitarian law, which prohibits changing the nature of an occupied territory without a military necessity, a condition that is not fulfilled in this case.

In the context of ethnic cleansing practiced against Palestinian civilians living in Area C as categorized the Oslo Accords of 1993, the Israeli High Court rejected a petition submitted by the Committee against House Demolition, which demanded the cancellation of orders to demolish many houses in al-‘Aqaba village in the northern Jordan Valley. If these orders were implemented, at least 60% of the total number of houses in the village would be demolished and the area of the village would be reduced from 3,000 to 100 donums. This court ruling further supports PCHR’s view that the Israeli judiciary has turned into a tool to legalize illegal Israeli measures and settlement activities in the OPT.

The court ruling also came in the context of an Israeli policy that aims at sealing off the Jordan Valley along the eastern border of the West Bank. In the context of this policy, IOF confiscated at least 416 donums of agricultural land in Kherbat Samra area, east of Tubas town, and Bardala village in the northern Jordan Valley, for the purpose of settlement expansion.

Judaization of East Jerusalem

The Israeli government and its occupation forces have continued settlement activities in East Jerusalem and suburbs in the context of efforts to Judaize the city. They have cut off the city from its Palestinian extension in the West Bank, have constructed new sections of the Annexation Wall, have continued activities of settlement expansion inside and around the city. The Israeli Ministry of Interior has continued to confiscate identity cards of Palestinian civilians, while the Municipality of Jerusalem has continued to demolish their houses under allegations of unlicensed construction.

In 2008, IOF, through the Municipality of Jerusalem, continued to demolish Palestinian houses throughout the city and its suburbs under claims of unlicensed construction. The municipality has continued to impose prolonged and complicated procedures for issuing construction licensed for Palestinian civilians, who are under the pressure of strong needs of natural growth to build new houses or expand existing ones without obtaining licenses. IOF, through the Municipality of Jerusalem, the Ministry of Housing, the Ministry of Interior and settlement associations, approved the construction of thousands of housing units for Israeli settlers inside and around the city.

IOF have continued preparations to establish a railway network in Jerusalem. The IOF Municipality of Jerusalem started this project in 2006. This network aims at linking Israeli settlements located to the northeast of Jerusalem with West Jerusalem. With regard to the progress of work, IOF have almost completed the second stage in Sho‘fat area in the north of the city and “Pisgat Ze‘ev” settlement. The first stage included 3 out of 15 kilometers, which is the expected length of the railway. Works at the project have caused disruption of traffic in Palestinian areas in the north of Jerusalem.
Additionally, IOF have continued to impose severe restrictions on activities of Palestinian NGOs in Jerusalem claiming that they are linked with Palestinian Liberation Organizations (PLO) and/or the Palestinian National Authority (PNA), even though the identity and activities of those NGOs are clear. Measures by IOF included storming offices of NGOs banning official and public meetings even if they were social ones, claiming that such activities are linked with the PLO or the PNA.

The Judaization of Arab Jerusalem started with its annexation to Israeli territory, and continued with the confiscation of Palestinian property, the establishment of Jewish settlements, construction of the Annexation Wall, the prevention of building new house and demolition of existing ones, the issuance of racist orders that aim at expelling the Palestinian population and the isolation of the city through imposing a tightened siege on it. PCHR believes that forcible migration of Palestinian civilians from Jerusalem is one of the methods followed by Israel to create a new reality in the city, where Jews constitute the overwhelming majority of the population. Israeli successive governments have made efforts to ensure that the Palestinians never exceed 22% of the total population of the city in order to change the demographic nature of the city. To achieve this goal, those governments have taken a series of measure, the latest of which have been the construction of the Annexation Wall, which has rendered thousands of Palestinians outside the boundaries of the city, the confiscation of Jerusalemite identity cards of Palestinians and the annexation of Israeli settlement blocs to the city.

Attacks by Israeli Settlers against Palestinian civilians and Property

In 2008, attacks by Israeli settlers against Palestinian civilians and property continued. Such attacks included shootings, running down civilians with vehicles and destruction of or damage to civilian property. In 2008, 5 Palestinian civilians were killed by Israeli settlers in the OPT; four civilians were shot dead whereas the fifth one was run down. This brings the number of Palestinian civilians killed by Israeli settlers to 45 since the beginning of the current Intifada in September 2000.

Attacks by Israeli settlers often take place before the eyes of IOF, which even protect them. IOF also neglect complaints submitted by Palestinian civilians concerning attacks launched by settlers, thus encouraging them to launch more attacks.

In the last month of 2008, attacks by Israeli settlers against Palestinian civilians and their property became more systematic. After the Israeli High Court ordered the evacuation of al-Rajabi building, which had been seized by Israeli settlers in Hebron since 19 March 2007, Israeli settlers launched a series of attacks throughout the West Bank, using firearms. IOF did not intervene to stop such attacks, and even provided protection to settlers.

In 2008, PCHR documented 170 attacks by Israeli settlers, in comparison with 100 attacks in 2007. Attacks in 2008 were: 90 in Hebron; 26 in Nablus;
20 in Ramallah and al-Bireh; 12 in Qalqilya; 8 in Jerusalem; 7 in Salfit; 4 in Bethlehem; and 3 in Jenin. The categories of the attacks were: 48 of them were harassments; 36 were against houses; 34 were against farmers and shepherds and their property; 13 were shootings; 7 were against religious sites; 5 were running down by cars; and 27 were other attacks, including closing roads and throwing stones at Palestinian civilian vehicles.

Shooting: In 2008, PCHR documented 13 gunfire attacks by armed Israeli settlers against Palestinian civilians. Three Palestinian civilians were killed. On 3 March 2008, dozens of Palestinian school students demonstrated in al-Mazra’a village, northwest of Ramallah, in protest to attacks by IOF against the Gaza Strip. The demonstrators moved towards “Tilmon B” settlement to the southwest of the village. Immediately, an Israeli settler who gathered with other settlers near the settlement fired at the demonstrators. As a result, a Palestinian civilian was killed. On 31 March 2008, an Israeli settler shot dead a Palestinian civilian when he got close to 2 Israeli settlers who were waiting at a bus stop near the entrance of “Shilu” settlement north of Ramallah. Israeli sources claimed that 2 Israeli settlers noticed a Palestinian running towards them and holding a knife, so one of them shot him dead. On 9 May 2008, a Palestinian civilian was shot dead and another one was arrested by the guards of “Ofra” settlement, northeast of Ramallah. IOF claimed that the victim attempted to get close to the settlement to fire at it from a hunting rifle. On 27 September 2008, Israeli settlers abducted and shot dead a Palestinian civilian from ‘Aqraba village, southeast of Nablus.

Running down: On 7 April 2008, an Israeli settler driving a bus ran down to death a Palestinian child to the east of Nablus. According to investigations conducted by PCHR, the child was on a donkey grazing animals crossing the bypass road to the east of the village. An Israeli bus coming from the east ran him down to death. His donkey and 8 sheep were also killed.

Attacks against Farmers and Shepherds and Their Property: Such attacks constituted a large portion of the total number of attacks by Israeli settlers against Palestinian civilians and property. They included beating farmers and shepherds; expelling farmers from their lands; destruction of agricultural tools; seizure of agricultural lands; and uprooting trees. The number of such attacks in 2008 was 34.

Attacks on Houses: In 2008, PCHR documented 36 attacks by Israeli settlers against Palestinian houses. Most of those attacks took place in Hebron, where dozens of extremist settlers live in settlement outposts in its center. Israeli settlers fired and threw stones and empty bottles at them.

Harassment: Acts of harassment by IOF against Palestinian civilians serve to encourage Israeli settlers to do the same. In 2008, PCHR documented 48 cases of harassment by Israeli settlers against Palestinian civilians, including medics, journalists and human rights defenders, especially in Hebron.
PART ONE: HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN THE OPT

Section 1: Israeli Violations of Human Rights and International Humanitarian Law

Over the year, IOF indiscriminately attacked all civilian property, including houses, schools, industrial and commercial facilities, agricultural land and public buildings. They used various means to carry out the destruction of civilian property; they employed the law to demolish houses under the pretext of the lack of licenses, as it was the case in Jerusalem, they destroyed civilian property through air strikes; and they destroyed civilian property during military incursions into Palestinian communities.

According to PCHR’s documentation, in 2008, IOF destroyed 216 houses in the OPT (107 in the West Bank and 109 in the Gaza Strip. They also heavily damaged 680 houses and razed 3,424 donums of agricultural land in the Gaza Strip. Additionally, they destroyed other civilian facilities, including public buildings, charities and sports clubs.

The end of 2008 was characterized by wanton destruction of civilian property in the context of the IOF offensive on the Gaza Strip, which started on 27 December 2008.

In the West Bank, IOF continued to demolish Palestinian houses in Area “C” under the Oslo Accords. In 2008, this policy was focused on occupied Arab Jerusalem, where IOF demolish Palestinian houses under various pretexts, including the lack of building licenses. IOF require Palestinians to obtain building licenses in East Jerusalem and areas located near Israeli settlements and bypass roads, but they adopt prolonged and complicated procedures in offering such licenses. The policy adopted by IOF for offering building licenses is of a racist nature, as Palestinian civilians have to follow very complicated procedures to obtain licenses, whereas Israelis can obtain such licenses easily. In light of such policy and the pressure of the need, Palestinian civilians are forced to build houses without licenses even though they know the outcome in advance.

In 2008, IOF demolished 107 houses in the West Bank distributed as shown in the following table:

IOF also destroyed 127 civilian facilities, including factories, workshops and public buildings.

Additionally, IOF razed 3,420 donums of agricultural land, and destroyed 72 irrigation networks, 4 water wells, 3 agricultural pools, 11 bird farms and 34 agricultural rooms. They also destroyed 43 greenhouses and damaged 7 ones.
PART ONE: HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN THE OPT

Section 1: Israeli Violations of Human Rights and International Humanitarian Law

In the past 7 years, IOF completed the construction of many sections of the Wall, which is being constructed inside the West Bank territory rather than along the Green Line separating the West Bank from Israel. Israel, which sticks to security claims to create unilateral new facts on the ground, has used the Wall as a birder in its negotiations with Palestinians, who aspire to establish their state within the 4 June 1967 boundaries. The Wall has created new facts on the ground that makes it difficult to talk about the establishment of a viable, contiguous Palestinian state.

The International Court of Justice issued, on 9 July 2004, its advisory opinion regarding the legal consequences of the Wall, in response to a request by a UN General Assembly resolution on 3 December 2003. The Court ruled the Wall being constructed by Israel in the OPT, including Jerusalem, violates international law. The court also decided that Israel is obliged to stop its violations of international law, stop the construction of the wall, tear down the sections already constructed, abolish all relevant legislations and orders and compensate Palestinians harmed during the construction of the wall.

The Wall around Jerusalem

In spite of the ICJ Advisory Opinion, IOF have continued to construct the Annexation Wall. The construction in 2008 was mainly focused around Jerusalem. IOF have completed the construction of the majority of the section of the Wall around the city according to the plans of the Israeli Municipality of Jerusalem.

The dominant principle in setting the route in the Jerusalem area is to run the route along the city’s municipal border. In 1967, Israel annexed into Jerusalem substantial parts of the West Bank, a total of some 70,000 dunoms. Some 220,000 Palestinians now live in these annexed areas. There are two sections in which the Wall does not run along the municipal border. One is in the Kufr ‘Aqab neighborhood. The other is in the area of

Annexation Wall in the West Bank

In the end of June 2002, the Israeli government, headed by Ariel Sharon, decided to construct a separation barrier between Israel and the West Bank, to prevent Palestinians from entering its territory except through a security system it establishes. At first, the Israeli government claimed that the barrier would be of a security nature and without any political implications. Over the time, with new facts were created on the ground, some Israeli politicians declared that the barrier would constitute a border line between Israel and a future Palestinian state.

The International Court of Justice issued, on 9 July 2004, its advisory opinion regarding the legal consequences of the Wall, in response to a request by a UN General Assembly resolution on 3 December 2003. The Court ruled the Wall being constructed by Israel in the OPT, including Jerusalem, violates international law. the Shu’afat refugee camp. These are separated from the rest of the city by the barrier even though they lie within the city’s jurisdictional area.

The construction of the Wall in the south, north and east of Jerusalem comes in the context of a settlement project known as “Jerusalem envelope,” whose length is approximately 50 kilometers. The northern section of the Wall starts from Bitounia town, northwest of Jerusalem, passing through Qalandya area, and ends near al-Ram town, north of Jerusalem. The construction of this section, whose length is 8 kilometers, has been completed and Qalandya checkpoint between Ramallah and Jerusalem has been transformed into an international crossing point. Another section of the Wall has been constructed on Ramallah – Jerusalem road between Qalandya and Dahiat al-Barid checkpoints, placing Palestinian areas in the west within the boundaries of Jerusalem according to Israeli annexation plans. Palestinian areas in the east, which are densely populated areas, have been kept within the boundaries of the West Bank. IOF have also placed cement blocks in Wadi ‘Ayad area between Dahiat al-Barid and al-Aqbat areas near “Neve Ya’coub” settlement, north of East Jerusalem.

IOF started to construct a 17-kilometer-long part of the eastern section, extending form al-Khas and al-No’man villages, east of Bethlehem, to Abu Dis and al-‘Eizariya villages in the south. The other part covers a distance of fourteen kilometers, from the southern edge of ‘Anata to the Qalandya checkpoint on the north. It surrounds al-Ram, ‘Anata and Kufor ‘Aqab villages, Shu’fat refugee camp, and Sameeramis suburb.

The southern section of the Wall around Jerusalem extends from al-Khas and al-No’man villages, east of Bethlehem, passing through Beit Sahour, Bethlehem and Beit Jala towns, to the Tunnels roads, southwest of Bethlehem. IOF have completed the construction of large parts of this section. They have also established a new crossing to the north of Bethlehem. This section separates between Jerusalem and Bethlehem, and deprives hundreds of Palestinian civilians of access to their land located to the north of the Wall (approximately 8,000 donums).

A few days before the end of 2008, the Israeli Prime Minister Ehurd Olmert instructed the IOF command to complete the construction of the Annexation Wall around Jerusalem by 2009. Olmert took this decision following a tour near the Wall surrounding Jerusalem. He claimed that the construction of the Wall “is necessary for Israel’s security.” He further claimed that “as time passes, the security fence turned from a project that is condemned by the international community into a one that explains how to provide protection from suicide bombings; states that wish to combat terrorism, like that we saw in Jerusalem and other towns, refer to Israel to study this model.” According to the Israeli Prime Minister’s office, the Wall around Jerusalem would be 164.5 kilometers long; and approximately 110 kilometers of it have been constructed, 50 kilometers are being constructed and 4.5 kilometers are under court consideration.
Restrictions on the Movement of Palestinian Farmers

IOF have imposed severe restrictions on the movement of Palestinians on both sides of the Wall. In 2008, IOF imposed additional restrictions on the movement of Palestinians.

IOF decreased hours of opening gates established along the Wall, restricting access of Palestinian farmers to their agricultural lands which are isolated behind the Wall. During the season of olive cultivation, IOF impose a strict system of restrictions on the movement of Palestinian farmers. The IOF “Civil Administration” requests Palestinian farmers to obtain permits to be allowed to reach their agricultural land beyond the Wall. To be able to obtain a permit, a farmer must be a registered owner of a tract of land, which is almost unavailable as most of agricultural land are registered to deceased people and the heirs do not all live in the West Bank.

The construction of the Wall has brought new restrictions on movement for Palestinians living near the Wall’s route, in addition to the widespread restrictions that have been in place since the outbreak of the current Palestinian Intifada. Thousands of Palestinians have difficulty going to their fields and marketing their produce in other areas of the West Bank. Farming is a primary source of income in the Palestinian communities situated along the Wall’s route. The harm to the farming sector is liable to have drastic economic effects on the residents – whose economic situation is already very difficult – and drive many families into poverty.

The impacts of restrictions on the movement of Palestinians have not been limited to the agricultural sector, rather they have included other aspects of life. Access of Palestinian to medical care, education and relatives has been restricted, as Palestinian are required to obtain permits to move through gates established on the Wall, which are operated under a strict security system. IOF often close those gates for no apparent reasons.
The Absence of Justice in the Israeli Judiciary and Efforts to Prosecute Israeli War Criminals before the International Judiciary

Justice is absolutely absent in the Israeli judiciary, especially the military one, when cases are related to Palestinians, particularly those living in the OPT. IOF initiated investigations into a few dozens out of thousands of crimes committed by IOF in the OPT during the al-Aqsa Intifada, and in the majority of cases, civilian victims were not granted reparation.

Through its long experience, PCHR has concluded that the Israeli judiciary is used to provide legal cover for IOF to commit war crimes against Palestinian civilians, and that it is a means used to avoid resorting to the international justice directly under the pretext of the existence of a just Israeli national judiciary.

In light of these facts, PCHR, in cooperation with a number of international legal and human rights organizations, has resorted to international legal means to prosecute Israeli war criminals. PCHR continued such efforts in 2008. In this context, on 24 June 2008, PCHR filed a lawsuit at the National Court of Spain, the highest Spanish judicial council, against seven former senior Israeli military officials. These include former Defence Minister Benjamin Ben-Eliezer, his former military advisor, Michael Herzog, former Israeli Army Chief of Staff Moshe Ya’alon and Dan Halutz, former Commander of the Israeli Air Force, who are all suspected of committing a war crime in the Gaza Strip in July 2002. This is the first time survivors of an Israeli military attack have filed a lawsuit against members of the Israeli military in Spain. The National Court of Spain accepted to examine the case, the first step towards launching a formal prosecution.

In May 2008, PCHR instructed Prof. Dr. Liesbeth Zegveld of Dutch law firm Bohler Franken Koppe Wijngaarden (BFKW) to submit a complaint to the prosecutors’ office on his behalf asking for Mr Ayalon to be arrested and prosecuted in the Netherlands. The evidence file of Mr. Khaled al-Shami’s torture in 1999-2000 was collected by PCHR, which only sought justice abroad after the Israeli authorities failed to act on al-Shami’s allegations, in part because torture is routinely sanctioned in Israel. On 16 May 2008, law firm BFKW filed a torture complaint with the Dutch Prosecution authorities on behalf of Mr Al Shami. Under Article 6 and Article 7 of the United Nations Convention Against Torture (UNCAT) any State Party in whose territory a person alleged to have committed torture is present should arrest the suspect and prosecute him or her (or extradite the suspect for trial elsewhere). The Dutch authorities failed to arrest Ayalon, currently Minister without Portfolio in the Israeli Government, while he was visiting the Netherlands from 16 to 20 May 2008, even though there was a prima facie case and they concluded he was not immune from prosecution - that failure would be the subject of a legal challenge in the Court of Appeal in The Hague, and an Order would be sought requiring a criminal investigation supported by an extradition request or an international arrest warrant. An application for his arrest was submitted to the Dutch authorities by Khalid al-Shami, who alleged that he Ayalon’s visit to the Netherlands provided an exceptional opportunity and engaged a duty to arrest him and establish jurisdiction. The initial torture complaint included a request for urgency, since Mr. Ayalon was thought to be due to leave the Netherlands on 20 May 2008. The failure of the Public Prosecutor to initiate an investigation occurred because of a delayed decision by the College of Procurators-General (‘the College’) that Ami Ayalon lacked immunity. Accordingly, Mr. Ayalon could indeed be prosecuted in the Netherlands, but by the time the decision of the College was made, on 21 May 2008, he had just left Dutch territory.

On 6 October 2008, PCHR applied to the Court of Appeal in The Hague for an Order requiring the Prosecutor to start a criminal investigation into Ayalon and to issue an extradition order or an international arrest warrant to secure his presence in the Netherlands during any trial. Alternatively, Mr. al-Shami at least seeks an Order for an ‘anticipatory investigation’, so that a criminal investigation file is opened.

In spite of the importance of court rulings against Israeli war criminals in countries where complaints were submitted, procedures to arrest them were often disappointing for PCHR and the victims. In all cases where arrest warrants were issued against war criminals, executive bodies were so slow and hesitant in implementing them, which allowed war criminals to evade arrests. For instance, the Anti-Terrorist and War Crimes Unit of the Metropolitan Police in the United Kingdom failed to execute a warrant for the arrest of Major General Almog, GOC Southern Commander of the Israeli military from 8 December 2000 to 7 July 2003, when he refused to leave a plane which had recently landed at Heathrow and police officers decided not to board it to arrest him. One of Almog’s alleged victims, Mr. Abdul Salam Matar, made a police complaint about the apparent tip off to Mr Almog and the failure to board the aircraft to arrest him. The Metropolitan Police Service initially refused even to record the police complaint, let alone investigate it, but, after the Independent Police Complaint Comission intervened, the shocking details of their incompetence on 1011 September 2005 were revealed.7 In these circumstances, it was not surprising that Mr Almog was alerted to the existence of the warrant and so decided not to leave the airplane on 11 September. What is surprising are the reasons why Det. Superintendent MacBrayne and Commander McDowall made the decision not board the airplane.

In spite of the disappointing deliberate hesitation that has so far allowed suspect Israeli war criminals to evade justice abroad, PCHR will continue its efforts, in cooperation with international legal organizations and lawyers, to ensure the prosecution of Israeli war criminals before the

Palestinian Violations of Human Rights and Obstacles to Democratic Reform

This section of the report highlights Palestinian violations of human rights and obstacles to democratic reform. By the end of 2008, political fragmentation and conflict in the Palestinian National Authority (PNA) had further escalated in an extension of the internal fighting of June 2007 that ended with Hamas’ takeover of the Gaza Strip. The conflict has caused a deep division in the Palestinian political systems, which has been reflected in the continued operation of two governments and separate police and security forces in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. The vision has also continued in the legislature, as the Change and Reform Bloc affiliated to Hamas has continued to hold sessions in Gaza and enacting legislations, although other parliamentary blocs have boycotted such sessions. On the other hand, the Palestinian President and the government in Ramallah have continued to trespass the legislature by issuing decrees that have the power of law, but applicable only in the West Bank. Additionally, the judiciary has continued to be seriously impacted since Hamas’ illegal takeover of the judiciary in the Gaza Strip, and accordingly two separate have been working in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank.
PART ONE: HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN THE OPT

Section 2: Palestinian Violations of Human Rights and Obstacles to Democratic Reform

Most violations of human rights are attributed to the conflict between Hamas and Fatah movements, and measures taken by the two governments in Gaza and Ramallah against Fatah members and Hamas members respectively.

This section of the report starts with addressing the impacts of the political conflict on the process of democratic reform, especially in light of the controversy over the end of the presidential term in January 2009, and the threats vowed by the government in Gaza and Hamas of considering the post of the President vacant unless new presidential election was held. PCHR explains its position towards this debate, and towards legislative, presidential and local elections in general.

Not only has the political conflict impacted the performance of the governance establishment, but it also has led to further deterioration to the human rights situation in the PNA controlled areas. Most violations of human rights are attributed to the conflict between Hamas and Fatah movements, and measures taken by the two governments in Gaza and Ramallah against Fatah members and Hamas members respectively.

This section then highlights other violations of human rights over the year, including violations of the right of life and attacks on personal security; arrests, torture and other forms of cruel and inhuman treatment; violations of the right to freedom of expression; violations of the right to peaceful assembly; violation of the right to association; and deterioration in the sector of public service in the Gaza Strip.
Controversy over End of Presidential Term and Obstacles to Hold Elections

As the conflict and political fragmentation in the PNA have escalated, as well as due to the external factors that have undermined the democratic process following the Palestinian legislative elections of January 2006,8 Palestinians have moved farther away from the track of the democratic process. There were hopes that efforts to ensure national reconciliation and dialogue would prove fruitful, but all such efforts failed and the internal situation further deteriorated and Palestinians were disappointed.

This section focuses on two main issues: The controversy over the end of the presidential term, and the election of local councils in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip.

Controversy over End of Presidential Term

The second half of 2008 witnessed widespread national controversy regarding the end of Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas' term in office on 9 January 2009. Hamas and the government in Gaza claimed the current Presidential term would end on 8 January 2009, in accordance with the end of the four-year period since the last Presidential Election was held on 9 January 2005. They stated that, unless new Presidential elections were held at that time, the Presidential post would become vacant. At this point the Speaker of the Palestinian Legislative Council (PLC) would temporarily fill the vacancy for 60 days, during which period new elections would be held in order to elect a new President of the PNA, as stated in the Palestinian Basic Law.

However, Fatah movement and the government in Ramallah claimed that Election Law No. 9 (2005), which was passed by the PLC, extended the President’s term in order to allow simultaneous elections for the PLC and the Palestinian Presidency to be held at the end of the PLC term in January 2010.

PCHR conducted extensive legal discussions over this issue. It recruited the assistance of legal experts, including constitutional law experts. It also conducted a thorough analysis of statements and claims issued by both by Fatah and Hamas supporters. Following such discussions, PCHR issued a position paper representing the conclusions it reached, which the PCHR hoped would contribute to clarifying the issues involved, and undermining the manipulation of law in order to serve political interests. PCHR warned of continued fragmentation in the PNA institutions, which would lead to further deterioration of the Palestinian people's struggle for self-determination, and place additional burdens on Palestinians across the OPT. PCHR called for unity in order to end... the Israeli occupation and to facilitate the legitimate and inalienable rights of the Palestinian people.

In its position paper, PCHR argued that article 37 of the Amended Palestinian Basic Law (2003) unequivocally and precisely states three cases in which the post of PNA President is considered vacant: a. Death; b. Resignation handed to the PLC if accepted by a 2/3 majority; and c. Loss of legal jurisdiction through a decision by the Higher Constitutional Court and accepted by a 2/3 majority in the PLC. PCHR stressed that only in these three cases does the PLC Speaker assume the responsibilities of the PNA Presidency for up to 60 days, during which time Presidential Elections are held in accordance with the law. There is no provision in the Basic Law stating that the end of the 4-year Presidential term\(^9\) constitutes a vacancy in the Presidential post. If that was the case, the legislators would have explicitly stated so.

Even though PCHR realizes that the end of the Presidential term requires holding Presidential elections prior to 10 January 2009, holding such elections require appropriate conditions and environment to ensure fairness and transparency in all stages of the electoral process to reflect the electorate’s will. In light of the ongoing split between Fatah and Hamas, the conditions and environment in the OPT do not ensure free and transparent elections reflecting the will of the electorate. Current conditions do not indicate that this environment will change in the foreseeable future if both sides do not immediately start serious and constructive dialogue in order to end the split and agree on elections or another solution in order to re-unify the OPT and the political leadership of the PNA. PCHR added that if the PLC took over the Presidential post after 9 January 2009, this would lead to further fragmentation that would not allow for free and fair elections in the OPT within 60 days.

In light of these problems, PCHR concluded that without a comprehensive national dialogue for all Palestinian factions, including Fatah and Hamas movements, putting the interests of the Palestinian people above the narrow, factional interests of the conflicting parties, appropriate conditions to hold legislative and presidential elections would not be achieved.

Elections of Local Councils

The internal situation and continued fragmentation in the PNA, as well as the international boycott the Israeli siege imposed on the Gaza Strip negatively impacted efforts to complete elections of local councils in the PNA controlled areas.

According to the Palestinian Electoral Law, new elections are supposed to be held for local councils that were elected in the first stage of local elections that were held on 23 December 2004 for 26 local councils in the West Bank and on 27 January 2005 for 10 local councils in the Gaza Strip. However, by the end of 2008, such elections had not been held and no dates had been specified for holding such elections.

\(^9\) As determined in Article 36 of the Basic Law (2005) amending some Articles of the 2003 Amended Basic Law.
Moreover, by the end of 2008, elections for 59 local councils in the West Bank and the Gaza, including major cities, had not been held. Elections for these councils were supposed to be held in the context of the 5th stage of local elections, whose previous 4 stages were held between December 2004 and December 2005 and included 265 local councils. The second stage of elections for local councils, which was held in May 2005 and included 84 local councils, including 8 ones in the Gaza Strip, was characterized by some problems regarding fairness of elections for the elections of the local councils of al-Boreij, Beit Lahia and Rafah in the Gaza Strip. The Palestinian judiciary decided to hold a rerun in some stations in these areas on 1 June 2005, but Hamas boycotted these elections. Since then, appointed local councils have continued to administer services in these areas.

In 2008, the two governments in Ramallah and Gaza continued to appoint local councils. In Gaza, the government appointed local councils for major towns, where elections had not been held. It also dismissed local councils of al-Boreij, Beit Lahia and Rafah, and appointed new ones affiliated to Hamas. In the West Bank, appointed local councils in areas where elections had not been held continued to service in office.
PART ONE: HUMAN RIGHTS SITUATION IN THE OPT

Section 2: Palestinian Violations of Human Rights and Obstacles to Democratic Reform

Excessive Use of Force by Law Enforcement Officials

In 2008, 26 Palestinians were killed by Palestinian security officers during processes of law enforcement in the Gaza Strip. Additionally, at least 170 others (154 in the Gaza Strip and 16 in the West Bank), including 20 children and 7 women, were wounded. Excessive force was used during attempts to arrest suspects of wanted persons, and during armed clashes with Palestinian clans. Regrettably, no investigation was conducted into such incidents and no legal action was taken against shooters.

- On 15 April 2008, 4 Palestinian civilians, including a child, were wounded when Palestinian security forces fired at a militant who did not obey orders to stop in the center of Nablus.
- On 18 May 2008, Abdul Hadi Shatti al-Soufi, 38, from Rafah, was shot dead when he attempted to escape from police officers who came to arrest him in al-Mawasi area in the west of the town.
- On 1 June 2008, 7 Palestinian civilians were wounded during clashes with Palestinian security officers in Beit Fourik village, east of Nablus, when security forces waged a campaign against illegal vehicles in the village.
- On 6 June 2008, 4 persons, including a police officer, were killed, and 9 others were wounded during armed clashes between the Hassanain clan and the police, which erupted when the police stormed the clan’s houses in al-Shoja‘eya neighborhood in the east of Gaza City to arrest wanted persons. Those who were killed are:
  1. Nawaf Kamel Hassanain, 39;
  2. Mawan Kamel Hassanain, 37;

In 2008, violations of the right of life and attack on personal security in the OPT continued. In 2008, 146 Palestinians, including 25 children and 13 women, were killed and at least 411 others were wounded by Palestinians. The excessive use of force by law enforcement officials was the major form of violations of the rights to life. Two persons were also killed as a result of other forms of violence and misuse of weapons, which are part of the state of lawlessness and security chaos spreading over the OPT. The state of lawlessness included also the misuse of weapons by well-known and unknown armed groups; employment of weapons in personal and clan disputes; and extra-judicial killing of persons alleged to protect “family honor;” and killings of prisoners and detainees who fled Gaza Central Prison, which lies in the Palestinian security compound known as “al-Saraya”, after IOF had bombarded the compound.

- On 2 August 2008, al-Shoja’eya neighborhood in the east of Gaza City witnessed bloody clashes between security services of the Ministry of Interior and gunmen from the Helles clan. Eleven Palestinians, including 2 police officers and 8 members of the Helles clan, were killed, and 103 others, including 17 children and 6 women, were wounded. The clashes erupted as the Helles clan rejected demands by the government in Gaza to extradite a number of suspects of assaults against the rule of law, including the explosion that occurred at Gaza beach on 25 July 2008, which killed a child and 5 members of the ‘Izziddin al-Qassam Brigades (the armed wing of Hamas), according to sources of the Ministry of Interior.

- On 15 September 2008, Al-Sabra neighborhood in the east of Gaza City witnessed bloody clashes between the Palestinian police and gunmen from the Dughmosh clan. Ten members of the Dughmosh clan, including 2 children, and a police officer were killed, and another 42 persons, including 10 police officers were wounded. The clashes erupted after a police officer, ‘Abdul Karim ‘Aadel Khuzaiq, 20, was killed by a gunshot to the head, and another one was wounded in an exchange of fire between the police and a suspect, Jameel Dugmosh, when the police attempted to arrest him inside the headquarters of the Municipality of Gaza. There were allegations that a number of the Dughmosh clan were executed after having been arrested. On 17 September 2008, PCHR sent a letter to the Minister of Interior in Gaza, Mr. Sa’id Siam, demanding investigation into information obtained by PCHR from eyewitnesses that 7 members of the Dughmosh clan, including two wounded ones, were executed after they had been captured by the police on 16 September 2008. However, PCHR has not received any response to its letter yet.

- On 9 December 2008, 5 persons, including a woman, were wounded by Palestinian security services that attempted to arrest a wanted person in al-Rama neighborhood in Hebron. Security officers also beat a number of bystanders, including women.

Misuse of Weapons by Known and Unknown Armed Groups

In 2008, 64 Palestinians, including 19 children and 8 women, were killed and at least 150 others were wounded as a result of the misuse of weapons by known and unknown armed groups. In the context of the state of lawlessness plaguing the OPT, those incidents endangered the security and safety of Palestinians and continued to cause casualties as legal action to confront them were absent. Incidents of the misuse of weapons included storage of weapons in populated areas; use of weapons by unknown groups; and use of weapons by militias.

- On 12 January 2008, the body of Sha’ban Salem Dughmosh, 39, from al-Sabra neighborhood in Gaza City was found in the Juhor al-Dik

• On 15 September 2008, a number of masked gunmen who stepped down from 2 civilian vehicles (a grey GMC and a white Land Rover) kidnapped Ra’ed al-Harazin, who used to be a member of the Palestinian General Intelligence Service, from his house in al-Mansoura Street in al-Shoja’eya neighborhood in the east of Gaza City and took him to an unknown destination. An hour and a half later, his family was informed that he was in a close area of the house. Members of the family went to the area where they found him in a critical condition. They took him to al-Quds Hospital in Gaza City. As his health condition deteriorated, a decision was taken to transfer him to an Israeli hospital, but he died at Erez crossing on 17 September 2008. Using Weapons in Personal and Clan Disputes

Weapons continued to be employed in personal and clan disputes in the context of the state of lawlessness plaguing the OPT. In 2008, 22 Palestinians, including 3 children and two women, were killed, and 49 others were wounded in personal and clan disputed.

- On 7 January 2008, Najwa ‘Aqel al-Sayed, 45, from Nussairat refugee camp in the central Gaza Strip, was killed and three others, including a woman, were injured in an intra-clan clash involving members of the Abu Meddain clan over a tract of land.

On the following day, Safawt Mohammed al-Salaima, 13, was seriously killed by a gunshot to the head during an exchange of fire between the two disputing clans. Al-Salaima was with his father in al-Sahla car park in the southeast of Hebron.

Extra-Judicial Executions “to Protect Family Honor”

In 2008, 3 Palestinian women and one man were killed “to protect family honor.” PCHR has often expressed deep concern over the continuation of murders related to the so called protection of family honors, as murderers are granted impunity with sentences of imprisonment for short periods. PCHR calls for taking deterring measures to deal with such murders, which are a form of willful killing, taking into consideration the law and international human rights instruments.

On 3 February 2008, ‘Abdul Rahman Mohammed ‘Ouda, 40, from Hawara village south of Nablus, was killed in an exchange of fire between him and Hani Mahmoud ‘Ouda, 35, in a dispute related to “family honor.” The latter was also wounded. The ‘Ouda’s clan had accused the former of sexually harassing the latter’s wife.

On 8 April 2008, the body of Rasha Khalil Bani ‘Ouda, 28, was found in Tammoun village, southeast of Tubas. The woman had disappeared days earlier. The police reported that she was killed because of “family honor” and her father and two brothers were arrested.

On 3 June 2008, the body of Khouloud Mohammed al-Najjar, 32, from Khan Yunis, was brought to the Martyr Mohammed Yousef al-Najjar Hospital in Rafah. Her bruisd and bloody corpse was transferred to the Forensic Medicine Department at Shifa Hospital in Gaza City. her father, Mohammed Hussein al-Najjar, was arrested, and during questioning he apparently confessed that his daughter having died as a result of having been severely beaten by members of her family for her “immoral behavior.”

On 29 August 2008, a girl in Khan Yunis allegedly to maintain “the honor” of her family. On the following day, Hussein Mustafa Kaware’, 67, from Jourat al-Lout area in the southern Gaza Strip town of Khan Yunis, went to a police station in the town and confessed murdering his 24-year-old daughter, Hala, and burying her in land belonging to the family.
Killings of Prisoners and Detainees Who Fled Gaza Central Prison during the Israeli Military Offensive on Gaza

In the last 5 days of 2008, unidentified gunmen killed at 17 and detainees who fled Gaza Central Prison, which lies in the Palestinian security compound (al-Saraya) in central Gaza City, after the IOF had bombarded the compound on 28 December, 2008. The prisoners who fled included persons sentenced to death for collaboration with Israeli Security Services, those convicted of committing other criminal offenses, and persons who had been detained for questioning or were awaiting trial. According to testimonies given to PCHR by the families of those who were killed, as well as by eyewitnesses, unidentified gunmen abducted a number of prisoners whilst they were fleeing Gaza Central Prison, and their dead bodies were found a few days later in different areas of the Gaza Strip. Other prisoners and detainees who had escaped were abducted from their homes, and later found either dead or seriously injured. Some of the most seriously injured subsequently died of their injuries.

PCHR holds IOF responsible for the lives of those persons who were detained inside the prison, as targeting a prison, where dozens of civilians convicted or suspected of serious security and criminal crimes were detained, can never be justified. Nevertheless, PCHR believes that pursuing and killing those persons after fleeing as such constitute a form of security chaos and lawlessness. Accordingly, PCHR calls upon the Attorney-General to investigate these crimes and bring the perpetrators to the judiciary.

PCHR believes that pursuing and killing those persons after fleeing as such constitute a form of security chaos and lawlessness.
This section of the report highlights crimes of torture and other forms of cruel and inhuman treatment by security forces of the two Palestinian governments in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank. It particularly details arbitrary campaigns of arrest by security services belonging to the two governments in the context of mutual retaliation between the two sides. According to PCHR’s documentation, illegal arrests and crimes of torture increasingly continued in 2008 under the state of political fragmentation in the PNA. Some political and field leaders of Fatah and Hamas movements were arrested in mutual reactions between the two sides, who did not admit that such arrests were political and claimed that they were based on security or criminal offenses.

In many cases, arrests are not carried out in accordance with appropriate legal procedures. Sometimes, arrests are conducted by parties that are not authorized of law enforcement, in violation of the Palestinian law, under which arrests fall under the mandate of judicial officials, including the civil police, who are under the supervision of the Attorney-General. Other time, arrests are conducted by law enforcement officials, but without following necessary legal procedures, including having arrest warrants issued by the Attorney-General. Additionally, detainees are held in illegal detention centers, which lack the minimum standards of appropriate detention conditions, in violation of the Law of Reform and Rehabilitation Centers of 1998.

In 2008, Palestinian lawyers faced extreme difficulties in their attempts to visit their clients in prisons and detention centers in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. In Gaza, PCHR lawyers were prevented in several occasions from visiting their clients detained by security services of the government in Gaza. PCHR is concerned that such ban was motivated by the perpetration of illegal actions such as torture and other forms of cruel and inhumane treatment against prisoners, and views it as a violation of the law and relevant international standards. Specifically, it violates the right of detainees to lawyer visits.

In the Gaza Strip, hundreds of Palestinians, especially supporters and members of Fatah movement, were arrested by security services of the Gaza government. Mostly, such arrests were based on security or criminal allegations, such as accusations of involvement in explosions against security officials in Gaza or public places, or having contacts with the Ramallah government. The largest arrest campaign waged by security services was that one that followed an explosion at Gaza beach on 26 July 2008, which killed 6 Palestinians, including members of the ‘Izziddin al-Qassam Brigades of Hamas. The arrest campaign targeted hundreds of activists of Fatah movement who were arrested by the Internal Security
Service and the police. The campaign also targeted 18 persons with leading positions in Fatah movement, including secretary generals of Fatah movement in various districts, the spokesman of Fatah movement in Gaza, Dr. Hazem Abu Shanab, and the governors of Khan Yunis and Gaza, Dr. Ussama al-Farra and Mohammed al-Qidwa.

On 19 May, the Internal Security Service arrested Khan Yunis Governor, Dr. Ussama 'Abdul Sattar al-Farra, and three activists of Fatah movement. According to Dr. al-Farra, at approximately 00:00 on Monday, 19 May 2008, gunmen in civilian clothes apprehended Dr. al-Farra at his house in the Sheikh Nasser neighborhood in Khan Yunis. They also apprehended Eyad Nasser, Secretary General of Fatah movement in the west of Khan Yunis; Salem Abu Salah, Deputy Secretary General of Fatah movement in the east of Khan Yunis; and Dr. Nasser Farwana, Secretary General of Fatah’s Office for Physicians in Khan Yunis. The four men were taken to the Internal Security Apparatus compound west of Khan Yunis. Dr. al-Farra stated that he and the other men were all questioned about an event being organized by the National Commission for Civil Society Organizations to honor workers. Dr. al-Farra said they were all accused of incitement, and of inciting others by inviting them to the event. They were all released at approximately 04:00.

On 6 November 2008, members of the Internal Security raided the house of PLC Member Ashraf Jom’a, in al-Junaina neighborhood in Rafah. The force arrested more than 30 members of Fatah movement who were invited to have lunch in honor of other members of Fatah movement who were released by the government in Gaza on 30 October 2008. The arrested persons were taken to the police station in the building of Rafah Governorate. They were questioned about the lunch at Jom’a’s house and about the activities of Fatah members. They were released later at 20:00 on the same day with the exception of Salah al-'Oweisi and Khaled Mousa, both are Fatah district leaders.

In the West Bank, Palestinian security services waged arrest campaigns against activists and supporters of Hamas, including senior leaders and PLC members. Such arrests were based on allegations of possession of weapons, forming armed groups, establishing an executive force aiming at disrupting public order, or having contacts with the Gaza government. The largest arrest campaign by security services in the West Bank was the one that came in response to arrest campaigns against activists of Fatah movement and closure of a number of institutions close to Fatah movement in the Gaza Strip following the explosion at Gaza beach on 26 July. The campaign targeted at least 100 Palestinians, including academics, imams of mosques, university students, teachers and mayors affiliated to Hamas.

In a continuation of the aforementioned arrest campaigns, in early August, security services in the West Bank arrested more supporters and members of Hamas in Qalqilya and Nablus. Some of the detainees were released later, while the following persons remained in custody: Bilal Sa’id Swailim, 41, a member of the municipal council of Qalqilya; Mustafa ‘Ali Sabri, 42, a journalist and a member of the municipal council...
In light of persistent demanded by PCHR and other civil society organizations to put and end to political arrests by the two governments in Gaza and Ramallah, the Gaza government released 18 political prisoners from Fatah movement on 30 October 2008 as a goodwill initiative. Civil society groups welcomed this step and demanded a similar one in the West Bank.

Torture and Ill-Treatment

In the majority of cases of detention in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, members of Hamas and Fatah movements respectively were subjected to methods of torture and ill-treatment. Such methods included: insulting; beating using batons, sharp tools, feet and hands; and tying the feet and hands to a chair and beating with batons or wires of feet; and other methods. PCHR received many complaints from Palestinians who had been detained by the two governments in Gaza and Ramallah that they were subjected to various methods of torture and ill-treatment. In many occasions, detainees were taken to hospitals as they had been subjected to extreme torture in detention centers.

Deaths in Custody in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip

In 2008, 3 detainees died in prisons and detention centers in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip; two detainees died in the West Bank and the third one died in the Gaza Strip. In light of practicing detainees to various methods of torture and degrading treatment in prisons and detention centers that lack the minimum standards of appropriate detention conditions, including access to appropriate medical care, PCHR is concerned that these detainees died because of such circumstances.

- On 22 February, Majd ‘Abdul ‘Aziz al-Barghouthi, 44, from Koubar village, northwest of Ramallah, while in illegal detention, administered by the General Intelligence Service (GIS) of the Palestinian National Authority in Ramallah. The Palestinian Attorney General ordered an autopsy to be performed at the forensic medicine institute in Abu Dis. According to the forensic report – a copy of which has been obtained... by PCHR – “the cause of death was the inflation and subsequent failure of the heart. Having inflated to a size above normal, the heart failed, and under these circumstances, death is often sudden.” Al-Barghouthi was arrested by the GIS on 14 February once he exited from the local mosque in Koubar village. He was immediately transferred to the GIS Headquarters in the north of al-Bireh for interrogation. During his detention, al-Barghouthi was subjected to beating and torture.

In an affidavit given to PCHR, a Palestinian who had been detained by the GIS at the same time as Majd al-Barghouthi alleged that al-Barghouthi was violently beaten whilst in detention. The detainee claimed he recognized al-Barghouthi’s voice calling for help from an interrogation room opposite his own cell. He also alleged that he could hear al-Barghouthi being interrogated about his relationship with the Executive Force of the Palestinian Ministry of Interior in the dismissed government in the Gaza Strip.

- On 27 June, the body of Taleb Mohammed Abu Sitta, 72, from al-Zawaida village in the central Gaza Strip, was transported in an ambulance to al-Aqsa Martyrs Hospital in Deir al-Balah, and from there to the forensic department at Shifa Hospital in Gaza City. According to investigations conducted by PCHR, and testimonies of Abu Sitta’s family, on 26 June, police officers went to Abu Sitta’s house in al-Zawaida village in the central Gaza Strip, accompanied by his son, 26-year-old Mustafa, who had been arrested on the previous day. They searched the house for drugs. They then arrested Abu Sitta and took him to Deir al-Balah police station. The victim’s son, Mustafa, whom the police released after his father had dies, told PCHR that he was violently beaten and tortured during interrogation in Deir al-Balah police station, and that he was detained together with his father. He added that police officers tied his father’s hands and feet to a bed and beat him. They also violently beat him and his father during several rounds of interrogation, which continued until Friday morning, Mustafa added. At approximately 06:00, police officers awoke him and ordered him to help his father who was lying on the ground near the door of the room. They then ordered him to fill a bottle of water and splash it on the face of his father, who was fatigued, but the father died. A PCHR field worker reported that he could see clear signs of beating on Mustafa’s feet.

- On 29 September, Shadi Mohammed Mohammed Shaheen, 27, from al-Bireh town in the West Bank, died whilst in police custody in Jericho. Shaheen was originally detained by Palestinian military court order. On 8 March, he received a summons from the General Intelligence Service (GIS) in Ramallah, and was interrogated regarding charges of committing “Crimes that endanger the safety of internal homeland security.” Shaheen was detained by the GIS until 15 June 2008, when he was transferred to the Palestinian Police Rehabilitation and Discipline Center in Jericho, after an arrest warrant had been issued by the military prosecution. At approximately 15:00 on 29 September, Shaheen’s brother, Ashraf, received a phone call from a police officer who informed him that Shaheen was seriously ill. Ashraf immediately went to see his brother, and he was informed that Shaheen had just died at Jericho Hospital. Shaheen’s family stated that he had been interrogated about firing at the house of former PNA Minister of Information, Nabeel ‘Amru. The Ramallah police stated that, according to a report issued by the Forensic Medicine Institute, Shaheen died as a result of a pulmonary clot, without any external intervention. A PCHR field worker attempted to obtain a copy of the report from the Attorney-General’s office in Ramallah, but was informed that the Attorney-General’s office had already initiated an investigation into the circumstances of Shaheen’s death.

During the IOF war on the Gaza Strip (27 December 2008 – 18 January 2009), unidentified gunmen killed at least seventeen prisoners and detainees who fled or were released from Gaza Central Prison, which lies in the Palestinian security compound (Saraya) in the center of Gaza City, after the IOF had bombarded the compound on 28 December, 2008. The prisoners who fled included persons sentenced to death for collaboration with Israeli security services, those convicted of committing other criminal offenses, and persons who had been detained for questioning or were awaiting trial. Unidentified gunmen abducted a number of prisoners whilst they were fleeing Gaza Central Prison, and their dead bodies were found a few days later in different areas of the Gaza Strip. Other prisoners and detainees who had escaped were abducted from their homes, and later found either dead or seriously injured. Some of the most seriously injured subsequently died of their injuries. Some prisoners who were wounded by the IOF bombardment were shot dead by gunmen inside hospitals.10

Violations of the Right to Freedom of Expression and Assaults against Press Freedoms

In 2008, violations of the right to freedom of expression and assaults against press freedoms escalated in an unprecedented manner. The two parties of the conflict, the Gaza government headed by Isma’il Haniya and the Ramallah government headed by Salam Fayad, and their executive services perpetrated serious violations of this right in their respective controlled areas. Palestine Television and its reporters and correspondents were prevented from working in the Gaza Strip, and al-Aqsa Television and its reporters and correspondents were prevented from working in the West Bank. Other violations of this right by the two governments included detention of journalists; beating and humiliation; banning the distribution of newspapers; preventing journalists for carrying out their job; and storming media institutions and offices.

In the Gaza Strip, the most significant violations of this right were:

- On 7 January, unknown assailants raided the offices of the State Information Service in a 5-story building near United Nations Square (Haidar ‘Abdul Shafi Square) in Gaza City. They searched the offices and seized all computers and other equipment.

- On 15 January, members of the Internal Security Service of the Gaza government arrested journalist Muneer Abu Riziq when he had just left his house Tal al-Hawa neighborhood in the south of Gaza City. Abu Riziq was taken to al-Mashtal detention center north of Beach Camp in the west of the city.

- On 6 February, Gaza District Court issued a decision suspending the publication and distribution of al-Ayyam newspaper in response to a complaint submitted by Acting Speaker of the Palestinian Legislative Council (PLC), Dr. Ahmer Bahar, against editor-in-chief of the newspaper, after it had published a caricature in its issue #4242, which the PLC considered an insulation and criticism. In spite of the court ruling, the newspaper continued to be distributed in the Gaza Strip until 11 February, when the director of its office in Gaza, Sami al-Qishawi, received a phone call from an official at the Ministry of Interior, who informed him that the distribution of the newspaper in the Gaza Strip must be stopped; otherwise, it would be stopped by force. Accordingly, the distribution of the newspaper was stopped on 12 February. The distribution of the newspaper was resumed on 1 May.

- On 4 March, Sameer Khalifa, 38, correspondent of Palestinian Television, received a phone call from the spokesman of the Ministry of Interior in the dismissed government, Eihab al-Ghussain, informing him that a decision was taken to prevent him and his colleague, ‘Aadel al-Za’noun, from working for Palestine Television, including stopping sending voice reports to Palestine Television.
On 3 April, the Palestinian police confiscated the memory card of a camera belonging to a PCHR field worker, Waleed Zaqqout, and the video tapes of journalists Ibrahim Abu Mustafa and Nihad Shana’a, working for Reuters news agency, while they were in a work mission in al-Zawaida village in the central Gaza Strip.

On 18 April, police officers stopped ‘Emad al-‘Ajrami, a cameraman of al-Aalam Satellite Channel, as he was intending to photograph the demonstration. They forcibly confiscated his camera. Al-‘Ajrami was waiting to photograph a demonstration organized by Fatah movement in solidarity with Palestinian prisoners in Israeli jails on the Palestinian Prisoners Day.

On 23 May, the police arrested Mohammed ‘Abdul Ra’ouf Killab, 56, from Khan Yunis, after he had published an article titled “A Message from a Donkey in Gaza to Its Friend in the West Bank” on al-Quds Net’s web site. In his article, Killab criticized Hamas and the Gaza government. He was released on 3 June 2008.

On 23 May, the police held Sameer Khalifa, Correspondent of Sudan Television, and Ahmed al-Ras, a cameraman of Ramattan news agency, while they were working at Palestine Square in the center of Gaza City.

On 19 June, unknown gunmen fired at the office of Mustafa al-Sawaf, 53, Editor-in-Chief of Palestine newspaper, on the 6th floor of Kuhail building in al-Samer neighborhood in the center of Gaza City. A bullet penetrated the room in which al-Sawaf was sitting, but he was not hurt.

On 26 July, masked gunmen from the Internal Security Service in Gaza arrested Sawwah Abu Saif, 41, correspondent of the German ARD TV, from his house in Tal al-Hawa neighborhood in Gaza City. They took him to an undisclosed location. The gunmen confiscated his laptop computer. During his detention, ABU Saif was subjected to beating and degrading treatment. He was released on 31 July.

On 26 July, agents of the Internal Security Service in Gaza raided offices of the Palestinian News Agency (WAFA) in Tal al-Aaidi building in Tal al-Hawa neighborhood in Gaza City. They confiscated all belongings and carried them in trucks to undisclosed locations.

On 27 July, the Palestinian police closed offices of Gaza Media Center on the 12th floor of al-Shorouq building in the west of Gaza City. The center provided media services to Abu Dhabi Television and other international news television channels, including the US FOX News and the British SKY News.

On 28 July, the Palestinian police confiscated copies of the three local Palestinian newspapers (al-Quds, al-Ayyam and al-Hayat al-Jadeeda) near Beit Hanoun (Erez) crossing after the distributors of these newspapers had just received them. On the following day, the police prevented the distributors of these newspapers from reaching Beit Hanoun crossing to receive their copies. The distribution of al-Hayat al-Jadeeda and al-Ayyam newspapers in the Gaza Strip has continued to be banned, while the police allowed resuming the distribution of al-Quds newspaper on 23 August 2008.

- On 30 July, the Palestinian police arrested ‘Emad Mahmoud ‘Eid, director of Gaza office of Ma’an news agency and correspondent of al-Manar Television. He was questioned about a news item published by Ma’an news agency on 29 July. ‘Eid was released half an hour later.

- On 29 November, the police stopped Ala’a Salama, 25, a reporter for the local al-Quds Radio, while returning home after covering the Gaza pilgrims story at Rafah crossing. A police officer forced Salama to enter a jeep, blindfolded him and took him to an unknown destination. On the way, Salama was beaten by the police. He was forced to eat a piece of bread that was full of sand although he was fasting on that day.

In the West Bank, the most significant violations of this right were:

- On 7 February, the Palestinian General Intelligence Service (GIS) in Qalqilya arrested journalist Mustafa ‘Ali Sabri. The journalist was questioned about his work. He was detained for 4 days.

- On 14 February, the GIS in Salfit arrested Khaled Ma’ali, director of al-Sahel press office. He was questioned about a news item published on the web site of a newspaper. Ma’ali was released two days later as there was no evidence was found concerning his relation with the published news item.

- On 24 February, the GIS in Hebron summoned Khaled Mohammed ‘Amaira, 51, correspondent of the Egyptian al-Ahram Weekly.

- On 4 March, the GIS in Nablus arrested Mos’ab Hussam al-Din Qatalouni, 24, a reporter of al-Aqsa Television. He was questioned about his work and his political affiliation. Qatalouni was released on 20 May.

- On 11 March, Palestinian security services arrested Mohammed al-Qeeq, who works of several local and Arab news web sites, when he was covering a demonstration organized by Palestinian NGOs in Hebron in protest to the closure of a number of NGOs in Hebron by Israeli Occupation Forces. Al-Qeeq was released on 27 March.

- On 12 March, armed members of the Preventive Security Service stormed the headquarters of Ramattan News Agency in al-Wehaidi Building in al-Masyoun neighborhood in Ramallah. They arrested Nawaf Ibrahim al-‘Aamer, 48, an editor. ‘Aamer was released on 13 March 2008.
On 8 May, the GIS arrested Usaid ‘Abdul Majeed ‘Amarna, 23, a cameraman of al-Aqsa Television, when he was photographing a demonstration organized on the 60th anniversary of the Palestinian Nakba (the uprooting of the Palestinian people from their land in 1948). In Qalqilya, the GIS arrested Mustafa ‘Ali Sabri, 41, a freelance journalist; Mohammed Darwish ‘Athba, 32, a cameraman of Associated Press; and Dr. ‘Essam Mohammed Shawar, 42, a columnist of Palestine daily, which is published in the Gaza Strip.

On 2 July, the Military Intelligence Service in Qalqilya arrested journalist Mustafa Sabri and questioned him about his work. He was released at night.

On 26 July, the GIS in Qalqilya arrested journalist Mustafa Sabri. GIS members beat and insulted Sabri, who was released on the following day without any charge.

On 26 July, the GIS in Hebron arrested ‘Alaa’ Jaber al-Titi, 26, correspondent of al-Aqsa Television. He was interrogated about his work. Al-Titi was released on 17 August 2008.

On 29 July, a force of the Preventive Security Service raided the Arab Media Center in Dura town southwest of Hebron. They arrested the center’s director, ‘Awad Ibrahim al-Rjoub, 31, who is the correspondent of Al-Jazeera Net and other news agencies.

On 29 July, Palestinian security forces arrested journalist Farid Hammad, 35, from Silwad village northeast of Ramallah. He works in the editorial section of Al-Ayyam newspaper.

On 29 July, Palestinian security officers prevented journalists from covering a women demonstration organized by the Hizb ul Tahreer (Liberation Party) in Hebron. Two security officers forcibly took the camera of Yusri Mahmoud al-Jamal, 32, a cameraman of Reuters news agency, and hit it with the body of a car parking in the area.

On 10 September, in violation of a decision taken by the Palestinian High Court of Justice, the Palestinian General Intelligence Service (GIS) in Qalqilya refused to release journalist Mustafa Sabri. Sabri had been detained by the GIS since 31 July 2008. In spite of being a civilian, Sabri had been referred to the military prosecution that had ordered detaining him since 13 August 2008.

On 29 November, Ramattan news agency suspended its activities in the OPT in protests to harassments by the PNA in the West Bank.

The publication and distribution of Palestinian and al-Resala newspapers have been banned in the West Bank since 16 June 2007.
In 2008, PCHR documented more cases of banning the organization of peaceful demonstrations, sit-ins, public meetings and celebrations in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank. Even though the number of such cases in 2008 was less than those documented in 2007, it is not an indication of improved performance of the two governments, rather it an indication of a state of abstention from organizing peaceful assembly fearing of security repercussions. It was clear that many of such violations of the right to peaceful assembly were closely related to the state of fragmentation in the PNA; in the Gaza Strip, Fatah movement was prevented from organizing peaceful assemblies, including the celebration of its anniversary, while Hamas was prevented from organizing similar activities in the West Bank.

The most significant violations of the right to peaceful assembly in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank were as follows:

1. Violations of the Right to Peaceful Assembly in the Gaza Strip

- The government in Gaza banned celebrations of the anniversary of Fatah movement on the 1st of January. The Palestinian police of Hamas-affiliated militants waged a campaign of arrests against activists of Fatah movement, stormed offices affiliated to the movement and raided some houses. As a consequence, bloody clashes erupted between activists of Fatah movement and security services, which left 7 people killed and dozens of others injured.

- On 25 February, the Palestinian police attacked the funeral of Mohammed Ibrahim Hassanain, 21, and Ibrahim Zaidan Abu Jarad, 22, from Beit Hanoun. The funeral was organized by Fatah movement.12

12 On 24 February 2008, Mohammed Hassanain, Ibrahim Abu Jarad and Mohammed al-Za’anin were killed by IOF shelling while they were having lunch.
included in the Executive Bill of the Public Meetings Law through imposing additional restrictions of private meetings that are held in closed places, such as conferences and colloquia.

- On 18 April, the police violently beat a number of supporters of Fatah movement to prevent them from organizing gathered a demonstration in the center of Rafah town in solidarity with Palestinian prisoners in Israeli jails on the Palestinian Prisoners Day. The police also arrested 2 supporters of Fatah movement, but released them later following the intervention of other parties.

- On 1 May, the police banned the organization of a public meeting on the International Labor Day by 6 factions in Rafah: Fatah movement; Popular Struggle Front; Palestinian Democratic Union (Fida); Arab Liberation Front; Palestine Liberation Front; and the Palestinian National Initiative.

- On 10 May, 4 police officers stormed the annual conference of the Palestinian Center for Media and Studies in the Commodore Hotel in Gaza City. They cut off television communication and confiscated recording tapes and a list of attendants, claiming that the conference was organized without a license. The center organized its annual conference on “negotiations and resistance and searching for a compromise” in Best Eastern Hotel in al-Bireh town in the West Bank and the Commodore Hotel in Gaza City via video conference.

- On 13 May, a number of militants who introduced themselves as members of the Internal Security Service interrupted a workshop organized by the NGO Safety Office in the Gaza Strip in the Commodore Hotel in Gaza City, claiming that the workshop was organized without prior coordination with the government in Gaza.

- On 13 May, the Palestinian police dispersed a candle march organized by the National Work Committee in Beit Lahia town to commemorate the Palestinian Nakba (the uprooting of the Palestinian people from their land in 1948). They also arrested 4 participants, but released them later.

- On 14 June, the police and activists of Hamas dispersed dozens of children and activists of Fatah movement who gathered near the house of Eyad ‘Aashour, who had been killed in the internal fighting between Hamas and Fatah movements in 2007, in Tal al-Sultan neighborhood in Rafah. A number of participants in the gathering sustained bruises.

- On 19 May, the Internal Security Service arrested Dr. Ussama al-Farra, Governor of Khan Yunis, and another 3 leaders of Fatah movement in the town. The four figures were questioned about a ceremony in appreciation for workers that was supposed to be organized on that day.

- On 15 June, the police intercepted dozens of people who were on their way to participate in a gathering to commemorate the 60th anniversary of the Palestinian Nakba, which was invited to by the National Work Committee in the northern Gaza Strip. Police officers violently beat some of these people. The police also stormed the place where the gathering was supposed to be held and attacked the organizers using batons.

2 Violations of the Right to Peaceful Assembly in the West Bank

- On 10 January, the Palestinian police and security forces used force to disperse a demonstration organized in Ramallah by leftist factions (the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine [PFLP], the Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, Palestine People Party and the Palestinian National Initiative), some members of the Palestinian Legislative Council (PLC) and leaders of the civil society, in protest to a visit by US President George Bush to the presidential compound in the town. As a result, Basheer al-Khairi, member of the political bureau of the PFLP, sustained a fracture to the left shoulder, and 4 demonstrators suffered from tear gas inhalation, including PLC members Khaleda Jarrar and Bassam al-Salhi.

- On 24 February, security services in Ramallah dispersed the funeral of Majd al-Barghouthi, who died on 22 February while in custody by the General Intelligence Service in al-Bireh. Security officers attacked the participants using batons.

- On 15 July, the Preventive Security Service (PSS) in Hebron dispersed a peaceful demonstration organized by residents of al-Sammou’ village, south of the town, towards the headquarters of the PSS, in protest to the detention of their mayor. It is worth noting that the PSS arrested Jamal Abu al-Jadayel, Mayor of al-Sammou’, on 6 July 2008.

- On 29 July, security officers prevented people from going to Taj Mahal Hotel in al-Salam Street in Hebron to attend a women colloquium organized by the Hizb Ut Tahrir (Liberation Party). They also violently dispersed women who gathered in the area.

- On 2 August, security services used force to disperse a peaceful demonstration organized by the Hizb Ut Tahrir in the center of Tulkarm on the anniversary of the fall of the Islamic Khilafa. As a result, 4 demonstrators were injured. On 28 July, Brigadier Talal Dwaikat, Governor of Tulkarm, declared during a meeting of the Executive Council of the Governorate that he decided to ban the organization of demonstrations intended by the Hizb Ut Tahrir claiming that the decision aimed at maintaining security and stability.
Violations of the Right to Association

In 2008, violations of the right to association continued throughout the OPT. Such violations escalated under the ongoing political fragmentation in the PNA. The two governments in Gaza and Ramallah attacked associations affiliated to each other, including societies, unions, sports clubs and partisan offices.

Such attacks violate the Palestinian Basic Law, which ensures the right to association, including “the formation of syndicates, societies, unions, clubs and public communities in accordance with the law.” They also violate international human rights standards, which ensure the right to association under the Universal Declaration of Human Rights and International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights.

In the Gaza Strip, the government and its security services waged a wide scale campaign against dozens of NGOs, including societies, sports clubs and partisan offices most of which are related to Fatah movement, in the context of measures they took following a crime committed at Gaza Beach. Such measures also included the detention of dozens of supporters and leaders of Fatah movement.

On 25 July, unknown persons detonated an explosive device near a café on the Gaza City beach, which is usually frequented by Hamas activists and supporters. The explosion killed 6 people vacationing on the beach; all of them from Gaza City. One of the dead was a 4-year old child, and the other 5 were Hamas members. In addition, 27 people were injured. In response, the government in Gaza and its security forces embarked, immediately after the crime, on a series of steps against Fatah members and institutions and other civil society organizations affiliated to Fatah movement, as if it was behind the crime.

The police raided and closed Fatah offices and dozens of civil society institutions throughout the Gaza Strip. According to PCHR’s documentation, the police raided more than 214 offices, sports club, benevolent societies, cultural centers, and development agencies. The police confiscated the belongings of these organizations and took them to undisclosed locations. The raids also targeted organizations such as the Palestinian Council for External Relations, a civil society organizations run by independent PLC member Ziad Abu Amru, whom Hamas supported in the last parliamentary elections. In addition, the office of the National Work Commission in Gaza City was raided. The Commission is composed of PLO factions.

13 For more details, see p.81-82
Following insistent calls by civil society organizations, the Ministry of Interior in Gaza ordered reopening dozens of institutions that had been closed during the campaign, while dozens of others have remained closed under the pretext of being illegal. However, belongings of some of the institutions that were reopened were not returned.

Over the year, PCHR documented other assaults on the right to association in the Gaza Strip by unknown people. The most significant of such attacks were:

- On 9 January, three gunmen in a civilian vehicle fired one a rocket-propelled grenade at the building of the American School north of Gaza City. The projectile caused a large explosion and fire in the second floor of the building, which includes the cafeteria and art rooms. The gunmen fled the scene and no casualties were reported.

- On 12 January, several masked gunmen broke into the American School in northern Gaza City. They detained the school security guard and stole computers and other equipment from the school. Before leaving, they set fire to 5 buses and a car belonging to the school.

- On 15 February, at least 10 unidentified militants, some masked, broke into the YMCA, in al-Jala‘ Street in the centre of Gaza City. The militants overpowered two security guards. They handcuffed both men at gunpoint, and confiscated their mobile phones as well as the keys to the YMCA. The militants subsequently broke into, and damaged, the YMCA administration office, before breaking into the library. The two guards were then blindfolded, forced into a car, driven approximately three kilometres north east of Gaza City, and then abandoned. Later, a heavy explosion was heard in the centre of Gaza city. This was later identified as an explosion in the YMCA library which was completely destroyed. This was one of the explosive devises planted by the militants at the YMCA. A second unexploded device was discovered at the entrance to the YMCA auditorium, and later deactivated by the police.

- On 2 March, a number of gunmen traveling in 2 vehicles intercepted Mr. Ahmed Khader Abu Tawaheena, 47, when he was traveling in his car in the center of Deir al-Balah town in the central Gaza Strip. At least 10 masked gunmen got out of the two vehicles. They besieged Abu Tawaheena’s car and forced him out of it. Immediately, a gunman violently beat him and fired 2 gunshots near his head to terrify him. The gunman then fired a third gunshot which hit a tire of Abu Tawaheena’s car. The gunmen then left the area. According to Abu Tawaheena, the attack was related to his work at Gaza Community Mental Health Programme.

Over the year, the armed wing of Hamas took over a number of sports clubs in the Gaza Strip after dismissing their administrations. For instance, on 21 May, masked gunmen wearing a swathe on the head that read “Izziddin al-Qassam Brigades” took over Khan Yunis Youth Club after dismissing its administration and appointing another one affiliated to Hamas.
In the West Bank, the situation was not less worse as attacks on the right to association continued, especially attacks against institutions and associations related to Hamas.

It is worth noting that Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas and the government in Ramallah took a series of administrative measures, following Hamas’ takeover of the Gaza Strip in June 2007, that imposed additional restrictions on the right to association under the state of emergency declared in the Palestinian Territories. Such measures were apparently a prelude to crack down civil society organizations. On 28 August 2007, the Prime Minister in Ramallah, Dr. Salam Fayyad, stated on 28 August 2007 that his government decided to dissolve 103 non-governmental organizations in the OPT for “committing legal, administrative, or financial violations of Law No. 1 of 2000 on Benevolent Societies and Non-Governmental Institutions.”

Over the year, PCHR documented other assaults on the right to association in the West Bank, the most significant of which were:

- On 6 August, Palestinian security services raided 4 benevolent associations and 2 printing houses in the Hebron Governorate, and confiscated their belongings. The security forces raided the Mujama’ Islami Headquarters in al-Zahiriya village south of Hebron; the Islamic Cultural Center in Taffouh village west of Hebron); Benevolent Islamic Society in Beit Oula village northwest of Hebron; and Islamic Orphanage in Beit Ummar village north of Hebron. The security forces confiscated 2 student buses belonging to the Benevolent Islamic Society School in Beit Oula village as well as files and computers from the offices of all the targeted organizations.

- On 9 August, a force from the General Intelligence Apparatus in Hebron raided a warehouse belonging to the Sewing Workshops of the Islamic Benevolent Society in Hebron. The force searched the warehouse, located in ‘Ein Sara neighborhood in the north of Hebron, and confiscated some of the stored materials.

- On 13 July, PCHR received a complaint from a candidate for the elections of the board of the Union Women Association, in which she stated that the Ministry of Interior deprived her and another 4 women of their right of candidature although they met all conditions of candidature, including paying the fees and commitment to the association’s bylaw. The woman said that Director-General of the Ministry of Interior in Nablus sent a letter on 8 July to the director of the association stating that a committed headed by the Ministry of Interior, with the General Intelligence and the Preventive Security Service as members, approved only 11 out of 16 candidates to the elections, which means that those candidates would won the elections uncontestedly.

Death Penalty

In 2008, the issue of application of the death penalty in the PNA witnessed a negative development, as a number of death sentences were issued making a setback to the positive developments at this level in 2006 and 2007, during which time, Palestinian courts did not issue an death sentence, nor did any death sentences from previous years were implemented. Over the year, a total of 9 death sentences were issued by Palestinian courts – 4 ones in the Gaza Strip and another 5 in the West Bank. Most of these sentences were issued by military courts. Additionally, 3 sentences to death against 3 men issued in previous years were supported. Thus, the number of death sentences issued by Palestinian courts (military, state security and civil) since the establishment of the PNA in 1994 has mounted to 83, including 13 ones that have been implemented. Even though none of such sentences were implemented by official bodies, following the IOF bombardment of Gaza Central Prison, which led some prisoners to flee, militants pursued and killed those prisoners. PCHR documented a number of statements by Hamas officials, which indicate that Hamas was involved in such killings.

Most sentences to death were issued by state security courts, which issued 38 of the total number of sentences to death issued by Palestinian courts. PCHR has strongly criticized state security courts, which lack minimum standards required for fair trials, since their establishment in accordance with a presidential decree in 1995. Other sentences to death (26 ones) were issued by military courts. These sentences were issued in accordance with the Revolutionary Penal Code of Palestine Liberation Organization of 1979, which is unconstitutional in the Palestinian National Authority, as it has not been presented to nor approved by the legislature. PCHR has repeatedly called for its abolition as it violates international standards of fair trial and does not include fair and independent mechanisms for appealing against court sentences.

The first sentence to death in 2008 was issued by the Gaza Military Court on 24 January against Yasser Sa’id Zannoun, 41, from Rafah. Zannoun was convicted of murdering Isma’il Salama al-Mishwakhi, an intelligence officer.

On 6 April 2008, the Palestinian High Military Court in Tulkarm sentenced Tha’er Mahmoud Husni Rmailat, 23, to death by firing squad after convicting him of murdering ‘Alaa’ ‘Aayesh Mubarak, a member of the Palestinian National Security Forces.

On 28 April 2008, the High Military Court in Hebron sentenced ‘Emad Mahmoud Sa’ed Sa’ed, 25, from Yatta village, to death by firing squad for treason and collaboration with the Israeli occupation.

On 15 July 2008, the High Military Court in Hebron sentenced Wa’el Sa’id Sa’ad, 27, and Mohammed Sa’ad Sa’ad, 44, both from Yatta village, to death by firing squad after convicting them of treason and collaboration with Israeli occupation.
On 20 July 2008, the Military Court in Gaza sentenced Eyad Ahmed Diab Sukkar, 35, from al-Shoja’eya neighborhood in Gaza City, to death by firing squad. The court convicted Sukkar of carrying out hostile activities against Palestinian revolutionists and military operations of the Palestinian revolution.

On 12 November 2008, the Military Court in Bethlehem sentenced Ayman Ahmed ‘Awwad Daghamgha, 24, from al-‘Arroub refugee camp north of Hebron, to death by firing squad.

On 16 December 2008, the High Military Court in Gaza sentenced Mohammed Ali Hassan Saidam, 34, from Rafah, to death by hanging. The Court convicted the defendant of treason, spying and conspiracy.

On 29 October 2008, the Gaza Court of Cassation, issued its support for the death sentences by hanging issued by the Court of Appeal on 13 April 2004 against 4 Palestinians. The defendants are: Eihab Diab Abu al-‘Amrain, 28; Rami Sa’id Juha, 28; ‘Abdul Fattah Mohammed Sammour, 26; and Sa’id Jameel Zuhod, 22. These deaths sentences date back to 3 April 2004, when the Court of Gaza sentenced the first three defendants to death, whilst the final defendant, Sa’id Jameel Zuhod, was sentenced to life imprisonment as he was a minor. The Court of Appeal changed Zuhod’s sentence from life imprisonment to the death sentence. The four men had been accused of raping and murdering a child, Mayada Khalil Abu Limthi, on 25 September 2003. Changing the sentence issued against Zuhod constitutes a violation of article 65- of the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, which states that “sentence of death shall not be imposed for crimes committed by persons below eighteen years of age and shall not be carried out on pregnant women.”

It is worth noting that sentences to death can never be implemented with being ratified by the Palestinian President. PCHR feels comfortable that the Palestinian President has not ratified any of these sentences and hopes that his abstention from ratification will be a step towards stopping the application of the death penalty. That last sentence to death to be implemented in the PNA was on 27 July 2005, which was strongly criticized at the international level in light of a growing international position opposing the death penalty. This position was enhanced by the adoption a resolution issued by of the United Nations General Assembly on 18 December 2007 calling for an international moratorium on the use of the death penalty as a prelude to abolishing the death penalty worldwide. The resolution was adopted with 104 votes in favor, 54 against and the abstention of 29 members. PCHR views this resolution as a very important and positive step forward at the level of international efforts to abolish the death penalty.

PCHR emphasizes that the death penalty constitutes a flagrant violation of international human rights instruments. It is a form of cruel, inhuman and degrading punishment, and it does not either constitute a deterrent.
Additionally, PCHR calls for resuming the review of death sentences issued by state security courts before civil court in accordance with a decree issued by Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas on 22 June 2005. PCHR also welcomes the decision taken by the PNA on 27 July 2003 freezing the operation of state security courts, which violate the minimum standards of fair trials and the rule of law. Accordingly, PCHR calls upon the Palestinian President to issue a presidential decree abolishing these courts and canceling decree #49 of 1995, which established them.

PCHR is extremely concerned over repeated statements by officials in the Gaza government with regard to the application of the death penalty, and calls upon the government not to approve death sentences. For instance, Colonel Ahmed ‘Atallah stated that “we will fail to achieve justice for people and apply the law if the President did not ratify court rulings, through ‘the resistant legal jurisprudence’ innovated by Palestinians for their own case.”

Dr. Mahmoud al-Zahhar, a senior leader of Hamas, also stated that “the government in Gaza has found the appropriate legal mechanism through which it can apply the death penalty against collaborators and murderers.” PCHR asserts that the statement by the Minister of Justice in Gaza government, Faraj al-Ghoul, that the government was searching for legal alternatives and that the law has a wide space to apply the death penalty, is very grave since the law stipulates that no death sentence can be ever applied without the Palestinian President’s ratification. Al-Ghoul also said: “We deal with the law in accordance with the higher interests of the Palestinian people while respecting the rule of law and the independence of the judiciary. Sentences must be implemented according to article 106 of the Palestinian law, which considers anyone who may interrupt issuing such sentences, does not implement them or interrupt their implementation as one who commits a crime…”

PCHR is extremely concerned over the continued application of the death penalty in the Palestinian National Authority (PNA), and therefore:

1. Calls upon the PNA to announce an immediate moratorium on the use of this form of punishment, which violates international human rights standards and instruments, especially the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (1948), the Covenant of Civil and Political Rights (1966), and the UN Convention against Torture (1984).

2. Calls upon Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas not to ratify these cruel and inhumane sentences, and to prevent their implementation.

3. Reiterates that abolishing the death penalty does imply leniency towards dangerous criminals, who must be subjected to punishment that acts as a deterrent, but also maintains human dignity.

4. Calls upon the PNA to review all legislation relative to the death penalty, especially Law No. 74 (1936) that remains effective in the Gaza Strip, and the Jordanian Penal Code No. 16 (1960) that remains effective in the West Bank, and to enact a unified penal code that conforms to the spirit of international human rights instruments, especially those pertaining to the abolition of the death penalty.

15 ‘Atallah’s statement was published on the website of the Ministry of Interior in Gaza www.moi.ps on 13 August 2008.

16 Al-Zahhar was speaking in a colloquium held in the Islamic University in Gaza on 9 September 2008. His statement was published on web site of Palestine Times, www.paltimes.net.

17 Al-Ghoul’s statement was published on the web site of al-Bian Media Center www.albian.ps on 15 November 2008.
The General Secretariat of General Union of Palestinian Teachers, which is aligned with the Fatah movement, declared a 5-day strike at public schools throughout the Gaza Strip to be launched on 24 August, the first day of the new school year, in protest to what it described as ‘arbitrary decisions’ taken by the Ministry of Education of the Gaza government. These decisions have included transferring school directors and teachers to other schools, arresting a number of directors and teachers, attacking janitors and confiscating keys to schools.

On the first day of the new school year, 24 August 2008, a partial strike was reported at all public educational institutions in the Gaza Strip. The commitment of teachers to the strike was estimated at 4555%-. Consequently, the first day of school was largely disrupted as many school directors, teachers and administrative staff committed themselves to the 5-day strike declared by the General Union of Palestinian Teachers. In a subsequent development, the Internal Security Service belonging to the Ministry of Interior of the Gaza government circulated communiqués to directors of public schools, in which it threatened to take what it called ‘necessary legal actions’ against whoever disrupts the educational process. In the same context, the police of the Gaza government arrested a number of school directors.

PCHR followed up all accelerated developments that impacted on the public education sector. PCHR called upon all parties, including the governments of Gaza and Ramallah, to nullify all measures and decisions that had completely or partially disrupted the educational process at schools in the Gaza Strip. PCHR also called upon all parties to respect and promote the right of education for all people, to ensure the sustainable development of the education sector in Gaza, for the sake of thousands of Gaza students. PCHR further called upon the Palestinian police in Gaza to immediately release all school directors and teachers who had been arrested in the context of measures taken to confront the strike at public schools. schools. It also condemned threats by parties against to employees of the public education sector, which serve to create an atmosphere of concerns over their future.

PCHR contended that the Palestinian law ensures the right for everyone to organize strikes as a protesting expression and in defense for the interests of various groups, provided that strikes are voluntary and self-decided without any coercion or threat. PCHR also called upon the Ministry of Education in Gaza to invite the General Union of Palestinian Teachers for negotiations over all related issues, in order to reach an agreement that can ensure the interests of students of public schools in the Gaza Strip, and the interests of both the ministry and employees of public education, which could eventually lead to the resumption of the educational process in Gaza.

In a serious development, on 30 August 2008, public sector employees announced the start of an all-out strike in all governmental facilities in the Gaza Strip, in response to a call by the Palestinian Syndicate of Public Employees. Thousands of public sector employees joined the strike. A week earlier, education sector employees launched an open strike in response to a call by the General Union of Palestinian Teachers. This strike was supported by the government in Ramallah, which threatened to sack those who did not join the strikers, or to deprive them of their salaries. The government in Gaza subsequently took measures that included arresting dozens of education sector employees, as well as threatening to dismiss those who commit to the strike, whom it accused of attempting to destroy the education system in Gaza. In view of the serious repercussions of the near paralysis of all public service, and the enormous negative impacts on teachers and medical staff, PCHR affirmed that:

In view of international work relations, it was alarming that the employer (in this case the Government in Ramallah) supported this strike, compelled employees to commit to the strike, and threatened those who did not commit to be dismissed and/or deprived of their salaries. International good work practices demand that employers, either private or public, takes all necessary steps to prevent a strike by their employees. This exposed the strikes as politically motivated and rendered them illegitimate. These strikes were completely politicized actions that lacked all economic and social demands, and did not represent the real interests of public sector employees. Instead, these strikes represented severe internal political fragmentation, and the culmination of conflicting acts taken by the two conflicting parties.

- The people who were really paying the price for these politically motivated strikes were the public who need and use the public sector services. Thousands of civilians are in need of daily healthcare, including those who are critically ill in hospitals and need intensive follow-up public health services. PCHR considered it very concerning that the parties involved in these strikes had not allocated teams for the delivery of emergency health and sanitation services. A strike is the biggest protest that employees can use in order to realize a set of demands and interests, and a genuine work strike is never compulsory or coercive. In the case of the strikes in Gaza, employees were being held hostages by threats of dismissal and deprivation of salary. These threats set a dangerous precedent of coercion and force. The civil service had become the victim of politically motivated official policies that threaten worker’s access to their jobs and their salaries.

- Under the modified Civil Service act no. 4 (2005), the Government does not have the right to cut the salary of a civil service employee, except if he or she breaches the law. Therefore, all such threats were illegal, and represented arbitrary measures that severely violated the right of every human being to work and to enjoy an adequate standard of living. Following the events of June 2007, there were warnings about the serious implications of suspending the services of the General Attorney’s Office, and security services. These warnings were not heeded, and today the same mistakes are being made.

- PCHR praised the positions of the medical services in the Gaza Strip and the employees who had refused to commit to the strike, and who had called upon their members to commit to their work for the sake of delivering public services.

- PCHR condemned all measures that had been taken by the security services in the Gaza Strip, including the harassment of dozens of public sector employees as well as arrests. PCHR also called for the immediate release of all employees who had been arrested for these reasons. Additionally, PCHR called for urgent dialogue between parties in order to resolve all disputes. PCHR demanded that public sector jobs are distributed and upgraded on the basis of competency and precedence, not political affiliation.

On 14 October 2008, in violation of the Palestinian law, the Palestinian Ministry of Education in the West Bank sent written notices to dozens of teachers affiliated to Hamas, dismissing them from their teaching posts. PCHR strongly condemned this illegal measure, and called upon the Palestinian government in Ramallah to reverse this decision, and refrain from pushing public service employees into the ongoing conflict between the Fatah and Hamas movements. PCHR called for neutralizing the public service sector and not to pushing it into the political conflict, but instead to utilize the Public Service Law as a basis for dealing with all issues related to public service employees. It also called for ensuring respect and support of the right to work, and the right to be employed in public jobs, and promoting equal opportunities based on qualifications and experience, without any discrimination on whatever basis, including discrimination based on political orientation or partisan affiliation.

PCHR’S ACTIVITIES IN 2008
PCHR Units’ Activities
PART TWO: PCHR’S ACTIVITIES IN 2008

PCHR Units’ Activities

The previous section of this report has detailed the human rights situation in the OPT in 2008. It shows the unprecedented deterioration in the human right situation in light of grave breaches perpetrated by IOF against the Palestinian civilian population, and the escalation in the state of lawlessness in the OPT. Humanitarian and living conditions in the OPT have also deteriorated due to the tightened siege imposed on the OPT, especially the Gaza Strip. The Palestinian political fragmentation have impacted all aspects of life in the OPT, and violations of human rights by the two parties of the conflict, Hamas and Fatah movements, have continued. Additionally, the international boycott against the Gaza Strip has continued, while the international community has continued to be silent towards crimes committed by IOF against the Palestinian civilian population.

This tragic situation coincides with the 6th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, as well as the Palestinian Nakba (the uprooting of the Palestinian people from their land). Sixty years have passed and the Palestinian people are still deprived of their rights ensured by the international law, including the right to self-determination and the right of return.

Under these circumstances, PCHR has vowed to implement its plans and activities decided for 2008, which sharply increased due to the tragic developments that took place over the tear.

Before highlighting activities, it is important to address some major issues that characterized PCHR’s activities in 2008:

1. Intensified Efforts to Prosecute Israeli War Criminals before the International Judiciary
2. Promotion of Cooperation with Civil Society Organizations to Face Deterioration in the Human Rights Situation
3. Coordination and Cooperation with Other Human Rights Organizations
4. Cooperation with International Civil Society Organizations
5. Promotion of Activities Related to Gender Issues
Intensified Efforts to Prosecute Israeli War Criminals before the International Judiciary

In 2008, PCHR continued its persistent efforts to search for and prosecute suspect Israeli war criminals, both political and military ones, before international courts for their responsibility for crimes committed by IOF against the Palestinian civilian population. These efforts, which have been made for several years, have led to important achievements. In 2008, PCHR maintained contacts and meetings for legal consultations. PCHR, through its Legal Aid Unit, and in coordination with a number of lawyers and legal organizations in Arab and European countries, was able to file a number of lawsuits. Director of PCHR, Raji Sourani, supported by PCHR's staff, held participated in dozens of meetings and conference in the context of PCHR's efforts to prosecute Israeli war criminals.

In 2008, efforts made by PCHR were concluded by filing two lawsuits against Israeli war criminals:

- A Lawsuit in Spain
  On 24 June 2008, PCHR filed a lawsuit at the National Court of Spain, the highest Spanish judicial council, against seven former senior Israeli military officials. These include former Defense Minister Benjamin Ben Eliezer, his former military advisor, Michael Herzog, former Israeli Army Chief of Staff Moshe Ya’alon and Dan Halutz, former Commander of the Israeli Air Force. PCHR filed this lawsuit on behalf of six Palestinians who survived an Israeli extra judicial execution operation in the Gaza Strip in July 2002. The attack killed and wounded dozens of Palestinian civilians.

- A Lawsuit in Netherlands
  An application was submitted to the Dutch authorities to arrest Ami Ayalon, currently Minister without Portfolio in the Israeli Government, while he was visiting the Netherlands from 16 to 20 May 2008, by Khalid al-Shami, who alleged that he was a victim of torture in 19992000, when Ami Ayalon was the Director of Shin Bet (the Israeli General Security Services – GSS).

- Cairo Conference
  On 8 November 2008, PCHR, in conjunction with its Egyptian partners, the Arab Centre for the Independence of the Judiciary and the Legal Profession (ACIJLP), and the Arab Organization for Human Rights (AOHR) co-hosted a human rights conference in Cairo. The one-day conference focused on extra-judicial executions and prosecution of Israelis suspected of committing war crimes. More than 60 international delegates attended the conference, including human rights lawyers and advocates from the OPT, Egypt, Morocco, Spain, South Africa and the UK. Representatives from the International Commission of Jurists (ICJ), Swedish NGO Diakonia, the Centre for Transitional Justice (CTJ) and the International Federation for Human Rights (FIDH) also attended. The delegates discussed the legal and judicial issues surrounding extra-judicial executions perpetrated by the Israeli military (Israeli occupation forces occupying the OPT) and issues relating to accountability and transitional justice.

The Cairo conference provided a rare opportunity for human rights lawyers and advocates to discuss the current state of universal jurisdiction from several different international perspectives, and the potential for expanding universal jurisdiction across the 27 EU States.

On 9 November, a meeting was held to discuss efforts to prosecute Israeli war criminals. The meeting discussed the legal and judicial issues surrounding extra-judicial executions perpetrated by IOF and issues relating to accountability and transitional justice. Raji Sourani, Director of PCHR, held several meetings with a number of international attorneys, including Daniel Machover, Kate Maynard, Gnozalo Boye, Antonio Segura, and a number of attorneys from the Centre for Transitional Justice. The meeting discussed efforts to file lawsuits against Israeli war criminals.

2 Promotion of Cooperation with Civil Society Organizations to Face Deterioration in the Human Rights Situation

PCHR organized several activities with in cooperation with civil society organizations to improve the human rights situation in the OPT. Relevant activities are detailed in the reports of units.

- National Reconciliation Committee
  In 2008, PCHR contributed to efforts to ensure national reconciliation and the end of internal Palestinian fragmentation. This committee was formed of national, political and academic figures and some civil society organizations. PCHR made efforts in the context of the committee’s work to follow up issues related to the internal conflict through carrying out several activities, including media activities and contacts with the two parties of the conflict in Gaza and Ramallah to ensure an end for the political fragmentation and its impacts on the Palestinian society and the national cause.

- The Committee to Release Political Prisoners
  In 2008, PCHR was active in the context of the Committee to Release Political Prisoners in Gaza and Ramallah. The committee is formed of national, political and academic figures. It makes efforts to ensure and end for political arrests in the PNA. PCHR, through the committee, made efforts to end such violations of the Palestinian law and international human rights instruments through several communications and initiatives.

- Palestinian-International Campaign to Lift the Siege Imposed on Gaza
  It is an initiative by a number of national figures and civil society groups aiming at making local and international efforts to lift the siege imposed on the Gaza Strip. PCHR was active in this campaign through a series of activities of advocacy and lobbying at the international level to lift the siege. Such efforts proved fruitful as several international figures and organizations joined the campaign. International committees were able to send several ships towards Gaza, on board of which dozens of international solidarity activists and humanitarian assistance were.

- The Committee to Follow up Closure of Civil Society Organizations
  PCHR participated in a series of activities organized by civil society organizations to confront measures of closure taken by the government in Gaza against at least 200 civil organizations in the Gaza Strip in July 2008. Upon an invitation from the Palestinian NGOs Network, a meeting was held on 26 July 2008 for representatives of civil society organizations and political factions. Hamdi Shaqqura, Director of Democratic Development Unit, represented PCHR in the meeting and was a member of the committee it established to make communications with decision-makers in Gaza. The committee held a number of meetings to coordinate positions and determine priorities. It was able to hold the following meetings with decision-makers, including with the Palestinian Prime Minister in Gaza, Ismail Haniya; the Acting Speaker of the PLC, Dr. Ahmed Bahar; and the Monitoring and Human Rights Committee in the Palestinian Legislative Council. In all these meetings, representatives of civil society organizations called for respect for the right to freedom of association, reopening closed civil society organizations and returning their confiscating property.

Coordination and Cooperation with Other Human Rights Organizations

The continued deterioration in the human rights situation in the OPT increases the need for cooperation and coordination among human rights organizations. In 2008, PCHR enhanced cooperation and coordination with other Palestinian human rights organizations, through contacts, meetings, exchange of opinions and expertise. This effort was manifested in joint activities, such as the issuing joint press releases with other human rights organizations in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. PCHR also enhanced contacts with human rights organizations in Israel, especially in the field of legal aid to Palestinian victims of Israeli violations of human rights. All contacts with human rights organizations were conducted via telephone or video conference due to the Israeli closure imposed on the Gaza Strip.

- National Coalition against the Death Penalty

PCHR cooperated with a number of human rights organizations working in the PNA controlled areas to for the Palestinian Coalition against the Death Penalty. The Coalition’s goal is to abolish the death penalty from the Palestinian legislation through advocacy and lobbying activities. For this purpose, the Coalition carried out several activities in 2008, the most significant of which was the first Palestinian conference against the death penalty, which was held on 2 December 2008.

Cooperation with International Civil Society Organizations

In spite of the total siege imposed on the Gaza Strip, PCHR has continued its activities at the international level, including enhancing cooperation with international civil society and human rights organizations, to form a lobby to urge the High Contracting Parties to the Fourth Geneva Convention and the European Union to exert pressure on the Israeli government to stop violations of Palestinian human rights.

Promotion of Activities Related to Gender Issues

In 2008, PCHR promoted activities related to gender issues. It continued to adopt policies based on gender equality in employment and in training programs. In 2008, two new female employees joined PCHR’s staff; one is a lawyer who was employed in Women’s Rights Unit and the other one is a translator who was employed in the Translation Unit. PCHR also employed 13 persons, including 10 women, who received tanning at PCHR.

PCHR also continued to allow equal opportunities in promotions for its staff members. It made efforts to allow women to contribute to the decision-making process. It is worth noting that the 7-program Program Committee, which sets out work plans at strategies for PCHR, includes two female members.

In 2008, PCHR, through its various units, made efforts to implement programs that target women in the Gaza Strip. It also continued to monitor and document violations of women’s rights.
The unit worked on all activities included in its annual plan for 2008 and made efforts to carry out all of these activities. The unit provides legal assistance to victims of human rights violations.

Making Use of Universal Jurisdiction

1. Prosecution of War Criminals

To achieve this output, the unit carried out a number of activities as set out in its annual plan:

Legal Documentation

The unit has continued to document Israeli violation of human rights. In 2008, the unit established 235 files on Israeli violations of Palestinian human rights as shown in the following table.

Claims before the Israeli Judiciary

In 2008, the unit sued a compensation claim before Israeli courts on behalf of 7 victims of Israeli violations of human rights, and continued to pursue other compensation claims from previous years.

On 26 December 2008, the unit, in conjunction with the office of attorney Li’a Tsemel, submitted a petition on behalf of 3 Palestinian fishermen, to the Israeli High Court against the Israeli Defense Minister and commander of the Israeli navy, demanding the release of their boats. On 27 December, the Israeli navy released the three boats before the case being considered by the court.

Contacts with International Attorneys and Legal Experts

In 2008, the unit maintained contacts with international attorneys and legal experts in the contexts of its efforts to search for and prosecute Israeli war criminals.

- An application was submitted to the Dutch authorities to arrest Ami Ayalon, currently Minister without Portfolio in the Israeli Government, while he was visiting the Netherlands from 16 to 20 May 2008, by Khalid al-Shami, who alleged that he was a victim of torture in 1999-2000, when Ami Ayalon was the Director of Shin Bet (the Israeli General Security Services – GSS). Mr. al-Shami’s evidence file was collected by his lawyers in Gaza City, the Palestinian Centre for Human Rights (PCHR) and he only sought justice abroad after the Israeli authorities failed to act on his allegations, in part because torture is routinely sanctioned in Israel. The Dutch authorities failed to arrest Mr. Ayalon, even though there was a prima facie case and they concluded he was not immune from prosecution. On 6 October 2008, Mr. al-Shami applied to the Court of Appeal in The Hague for an order requiring the Prosecutor to start a criminal investigation into Mr Ayalon and to issue an extradition order or an international arrest warrant to secure his presence in the Netherlands during any trial. Alternatively, Mr Al-Shami at least seeks an Order for an ‘anticipatory investigation’, so that a criminal investigation file is opened.

- In June 2008, PCHR, in cooperation with Spanish partners (Antonio Segura, Gonzalo Boye, Juan Moreno and Raul Maillo), filed a lawsuit at the National Court of Spain, the highest Spanish judicial council, against seven former senior Israeli military officials. PCHR filed this lawsuit on behalf of six Palestinians who survived an Israeli extrajudicial execution operation in the Gaza Strip in July 2002. An Israeli Air Force fighter jet dropped a 2,000 lbs. bomb on the house of Salah Shehada, Commander of Izzidin al-Qassam Brigades, the armed wing of Hamas, who was living in al-Daraj district of Gaza city. The attack killed 18 Palestinian civilians, wounded 77 others and destroyed 11 houses completely and 32 others partially.

- Additionally, PCHR has maintained cooperation with the Center for Constitutional Rights (CCR) in New York and Hickman & Rose in London. PCHR cooperated with Hickman & Rose in filing a similar lawsuit against Major General (retired) Doron Almog, according to which an arrest warrant was issued against him on 10 September 2005 by Chief London Magistrate Timothy Workman, but he evaded Justice and the arrest warrant was not implemented.

Indicators

- In 2008, the unit continued its efforts to prosecute Israeli war criminals before national judiciaries in a number of European States.
- The National Court of Spain accepted the lawsuit filed by PCHR and Spanish partners against 7 former Israeli officials.

- The Dutch prosecution authorities accepted the complaint submitted against Ami Ayalon, Former Director of the Israeli General Security Service.
- An application was submitted to the Court of Appeal in The Hague for an order requiring the Prosecutor to start a criminal investigation into Ami Ayalon and to issue an extradition order or an international arrest warrant to secure his presence in the Netherlands during any trial, or alternatively, an order for an ‘anticipatory investigation’, so that a criminal investigation file is opened.
- Movement of a number of Israeli officials responsible for war crimes against Palestinians has been restricted in a number of countries due to claims brought against them before courts.
- The arrest warrant issued on 10 September 2005 by Chief London Magistrate Timothy Workman against Major General (retired) Doron Almog is still effective.
- The unit issued 3 press releases on efforts to prosecute Israeli war criminals.

Means of Verification

- This issue has a special Palestinian, Israeli and international legal attention.
- Raising this issue can deter many individuals from committing war crimes fearing from being prosecuted before the international judiciary.

2. Consultative Meetings on Universal Jurisdiction

PCHR held complementary meetings for the conference on universal jurisdiction in order to support the rule of law and the struggle against impunity. PCHR, in conjunction with International Federation for Human Rights, Hickman and Rose Solicitors and al Quds Association, organized the conference in April 2006 in Malaga, Spain. On 8 November 2008, PCHR, in cooperation with the Arab Organization for Human Rights and the Arab Center for the Independence of the Judiciary and Legal Profession, organized a conference in Cairo on the application of universal jurisdiction for the prosecution of suspects of committing war crimes in the Occupied Palestinian Territory.

Independent and Objective Evaluation of General and Local Elections

Organized by the Palestinian National Authority to Encourage Holding Free, Fair and Credible Elections

The political fragmentation in the PNA continued, and in 2008, the conflict over the Palestinian presidential election between Hamas and Fatah movements escalated. Hamas called for holding the presidential election on 9 January 2009; that is, 4 years following the last presidential election. It threatened that if the election was not held, the President’s office would be vacant, and the Speaker of the PLC would assume the responsibilities of the office for 60 days, during which time new elections would be held. On the other hand, Fatah movement stressed that the presidential term would end in January 2010, together with the end of the PLC’s term, according to amendments made to the Elections Law.

PCHR was strongly present in this debate, and it carried out a number of activities:

1. Position Paper: Controversy over End of Presidential Term in Office

On 18 September 2008, PCHR published a position paper on the debate over the presidential term. PCHR expressed its support for holding the presidential election on its due time, but stressed that the existing state of political fragmentation would not allow holding impartial election. It called on Fatah and Hamas movement to reach an agreement on this issue through dialogue. It also rejected the idea that the President’s office would be vacant once the presidential term ended, and warned of the consequences of assigning the responsibilities of the office to the Speaker of the PLC.
1. Colloquia on the Debate over the Presidential Term

PCHR organized 3 colloquia to explain its position paper on the debate over the presidential term. A number of members of the PLC and representatives of political factions and civil society organizations participated in these colloquia, which contributed to more involvement of the civil society and political factions in the debate over the presidential term.

- On 22 September, PCHR organized a colloquium in the Commodore Hotel in Gaza. At least 50 members of the PLC, representatives of political factions and civil society organizations, legal experts, academics and public figures attended the colloquia.
- On 28 September, PCHR organized a colloquium in its sub-office in Khan Yunis. At least 30 representatives of political factions and civil society organizations attended the colloquia.
- On 12 October, PCHR, in cooperation with the National Association of Democracy and Law, organized a colloquium in Rafah. At least 30 members of the PLC and representatives of political factions and civil society organizations attended the colloquia.

Indicators

- Objective evaluation of elections: No elections were held in 2008.
- Media coverage of the position paper: The paper was widely covered by the local and Arab media.

Field Work Unit

In 2008, the Field Work Unit continued to monitor and document the human rights situation throughout the Occupied Palestinian Territory (OPT), including Jerusalem, as set out in its 2008 annual plan. It also carried out other activities aimed to promote PCHR’s role in the local community. It is worth noting that Israeli Occupation Forces (IOF) escalated their attacks on Palestinian civilians and property and imposed an extremely tightened siege on the Gaza Strip. In the West Bank, IOF continued settlement activities and Israeli settlers continued to attack Palestinian civilians and property. Additionally, IOF continued efforts to Judaize East Jerusalem. In the second half of 2008, Palestinian resistance groups in the Gaza Strip concluded a 6-moth Egyptian-brokered Tahdi’a (lull), which slightly eased the siege imposed on the Gaza Strip. However, the Tahdi’a effectively ended before the official declaration of its end and the Gaza Strip was on the verge on a severe humanitarian catastrophe. At the Palestinian level, the political fragmentation in the PNA, which impacted the Palestinian community structure and undermined the civil society, continued even though scenes of fighting between Fatah and Hamas movements in the Gaza Strip disappeared. In the last days of 2008, IOF launched an unprecedented military offensive on the Gaza Strip, which continued until the middle of January 2009. PCHR field workers made their best to monitor and document crimes committed by IOF.

A. Documentation of Violations of Human Rights and International Humanitarian Law by IOF

The unit carried out the following activities:

- Documentation of willful and extra-judicial killings, injuries, incursions, house raids and arrests perpetrated by IOF.
  In this context, the unit documented 793 killings, 2,258 injuries, 2,501 arrests, 2,000 incursions and house raids and 500 cases of aerial, sea and ground shelling by IOF.

- Documentation of restrictions imposed by IOF on the freedom of movement.
  The unit monitored and documented restrictions imposed by IOF on the freedom of movement, including the tightened siege imposed on the Gaza Strip and its impacts on the Palestinian civil, political, economic, social and cultural rights. In this context, field workers wrote hundreds of reports on the movement of goods and persons, including patients, at border crossings of the Gaza Strip. They documented the death of 50 patient in the Gaza Strip due to denial of access to medical treatment outside the Gaza Strip. The unit also wrote hundreds of reports on the impacts of the siege on the infrastructure, education, health and other vital sectors in the Gaza Strip. In the West Bank, the unit documented 162 cases of arresting Palestinians by IOF troops positioned at military checkpoints. It also documented two Palestinian deaths and at least 200 cases of harassment at IOF military checkpoints.

- Documentation of civilian property confiscation and destruction
  In the Gaza Strip, IOF destroyed 609 houses and civilian facilities and razed at least 3,420.5 donums of agricultural land. In the West Bank, IOF demolished 47 houses and razed hundreds of donums of agricultural land. In East Jerusalem, IOF demolished 60 houses claming that they had been built without licenses.

- Documentation of settlement activities, attacks by Israeli settlers against Palestinian civilians and property and developments related to the construction of the Annexation Wall in the West Bank.
  In 2008, the unit documented 254 attacks by Israeli settlers against Palestinian civilians and property. The unit also documented 296 injuries and dozens of arrests among Palestinians by IOF during the dispersion of peaceful demonstrations organized in protest to the construction of the Annexation Wall in the West Bank. The unit also wrote hundreds of reports on restrictions imposed by IOF on access of Palestinian farmers to their lands.

- Documentation of violations of the right to freedom of expression attacks against journalists and media institutions
  In 2008, the unit documented 132 attacks by IOF against journalists and media institutions, including closure of a number of institutions.

To be able to document such human rights violations, field workers carry out the following activities:

1. Field Visits and First-Hand Information
   Field workers conduct visits to the sites of violations of human rights, despite the dangers often existing in these areas. On average, a field worker can make 23 field visits to document one incident.

Means of Verification

- In 2008, field workers in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank conducted more than 10,000 field visits.

2. Interviews with Victims and/or Their Families and Eyewitnesses
   Field workers usually make interviews with several people on every single violation in order to verify the accuracy of information. Eyewitnesses are very important to draw a clear and real picture of single violations, especially when field workers are not able to reach immediately following a violation having taken place due to dangers they may face. Field workers have to work hard in this regard as they have to interview as many people as possible to ensure the accuracy of information, and interviews usually take long times.
Means of Verification

- In 2008, field workers made at least 6,000 interviews with victims and eyewitnesses.
- Field workers gathered at least 4,000 testimonies from victims and eyewitnesses.

3. Completion of Forms for Reports on Violations of Human Rights

These forms are designed to gather clear and accurate information to be entered into the database. Each form requests basic details on an incident, its location, timing, victim and witnesses. Field workers are required to complete a form for each violation they report. Many incidents require a number of different individual reports.

Means of Verification

- In 2008, field workers filled in 6,955 forms in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank: 793 of killing; 2,258 of injuries; 749 of land leveling (in the Gaza Strip only); and 451 of house destruction (in the Gaza Strip only). The unit is still unable to fill forms of land leveling and house destruction in the West Bank due to the low number of field workers working in such wide area.

4. Collating Photographic/Video Evidence

Field workers are required to take photographs or video footages of the scenes of violations wherever possible. Photographic or video evidence can provide valuable record of incidents for both legal and historical records.

Means of Verification

- The unit has hundreds of photographs of hundreds of human rights violations.

5. Collating Other Documentation Related to Human Rights Violations

Documents, including medical reports, ownership documents, personal photographs, clichés and maps, are also necessary evidence for legal and historical record of incidents.

Means of Verification

- Hundreds of documents were referred to various PCHR units according to their areas of specialization.
- Some of these documents were used by various PCHR units.

6. Writing Reports on Human Rights Violations

Field workers wrote detailed reports on human rights violations, in which eyewitnesses’ testimonies and the field workers’ notes are included, to give a comprehensive description of violations.

Means of Verification

- In 2008, field workers wrote at least 5,000 field reports on human rights violations.

7. Filing Israeli Violations of Human Rights

In 2008, the unit prepared a number of files of various human rights violations perpetrated by IOF in the West Bank, which are categorized according to governorates.

8. Scanning of Documents to Be Entered into the Database.

Indicators
- All documented human rights violations were entered into PCHR’s database.
- All human rights violations were covered in 50 weekly reports.
- The unit issued 21 press releases on human rights violations perpetrated by IOF.
- A number of cases were referred to PCHR Legal Aid Unit.
- Documents related restrictions on the freedom of movement were referred to PCHR Economic, Social and Cultural Rights.
- Materials available at the unit were used in writing PCHR’s annual report on the human rights situation in the OPT.
- Photographs taken by field workers were put on PCHR’s web site and publications.
- Materials available at the unit were used in press releases and reports issued by PCHR, especially the Economic, Social and Cultural Rights Unit.
- The unit director received scores of phone calls from other organizations inquiring about human rights violations.
- Materials available at the unit, including figures and statistics, were used in media interviews by PCHR staff.

Means of Verification
- The unit has hundreds of field reports on Israeli violations of human rights in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank, including East Jerusalem.
- The unit established 15 file categories of human rights violations.
- At least 100 photographs taken by field workers were published on PCHR’s web site.
- Photographs and other documents were used by other international, regional and local organizations.
- The unit received dozens of phone calls inquiring about certain human rights violations.
- The unit wrote 50 weekly reports and 21 press releases.
- Weekly reports and press releases prepared by the unit were published on PCHR’s web site.
- All human rights violations were entered into PCHR’s database.
- The unit staff conducted at least 14 media interviews.
- PCHR Legal Aid Unit pursued cases referred to it from the Field Work Unit.
- Materials available at the unit were used in 11 reports on the state of the Gaza Strip border crossings, 4 specialized reports and 8 press released prepared by the Economic, Social and Cultural Rights Unit and one report on extra-judicial executions by IOF prepared by the Democratic Development Unit.

Risks and Obstacles
- The wideness of the area of the West Bank, the small number of field workers working there and the partition of the West Bank territory into isolated cantons has made difficult for field workers to have access to places of human rights violations on appropriate time, which in effect disrupt legal intervention.

- Field workers in the Gaza Strip face dangers when attempting to reach areas of friction with IOF to document human rights violations on time.
- Victims have started to lose trust in the possibility of reparation for human rights violations by IOF, which has in effect impacted their cooperation with field workers.
- The change in the nature of the conflict and the separation between the West Bank and the Gaza Strip has made it difficult to have effective communication with field workers in the West Bank.

B. Documentation of Palestinian Violations of Human Rights

The unit carried out the following activities:

- Documentation of Killings and Injuries Related to the State of Lawlessness and Proliferation of Weapons in the OPT
  In this context, the unit documented 146 killings and 411 injuries related to the state of lawlessness and the misuse of weapons.

- Documented of Mass and Individual Arrests by security services of the dismissed government in Gaza and security services in the West Bank.
  The unit documented dozens of political arrests.

- Documentation of Cases of Torture in Detention Centers Administered by Hamas in the Gaza Strip and Those Administered by Palestinian Security Services in the West Bank
  The unit documented dozens of cases of torture.

- Documentation of Murders for “Family Honor”
  The unit documented 4 murders committed for “family honor.”

- Documentation of Violations of the Rights to Freedom of Expression and Peaceful Assembly and Attacks on Journalists and Media Institutions
  The unit documented dozens of attacks on journalists and media institution or persons because of their positions, opinions or participation in peaceful assemblies.

- Documentation of Attacks against Civil Society Organizations by the Dismissed Government in the Gaza Strip or the PNA Security Services in the West Bank
  In 2008, the unit documented dozens of attacks against civil society organizations. In the context of the political conflict between the two Palestinian governments in Gaza and Ramallah, 194 civil society organizations were closed in the Gaza Strip, while 10 ones were raided and attacked in the West Bank.
• Observation of the State of Economic and Social Rights in the Gaza Strip

The unit observed strikes of municipalities, hospitals, the public sector and others, and environmental problems. The most significant subject in 2008 was the strike of employees in the sectors of education and health in the Gaza Strip because of arbitrary transfers and dismissals by the Hamas government.

To be able to document human rights violations, field workers carry out the following activities:

1. Field Visits and First-Hand Information

Field workers conducted field visits to scenes of incidents, police stations, and hospitals to obtain further information on incidents. They also interviewed eyewitnesses. Field workers conducted thousands of field visits in 2008.

2. Interviews with Victims and/or Families and Eyewitnesses

Field workers are required to conduct interviews with several people regarding each incident in order to verify/cross-check information. Difficulties in obtaining accurate and detailed statements include witnesses’ fears of reprisals. In 2008, field workers made at least 7,000 interviews with victims and eyewitnesses, and gathered at least 3,000 testimonies from victims and eyewitnesses.

3. Completion of Forms for Reports on Violations of Human Rights

Field workers are required to complete a form for each violation they report. In 2008, field workers filled in 557 forms on human rights violations in the Gaza Strip and the West Bank.

4. Collating Photographic/Video Evidence

This activity is explained above.

5. Collating Other Documentation Related to Human Rights Violations

Documents, including medical reports, ownership documents and personal photographs, are also necessary evidence for legal and historical record of incidents. Obtaining such documents is not an easy job, but efforts made by field workers to obtain such documents are often fruitful.

6. Writing reports on Human Rights Violations

Field workers write detailed reports on human rights violations, in which eyewitnesses’ testimonies and the field workers’ notes are included, to give a comprehensive description of violations. In 2008, field workers wrote at least 5,000 reports on human rights violations.

7. Creating Files of Palestinian Violations of Human Rights

The unit makes files of human rights violations that are classified in accordance of the kind of violation.

Indicators

• The unit received at least 100 phone calls from interested people inquiring about certain violations.
• Information gathered by the unit was used in PCHR’s annual report.
• The unit staff members were interviewed by the media about violations 7 times.

Risks and Obstacles
• Executive bodies impose severe punishment on whoever provides information about violations of human rights, which makes it difficult for field workers to obtain such information.
• There are official parties in the West Bank that can confirm political arrests of Hamas members by Palestinian security services.
• Field workers have received threats from some individuals for publishing field information.

7. Escorting International Delegations on Field Visits

In 2008, the unit staff members escorted visiting international delegations and individuals on visits to locations throughout the Gaza Strip and provided on the spot briefings on recent incidents. They also organized meetings for international figures and PCHR international staff with victims.

Indicators

The unit staff members briefed the international delegations they escorted on the human rights situation in the OPT.

Means of Verification

In 2008, the unit staff members escorted 4 visiting international delegations and individuals on field visits throughout the Gaza Strip.
In 2008, the Economic, Social, and Cultural Rights Unit continued to monitor and document violations of economic, social and cultural rights in the OPT, particularly the Gaza Strip, as set out in its annual plan. In 2008, the political, economic, and social conditions in the OPT dramatically deteriorated, as IOF escalated their violations of Palestinian human rights, including economic, social and cultural rights, especially in the Gaza Strip. The total siege imposed by IOF on the OPT has left disastrous impacts on the humanitarian situation and has violated the economic and social rights of the Palestinian civilian population, particularly the rights to appropriate living conditions, health and education. This reality posed itself on the unit’s 2008 annual plan, and the unit focused some activities on developments related to the impacts of the closure imposed by IOF on the Palestinian economic, social and cultural rights. For this purpose, the unit continued to issue field updates documenting the impacts of the closure of border crossing of the Gaza Strip, especially Rafah International Crossing Point, on the economic and social conditions of the Palestinian civilian population, especially following Hamas’ takeover of the Gaza Strip on 15 June 2007. The unit continued to write periodic reports and studies on violations of economic, social and cultural rights perpetrated by IOF. It also continued its efforts to promote economic, social and cultural rights in the Palestinian society.

The unit was able to continue its fundamental activities, including preparation of a number of regular reports on economic, social, and cultural rights; holding public workshops; and participation in other PCHR activities and activities organized by other civil society groups in the Gaza Strip. The unit also promoted its activities at the media and community levels. In addition, the unit took the initiative to establish a coordinating committee, in cooperation with the office of the High Commissioner for Human Rights and rehabilitation centers for disabled persons, to follow up the implementation of recommendations concluded by the conference organized on 3 December 2007 on the occasion of the International Day of Disabled Persons.

Activities

The unit was forced to make some changes to such activities due to field developments in 2008 in the OPT, especially in the Gaza Strip, particularly the deterioration in the humanitarian situation in light the suspension of international financial aid, and the total siege and restrictions on the freedom of movement imposed by IOF.

1. Database on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights in the OPT
In 2008, the unit continued to create a database on economic, Social and Cultural Rights in the OPT, especially in the Gaza Strip. This database has the main source of information for the unit of violations of the rights of education, appropriate living conditions, work, health and development; attacks on fishermen; destruction of economic facilities; attacks on medical crews; deaths at border crossings and military checkpoints; and poverty and unemployment.

2. Meetings with Development Experts, Government Officials and Representatives of International Organizations

The unit held several meetings to raise the awareness on violations of the economic, social and cultural rights of the Palestinian civilian population. These meetings focused on the impacts of the total siege imposed by IOF on the OPT on the Palestinian economic, social and cultural rights.

- Meetings with international delegations representing NGOs, relief organizations, solidarity movements and the World Bank.
- Meetings with representatives of UN agencies, including UNRWA, WHO, OCHA and OHCHR.
- Meetings with ministers in the government of Gaza and representatives of local institutions.

As the living conditions of the Palestinian civilian population deteriorated and violations of their economic, social and cultural rights escalated, the unit was forced to focus most of its activities on this issue. In this context, the unit issued a report on the humanitarian crisis in the Gaza Strip resulting from the total siege and closure of border crossings. The report covered the period 26 June – 31 October 2008.

4. Field Updates on the State of Border Crossings of the Gaza Strip

In light of the closure of border crossings of the Gaza Strip, the unit continued to issue monthly updates on the state of border crossings of the Gaza Strip and the impacts of their closure on the economic, social and cultural rights of the Palestinian civilian population.

In 2008, the unit issued 9 of these updates:

- 10 – 31 January 2008: The update focused on the reduction of fuel supplies to the Gaza Strip and its impacts on economic and social rights of the Palestinian civilian population.
- 1 – 17 February 2008: The update focused on the suffering of Palestinian patients at Beit Hanoun (Erez) crossing while on their way to hospitals in Israel and the West Bank.
- 18 – 29 February 2008: The update focused on the impacts of the closure of border crossings on public health in the Gaza Strip.
- 1 – 31 March 2008: The update focused on the suffering of Palestinian fishermen as a result of the total siege and closure of border crossings.
- 1 April – 25 May 2008: The update focused on the suffering of families of prisoners detained in Israeli jails.
• 8 – 25 May 2008: The update focused on the impacts of the shortage in fuel supplies on the humanitarian conditions in the Gaza Strip.
• 26 May – 25 June 2008: The update focused on the deteriorating humanitarian conditions in the Gaza Strip as a result of continued closure of border crossings.
• 1 – 25 November 2008: The update focused on the impacts of the shortage in fuel supplies on the humanitarian conditions in the Gaza Strip.

5. Workshops and Conferences on Economic and Social Rights

• A Workshop on the Civil Service Employees’ Strike
  On 18 September 2008, the Palestinian Center for Human Rights (PCHR) organized a workshop in the Grand Palace Hotel in Gaza City on “the impacts of public sector employees’ strike on the rights of health and education.” Representatives of health and education syndicate bodies, some workers in health, education and human rights sectors and representatives of media institutions attended the workshop. The participants discussed the serious impacts of the strike on the sectors of health and education. They concluded a number of recommendations:

  1. Suspending the ongoing strikes to allow constructive talks.
  2. Ceasing the policy of mutual media incitement that may complicate the situation.
  3. Forming a professional independent and unaligned committee to investigate the relocations of employees managed by the Ministry of High Education in Gaza.
  4. Resuming the payment of salaries that had been cut off for political reasons.
  5. Immediate release of all employees who had been arrested for committing to the strike.
  6. Return of all employees to their work places.
  7. Establishing a committee to settle all disputes of syndicate nature.
  8. Organizing compensatory classes for students for the classes they had missed.
  9. Cancellation of decisions, including dismissal and relocations of employees, taken by the government of Gaza.

• A Conference on Repercussions of the Siege on the Civilian Population of the Gaza Strip
  On 6 March 2008, PCHR organized a conference on the repercussions of the siege on the civilian population of the Gaza Strip. Representatives of NGOs working in the field of health, education, economy and human rights and a number of academics and journalists participated in the conference. The first session of the conference focused on the impacts of the siege from the perspective of international humanitarian law and human rights law. The second session focused on the impacts of the siege on humanitarian services in the Gaza Strip. A number of working papers were submitted in the conference. The conference concluded a number of recommendations.
6. Press Releases on Violations of Economic, Social and Cultural Rights

In 2008, the unit issued 22 press releases that called upon the international community to intervene to stop the policy of collective punishment practiced by IOF against the Palestinian civilian population, in violation of their economic, social and cultural rights.

Activities not Included in the Annual Plan

Blood on Their Hands: Report on Child Killings by IOF in the Gaza Strip

In October 2008, PCHR issued a report on child killings by IOF in the Gaza Strip during the period June 2007 – June 2008. According to the report, during the reporting period, IOF killed 68 Palestinian children in the Gaza Strip. The report details killings and provides testimonies. It also highlights the psychological impacts of such killings on children who witnessed such attacks. Although the report focuses on the Gaza Strip, it also details killings of 12 Palestinian children by IOF in the West Bank. The report was widely covered by the media, especially in The Guardian on 21 October 2008. It is available in English on PCHR’s web page.
Training Unit

In 2008, the unit carried out activities detailed in its annual plan, but with slight changes to activities to adapt to emergent security and political developments, especially the tightened siege imposed by IOF on the Gaza Strip.

In 2008, the human rights situation in the Gaza Strip dramatically deteriorated due to the tightened siege imposed by IOF, including the reduction of fuel supplies allowed into the Gaza Strip, which in effect disrupted transportation. Additionally, the Palestinian government in Gaza closed dozens of civil society organizations throughout the Gaza Strip. These factors negatively impacted human rights and democracy education. In light of these developments, the unit was forced to make slight changes to its activities included in its annual plan.

Output (1)
Provision of Training Courses on Human Rights and Democracy,

In 2008, the unit distributed this output to 18 activities. Due to the severe situation resulting from the Israeli siege imposed on Gaza Strip, the unit was forced to make changes without dramatically affecting this output.

In total, the unit trained 439 persons instead of 400 as included in its annual plan. The participation of women in training courses organized by the unit was estimated at 59%. Average attendance was estimated at 80%. The number of training hours in 19 courses was 304.

The unit carried out its activities in cooperation and coordination with a number of regional and local non-governmental and governmental organizations, including Palestine Bar Association, UNRWA and Law Institute at Bir Zeit University. The number of participants in these courses was 439 persons representing at least 75 centers, societies and unions throughout the Gaza Strip. A number of specialized trainers from all PCHR units and from outside PCHR deliver lectures at training courses.

In 2008, the unit was able to carry out the 18 activities aimed at achieving this output. Additionally, the unit organized an additional course for young media professionals.

Issuing News Releases Related to the Unit’s Activities

In 2008, the unit issued 14 news releases covering its activities. Local newspapers reported on these activities.

Output (2)
Rising Awareness of 250 Individuals of Rights Ensured by International Human Rights Law

Through this activity, the unit seeks to introduce human rights issues, establish relations with civil society groups and increase the number of people who benefit from training activities organized by PCHR, as the unit is not able to meet all invitations by civil society groups to organize training courses for their members.

Output (4)
Maintaining Contacts with Trainees and Establishing an Alumni Organization

The unit continued its efforts to establish an alumni body that combines individuals who receive training at PCHR. The unit received dozens of persons who received training at PCHR and presented the idea of the alumni body to them. They welcomed the idea. However, the unit was not able, for reasons out of its control related to field developments in the Gaza Strip, to officially declare the establishment of the alumni body in spite of its de facto existence. The unit laid foundations for establishing this body through a number of steps. The unit prepared in 2006 a brochure to introduce the alumni body, including its goals, membership conditions and advantages, etc. However, the deterioration in the security situation precluded the official declaration of the establishment of this body.

In 2008, the unit filed contract details of 439 trainees. The list includes names, places of residence, work places, telephone and fax numbers, e-mails, the coordinating institutions, and the dates and places of courses.

In 2008, persons who received training at PCHR contributed to a number of activities organized by PCHR and other organizations:

- A number of trainees attended workshops organized by PCHR.
- A number of trainees assisted in the organization of 5 training courses through encouraging their colleagues to attend courses.
- A number of trainees assisted in the organization of 9 public meetings on death penalty, the rights of the child and the right to peaceful assembly.
- A trainee volunteered at the Field Work Unit.
- A number of trainees informed PCHR about human rights violations and some of them accompanied victims to PCHR.

- The unit used 3 journalists who had received training at PCHR to express their experience with human rights organizations as sources of information.
- A number of PCHR staff members were invited to workshops organized by organizations where trainees work.
- A number of trainees organized 21 visits for school children to PCHR’s offices.
- Many trainees often visit PCHR’s office and meet with the unit director for guidance.

Output (5)
Maintaining Relations with Civil Society Organizations through Training Activities

The unit contributes to promote PCHR’s relations with civil society organizations through participating in training activities organized by these organizations. The unit receives many invitations from governmental and non-governmental organizations to organize training courses for their members, delivering lectures or designing training programs due to the unit’s high professionalism.

However, activities in this context were limited as many civil society organizations were forced to stop their activities due to the Israeli siege and its impacts of the freedom of movement, or because the government in Gaza closed dozens of these organizations.

Activities Not Included in the Unit’s Annual Plan

At the beginning of the school year 2008-2009, the United Nations Relief and Works Agency for Palestine Refugees in the Near East (UNRWA) decided to incorporate human rights in the school curricula. This decision came as an outcome of joint persistent efforts between UNRWA and human rights organizations, especially PCHR. The Training Unit has cooperated with UNRWA for more than 6 years in the context of a joint project aiming at making the school environment appropriate for children to enjoy their rights. In this context, the unit has organized training courses in human rights, tolerance and mediation for directors of schools, teachers and administrative staff at UNRWA schools. The unit has also delivered lectures to parents on the rights of the child. Additionally, the unit receives visiting school children at its three offices. Such persistent efforts were matured by a special agreement between PCHR and UNRWA in February 2008. According to the agreement:

1. PCHR would conduct a survey of school curricula from the 1st to the 9th grades at UNRWA schools, whose students count 196,000, to verify their conformity to the principles of human rights and good citizenship.
2. PCHR would design a tool to measure the effects of teaching human rights for all grades at UNRWA schools.
3. PCHR would prepare a report analyzing the results and providing recommendations.

The project was implemented in stages:

Stage 1:
A team to implement the project was formed of: Deputy Director of PCHR; the unit director; UNRWA Human Rights Supervisor; 3 experts in education from al-Aqsa University in Gaza; an expert in statistics; and an artist.

Stage 2:
The team conducted a survey on the curricula at UNRWA schools from the 1st to the 9th grades.

Stage 3:
The team prepared enriching materials to incorporate human rights in the school curricula, and designed forms of exams, whose number was 36 (4 for each grade) during the period 8 March – 10 April 2008.

Stage 4:

Field Updates on the State of the Gaza Strip Border Crossings

In light of the unprecedented closure measures imposed by IOF on the Gaza Strip, the Economic, Social and Cultural Rights started to issue field updates documenting the state of the Gaza Strip border crossings. In 2008, PCHR issued 11 of these updates on 10 January, 04 February, 18 February, 04 March, 02 April, 11 May, 28 May, 02 July, 10 November, 25 November and 24 December.

Narratives under Siege

In order to highlight the impact of the siege and closure of the Gaza Strip on the civilian population, PCHR started in 2008 to publish a series of “Narratives under Siege.” These short articles are based on personal testimonies and experiences of life in the Gaza Strip. In 2008, PCHR published 23 narratives as shown in the following table.
